Rural Teachers' Salary Schedules Discussed Here

Teachers of rural schools in Central Alberta will be offered an increase in pay of $156 annually, not including ordinary increments of $100 each year, as a basis of negotiations for new salary contracts, it was decided at a meeting of school divisional board members who met in Lacombe Monday. Representatives of the meeting were board members from the Wetaskiwin, Camrose, Rocky Mountain House, Ponoka, Red Deer and Olds school divisions.

Salary schedules were discussed, and comparisons showed that each school division is paying approximately the same sum to teachers of rural schools. It was decided at the meeting that each school board should negotiate with the teachers' negotiation committees separately, on the basis of a $2,200 per year minimum and a $1,700 per year maximum salary schedule. Any board unable to negotiate a schedule on this basis is to report back to another meeting of the representative school board members which will be called when necessary.

Chairman of the meeting was Sir Arthur Stanbourne of the Red Deer School Division, while Mr. Forest Nelson of Olds acted as secretary.

Following the lengthy afternoon meeting, an informal banquet was held in the Adelphi Hotel. There were no speakers.

Turkey Contests Here Arouse Considerable Interest Xmas Eve

In spite of the fact that most records were being doled during Christmas shopping, a large number took time out to take part in the turkey contests held by the Lacombe Kinsmen Men's Markets on Christmas Eve.

A large number of cuts were placed in two jars at these two establishments, and the trick was to judge the correct or nearest correct number in each jar, for the winners to receive a nice Christmas Turkey each.

The 13 lb. turkey given away by the Pioneer Meat Market was won by Fred Cox with a close guess of 138, the correct number of nuts in the jar was 521. Wherefore Fred thought he would have to purchase a new turkey to roast this turkey is not known, but after being purchased the winner for C. L. Hay, who counted the nuts, before a crowd of interested persons Christmas Eve, he promptly decided to donate the bird to the Memorial Recreation Centre.

At the Lacombe Meat Market a 20¾ lb. turkey was the prize. This jar contained 1,047 nuts by actual count of Jack Morrison, who declared Curtis Hunt (no relation of the proprietor) the winner with a near guess of 1,503. Curtis apparently had a stove in which to cook this one, as he proudly took his prize home.

A Thought For The Week . . .

There are two very difficult things in the world. One is to make a name for oneself and the other is to keep it.

TO THE CITIZENS OF TOWN AND COUNTRY

Greetings. A happy and prosperous New Year to you all.

Looking back over the past year I feel we have come a long way in readjusting our social and business lives to a peace-time standard.

We are very fortunate to live in a rich and fertile district like Lacombe. We have a shortage of commodities which causes much concern, considerable inconvenience, but little, if any, hardship. Other and Ottawa and Ottawa.

The important thing to remember is that close co-operation of Town and Country is necessary if we are to make this community a better place in which to live. If we can gain strength by combining our resources, we will see 1947 one of the most prosperous and successful years that we have yet enjoyed.

May you all enjoy good health, the greatest blessing of all.

Sincerely yours,

MAYOR T. WILKES.

Hockey Match Featured by Free-For-All

Buffaloes, Capitols Tangle In Wild and Wooly Game Here

Lacombe Buffaloes didn't give their hockey fans a Christmas present by winning Monday night's exhibition fixture with Edmonton but instead a holiday crowd of 426 was treated to a wild and wooly hockey match before the Buffs finally succumbed, 8-4.

The score doesn't begin to tell the story. There were plenty of fast and furious end rushes, and innumerable scrambles around the nets. There was a rougher parade of players to the penalty box, and at one time in the third period, both teams had only four men on the ice, with two players aside sitting it out in the sin bin.

To round out the evening's entertainment, a free-for-all broke out on the ice in the third period, and players, referees found themselves involved in the melee. Of players, when the smoke of battle cleared away and order was restored, Dooley Hoos banished Menzies, Greene and Meldrum, and gave Jules Kilburn of Edmonton a combined major and misconduct penalty for attacking Referee Joe Greene. The embarrassed Greene reared its approval.

But throughout the excitement, the players found time to play a lot of good hockey. Plenty of smooth passing attacks were followed right at the goal mouth, as both teams showed plenty of power. One of the best goals of the night came off the stick of Art Park, a Lacombe youth who has been wearing an Edmonton sweater.

Art was greeted by the Lacombe fans as he made his first appearance on the ice, and Art rewarded them by accepting Ray Brown's pass a minute later to plant the puck behind Michael. The helper's contribution to a 5-1 lead which they held at the end of the first period.

The Caps increased their lead to 5-2 in the second period, but Buffs came back when they scored once of a freakish nature. The first one was counted on a wide shot which Edmonton defenseman cut off from Harrison's skate and into the net. The second goal came late in the period when goalie Red Michael caught a high shot from Bob Menzies. He bobbled it momentarily and the puck finally fell dizzily to the ice and trickled into the net.

Illness got a seat goal for the Buffs, and Lacombe missed close scores on several other occasions when they held a brief advantage in one-power.

Most of the excitement was packed into the third stanza as play roughened up. Both teams threw caution in the wind, and sent five-man attacks into the opposing zone, to keep the puck in the enemy blue line. Then there was a break, and it was the opposing side's turn to apply the pressure.

Shorty Jones hit the post on a setup play; Shonts broke his stick on a perfect pass-out; Don Jackson was robbed with the puck at his mercy; Norm Grant for the Caps wriggled past the Lacombe defense, threw out the goalie beautifully, and then shot the puck past the open net. These were some of the near scores, but it was the goals which paid off. Edmonton hit the pay dirt three times, and Lacombe counted twice.

LACOMBE 8, RED DEER 6

Lacombe Buffaloes and Red Deer Dusters played to a 6-6 draw in a fast and exciting New Year's day exhibition hockey game at the local arena. Only a small crowd turned out to see the two teams play their second game in which Al Shantz, cherry rosier centre for Lacombe during the season, led and led in scoring. He is at present a patient in the hospital here, and will be out of the local line-up for some time.

RED DEER 5, LACOMBE 2

A Red Deer Rumblers hustled the Lacombe Buffaloes a 5-2 setback in an exhibition game played at Red Deer last Saturday evening. A small crowd turned out to see both teams battle on fairly even terms for the entire game, but sloppy checking on the part of Lacombe led to two direct goals for the opportunity-conscious southern team.

Hockey Games Here Saturday And Tuesday

Lacombe Juveniles will play an exhibition game here Saturday night with the Olds Juveniles, in preparation. The local team, which lost out in a close 3-2 decision to the Eckville Interscholastics last week, is in good shape, and the game should be a fast and interesting bout.

Tuesday, January 7, Camrose Maroons will make their first appearance of the current hockey season in Lacombe, when they play a scheduled league game with the local Buffaloes. The Buffs are also expressing power with each game they play, and will be topple the Maroons in the first Lacombe appearance.

Juveniles Drop 3-2 Decision To Eckville Interscholastics Here

Lacombe Juveniles lost to the Eckville Interscholastics 3-2 in a crowd pleasing hockey match played at the local arena last Thursday afternoon. A large crowd turned out to see the game, which started out strong but weakened towards the final prog.

The Lacombe lineup included Al Calkins in goal; defencemen Murray Mackay, Gilmore, Bob Jackson and Marshall; forwards Tillotson, C. Calkins, Don Jackson, Haworth, Frizzell, Lund, Furgang, Kuhn and Davies.

LEAVES FOR CALIFORNIA

Lacombe School Division Boundaries Set; New Unit Becomes Effective January 1

New Division Includes 51 Schools

The long discussed, long-awaited Lacombe School Division came into existence with the advent of the New Year. Although the ministerial order setting up the new division has not yet been published in the official "Alberta Gazette", the Globe was informed this week that the order will definitely appear in the next issue of the Gazette, and that the order is retroactive to January 1. The new school division, consisting of 51 rural school districts, is now set up and in actual management. R. V. McAllister has been named as official trustee for the operation of the school division, and will act in that capacity until the election of a five-man divisional board. Election of board members is expected to take place on February 17, and the school division has been divided into five sub-divisions, with each subdivision to be represented by a trustee.

W. G. Frame, chief superintendent of schools for Alberta, told the Globe in a telephone interview Monday that the ministerial order setting up the division "is already in the hands of the printers", and appear within the next few days.

J. S. McKinley of Lacombe has been temporarily appointed secretary of the board by Mr. McAllister, and a permanent secretary will be hired by the elected board when the members are elected and hold their first meeting.

The new schools board comprises the new school division have been taken from four surrounding large school districts, and 12 rural school districts from the Ponoka school district included in the new Lacombe set-up, seven from Rocky Mountain House, six from Stettler and two from Red Deer. In addition, Schools in the Lacombe Village and Town school districts are included in the sub-divisions alongside this column.

The new school division is located on the east by a board any roughly from Mirror to Alix, on the north by the township line separating the Lacombe and Ponoka municipalities, on the south by the Blindman River, and on the west by the western boundary of the municipal district of Lacombe, west of R. .....

The Lacombe School District is the only urban unit in the new division, and will carry on in its present manner until such time as a divisional school board is established. It is, though, expected that representation will be made to the school divisional board by the trustees of the Lacombe school district as have Lacombe proper included in the new area. Crowded conditions in the present necessity of providing more high school rooms for town as well as rural pupils are known, though can best be solved by a merger of the two school areas, it is thought.

Decision to form the Lacombe School Division was made several months ago, but several technicalities and snarls had to be untangled before the school division was definitely established.

Hospital Visited By Santa Claus Christmas Day

While most of the residents of Lacombe awoke and laughed their way through the holiday season, it wasn't such a joyful time for everybody. Joy Purdue, 8½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Purdue, was taken to the Lacombe Memorial Hospital just before Christmas with pneumonia.

This is Joy's third attack of pneumonia since last fall. But although she spent Christmas and New Years in the hospital, her parents made the best of the season by taking all Joy's Christmas presents to her at the hospital Christmas day. Smiles and gaily-wrapped Christmas parcels were there, too.

Born Jessie J. Wheeler in York County, Nebraska, Mrs. Miller was married there and came to the Lacombe district in 1 ..1. She lived in the Jones' ..ity district until four years ago, when her husband predec..ased her, and she moved into Lacombe.

New Hospital Rates To Be In Effect Shortly

One dollar per day public ward rates will be in effect at the hospital in Lacombe, although the municipal hospital rate of one dollar per day is expected to be made retroactive to January 1 when final organization of the newly passed municipal hospital district is obtained.

A meeting of the councils of the town of Lacombe and the municipal district of Lacombe, together with the community hospital board and the provisional hospital board was expected to be held last week. These bodies will discuss the municipal hospital district here, and a resolution to this effect will request the government to rescind the legislation dealing with the district to be formed.

As soon as this legislation is rescinded, the municipal hospital district, which has been given the number 34, will be in full operation. It is anticipated, though, that some adjustment might be found to make municipal hospital rates effective at an early date.

Why Vicks Is So Good

For Relieving Miseries of

Childrens Colds

More than two generations ago—in grandmother's day—Vicks first discovered Vicks VapoRub. Today it is the most widely used external medicine for relieving miseries of children's colds. And here is the reason.

The moment you rub VapoRub on the throat, chest and back it heats—it starts to work two ways at once—and keeps on working for hours—in stimulating ways to help check coughing, to ease tightness and sore muscles, to relieve local congestion, to start relief at once—to help make it easier for children to get to sleep by morning! That's why VapoRub is so good when a child has colds. Try it!

Educational Costs

THE campaign by the Alberta School Trustees' Association to have the provincial government share a larger proportion of the total educational costs in Alberta will be launched on several fronts in the next few months. School trustees, both in the cities, towns and rural areas, have for some time been urging the provincial legislature to finance "at least 30%" of the total costs of education in the province. They point, with justification, to the fact that school costs at the present time are levied from land and improvements, and that the present grants cover but small a share of the total cost of education.

Few school districts or school divisions in the province are sufficiently strong financially to keep up to the rapidly increasing costs of education. Biggest feature in the large increase are teachers' salaries which are steadily doubled in the past ten years. Members of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance insist that salaries of teachers must increase still more if the gaps in the teacher shortage in the province are to be filled. It is estimated that there exists today a shortage of 2,500 teachers in the province and this shortage cannot be eliminated until teachers salaries reach a more equitable level with salaries of other professions.

This, then, is the problem. Where are school trustees to obtain sufficient revenue to meet the present teachers' salaries, not alone to cover probable higher salaries in the future? School trustees emphasize that the money must come from the provincial government which has a greater variety of taxation income than the school boards. Trustees insist that a greater proportion of the total revenue of the province must go towards meeting the costs of education in Alberta.

Their point is well taken, for school boards, with their only source of revenue coming from a straight land tax, cannot forever hope to meet the upward spiralling costs.

Confidence Needed

THE year 1946 dealt kindly with practically all districts in the province. The crop picture, on the whole, was a good one. Yields were above the average in most districts, and although hail struck disastrously in some areas, these areas were small, and did not seriously affect the overall crop picture. It was a good year for cattle, too, and prices held to a high level. It is true that farmers received a reasonable return on their work and investment.

Because of the wide spread prosperity among the farmers here, the town of Lacombe and the smaller hamlets and towns in this area had a prosperous year. In Lacombe proper, a widespread building program raised the assessed valuation of property here by over $100,000 in comparison to 1945 increase. Many new businesses opened, and with the addition of the new hospital, Lacombe is now able to offer more services to the residents of the district than in previous years.

Municipal affairs also changed considerably, and for the better, during 1946. The Lacombe and District Community Hospital changed its status to that of a Municipal Hospital District, the boundaries of a Lacombe School Division, long contemplated, finally took shape and became effective with the opening of the new year.

Shortages of materials, rapidly increasing cost of living, strikes, and the fear of inflation were some of the less pleasant happenings of 1946. Strikes in industrial areas; a strike of the Alberta Farmers' Union, and a threatened one of all kind of an uneasy, unsettled world with discordant views, and wide and diversified opinions.

As the New Year 1947 comes into its own, there are many serious problems to be settled. It is a year that will challenge the productive capacity of the world as a whole, and each individual specifically, it is a year that will likely decide the issue struggle between capital and labor; it is a year in which international accord and goodwill will be sorely tested as peace treaties are drawn up and finally passed.

But this country has not shrunk from this. Instead it has found new faith, vision, and with faith and confidence in the future, 1947 can and will be one of the most prosperous in its history. Such confidence and faith are vital in needed to usher in the New Year a truly happy and prosperous one.

Farming Notes

(From the Provincial Department of Agriculture)

Preparing Grain For Exhibition

To the young farm people of Alberta exhibiting grain at the forthcoming Provincial Junior Seed Fair in Calgary, the Field Crops Branch offers the following suggestions for preparation of samples:-

Examine your grain for the very best kernels. If you find 60% suitable for your exhibit you are lucky, and you can plan how you can eliminate the other 40%. In the easiest way. The poorer the sample still or suitable hand screens are the most efficient methods of augmenting the new-seed machine. After the undesirable kernels have been discarded, screen off also the oversize coarse kernels. Any few kernels with distinctly colour or quality, and such as show disease, mechanical damage, or immaturity, etc., may then be removed by hand.

A reasonable amount of polishing in a cotton sack will improve the lustre and increase the weight per measured bushel, but polishing must be done carefully, so as not to crowd the process by exposing the endosperm of oats and barley or by damaging the germ of wheat. How long your sample from high temperature to avoid excessive drying out and the consequent loss of weight.

The Provincial Junior Seed Fair will be held in Calgary on January 21st, 22nd, and 24th. Samples for exhibition must arrive at the Provincial Exhibition Department of Agriculture, Calgary, by Saturday, January 18th. Full details of rules, regulations and forms may be had on request from District Agriculturists, or from the Field Crops Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Cattle Grubs

Those beef files that were chasing your cattle last summer, they laid eggs on many Alberta cattle during the warm months, and now that the grubs hatched from those eggs are proving a source of discomfort and unthriftiness. In a short time they will be showing in the backs of cattle—and it is only then that we can do very much about it.

There is promising news from the Superintendent of Pest Control, J. L. Hutchison. He says that in each season cattle along more and more beef cows, are we realizing that treating cattle for grubs is good business. Last year more than 30% of all Alberta's cattle were treated. In 1947 a higher percentage is expected. Much of the credit for the cattle grub control with your District Agriculturist so that you will be ready for action when the time arrives.

Discuss 2-4, D

Returning this week from the North Central West Control Conference held at Dun Moines, Iowa, H. J. Mather, Supervisor of Weed Control for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, reported that the conference was similar to the several weed killers and extensive experimental work being done.

The committee on new herbicides reported that two years of research have proved 2,4,D preparations to be useful tools in the controlling field against weeds. Their preparations may be used to control broadleaved weeds in lawns, on ditch banks and farm crops, for spot treatment of unsightly weeds in grass pastures, and for the prevention of seed production of some annuals and perennials.

Some of the factors found to affect the results of 2, 4,D treatments are the kind of plant, stage of growth, soil moisture and fertility, and temperature. With reference to temperature, it is noted that low temperatures (40 degrees to 60 degrees) show up the speed of action more than they reduce the final effect of 2, 4,D. It was considered that early warnings against treatment at temperatures below 60 degrees F. were much too drastic. Extremely high temperatures may contribute to poor kills.

Annual Statement Of Royal Bank Reflects Prosperity

The steadily increasing dimensions of Canadian business, both at home and abroad, is clearly reflected in The Royal Bank of Canada annual balance sheet for the year ended November 30th published to-day.

Total assets which last year for the first time here equals between one and two billion dollars, now stand at the new record level of $1,000,000,000.00. Deposits by the public, including Dominion and Provincial Governments, have also substantially higher, having increased more than $171,503,000. It is understood that the greater part of this increase is in interest bearing deposits in Canada, a clear indication that the needs of private savings is being well satisfied.

The bank's investments in Government and other public securities including $1,000,000 in Canada 1946-60,000 of Government securities other than Canadian, now total $600,000,000, a very powerful position in the United States and British Government securities, Provincial and other bonds, debentures and stock now standing at 465,500,000, have increased $100,000,000.

The liquid position of the bank is, as usual very strong. Liquid assets now total $1,000,172,160, equal to 85.60% of the bank's liabilities to the public.

Go Ahead Sign Given to Construction Company

Preliminary Work Is Started On C.B.C. Broadcasting Station Here

Work started this week on construction of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's new radio station to be erected on the 1½ miles east section of the Lacombe-Stettler highway. Workmen have already constructed a rough road building to be used as a feed room and office, and it is expected that the excavating work for the tall towers will be started almost immediately.

The go-ahead signal for construction was received last week by the Mitchell Construction Company of Red Deer, who have been awarded the contract for erection of all buildings, sewer and drainage systems.

The station, designed to give the best broadcasting coverage has been in the blueprint stage for some time, but was held up for a few weeks on technicalities which have now evidently been ironed out.

It is expected that W. W. Grant, engineer in charge of construction for the CBC will return to Lacombe in the near future to supervise the installation of equipment. As far as is known, plans call for the station to be in operation by the end of the year.

Over 500 Fans Turn Out to Game

Lacombe, Camrose Battle To 6-6 Draw Tuesday

Camrose Mercuries and the Lacombe Buffaloes played to a 6-6 overtime draw on the Lacombe rink in the first game of a two game hockey game of the year. The Buffs blew a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period to trail 3-3 at the finish of the middle canto, and came roaring back in the prologue of the overtime to tie the score. The game at 3-3 with one minute left in regulation time. Both teams scored in overtime. It was a really heart-breaking game for the locals who outplayed Camrose for the major portion of fifty minutes of the play. A second period rush by Camrose, which netted them three shots, in addition to a well-opposed discouragement, and had the visitors leading 3-1 at the end of the session accounted for four of the seven goals against Lacombe.

The first period was pretty much of an all-Lacombe affair. Shoots took a beautiful pass from T. Jones at the 2:30 mark to score the first goal of the game. Camrose's Bill Jones took advantage of loose Maroon defencework to run home the next counter. Lacombe's Leo Ross two minutes later, Bill Jones scored his second goal of the night on passes from Shantz. Referee denied the twins for Camrose before the period ended, but Camrose converted a neat pass from Pretzlik into a goal about which there was no mistake.

The middle stanza saw a different story. Camrose dominated play on the ice. Cheering was loud, and the hottest man on the ice was Mercurian defenceman Bill Jones who kicked, quarrelled and bellyed at the shots which referee Hall gave him. The Maroons kept up a constant pressure, and Pruitt registered home for Camrose's first counter. Shantz Hamish saw to put the Maroons two goals up.

The Buffaloes, though, were far from beaten. During the final period they kept up a constant offensive, and only bad breaks and stellar goal-tending on the part of Delorey kept the locals from scoring more goals. Jay Greene scored the first goal at 2:26 seconds after the start of the period. From then until one minute to go, the ball of entertaining but not the puck into the net. Shantz, Hessian, Bowman Miles all missed what looked like sure counters as Delorey rose to the height of his career between the pipes. It wasn't until the 18.56 mark that Art Greene got a pass from brother Zep, toyed with the puck right in the goal crease, and finally flipped it back into the net.

After that, the overtime was an anti-climax. Again was Zep Greene's pass at the 4:25 mark to put Lacombe in the lead, and it looked for awhile as though the Buffs would come through with a well-deserved win. Two minutes before the end of the game, though, Muldoon received a pass from Pretzlik into a score when the Buff defence temporarily lapsed.

Camrose — W. Delorey; Tapp-chuk, Steen, Hessen, Muldoon, Bolin, Pruitt, Hall, Pretzlik, Kelsey and McLeo.

Lacombe — Shantz; Harrison, Emery, Menzies, W. Greene, Miles, Myers, J. Jones, Shantz, T. Jones, A. Greene, LeBlanc, Mel-machuk.

RED DEER 12, LACOMBE 4

Lacombe Buffaloes tripped down under a crushing 11-4 defeat last Saturday night at Red Deer when Pat muldoon Garnsey outshot the Buffs by a large margin. Lacombe players, who fought hard against the Red Deer onslaught, made the game interesting throughout, and the lopsided score does not effectively indicate the play. They with two, and I. Jones and Miles with one apiece, were the local sharpshooters.

A Thought For the Week . . .

It is not the oath that makes an honest man, but the inner the oath.

Service Board Discusses Farm Problems Monday

Members of the agricultural service board of the Lacombe district of Lacombe held a lengthy afternoon meeting in the office of the municipal secretary-treasurer on Monday. Weed spraying, soil conservation, and the setting up of a farm labor bureau in the area were the main topics of discussion.

It was decided to co-operate fully with the provincial government in the Dominion conservation assistance at Lacombe in connection with the bring to the farmers of the district the importance and seriousness of soil conservation. Plans call for the holding of demonstrations in the municipality by its experts and show its latest methods in soil conservation.

The T.B.-free area for the municipality was also discussed at length. A petition of two-thirds of all cattle owners in the municipality must sign a petition asking for the formation of such an area before it can be set up as a restricted area. It was decided to have these petitions circulated in each municipality in each township in the municipality in hopes that the circulation of the petitions within that township.

Spraying for weed control was also discussed at length. Stewart Chapman appeared before the board and discussed with them the possibility of a commercially operated weed spraying machine travelling from farm to farm over the municipality during the period of weed growth. The cost of such a machine would materially aid farmers who wished spraying done.

1947 Building Program Opened

Work Starts On New $10,000 Garage Here

Work started Saturday on a new service station and garage to be erected on the Imperial Oil property next to the Imperial Lumber Co. Ltd. in Lacombe. Permit for the building, which estimates the cost at $10,000, was taken out last week by Frank Adamson, local contractor, and he and owner who hopes to have the garage open and business started by the middle of February. Trees were cleared out of the ground, and work has already started on a shallow excavation for the garage. No full size basement is planned. The building, which will be of frame construction, will have a first floor and will be finished in stucco. Dimensions of the building is 32 ft. Thompson, well known lumberman of Lacombe.

Frank Adamson, who is building the garage, is a well known contractor in Lacombe, where he worked prior to the war on service station work for Imperial Oil. He expects to obtain his discharge from the army shortly. The garage, which will be modern in every respect, will handle the Bridge-Stabler Automobile agency in Lacombe, it is expected.

First building permit of the new year was taken out, though, by W. Schoenacker who applied for permission to erect a new home in Lacombe at an estimated cost of $2,500.

Hall Facilities Here Discussed at Joint Meeting

Members of the Memorial Recreation Club and Red Willows, met Thursday evening with the executive of the Canadian Legion to discuss improved hall facilities in Lacombe. C. D. Williamson, acting chairman of the Recreation Center Board, presided over the meeting. "Practically doubtful" if there would be any Legion building erected in addition to the Recreation Center this year. Building material shortages, and the high costs of labor, and provincial work for several weeks at least.

Mr. Boss was appointed to this new post Monday when Dr. W. H. Swift, superintendent of education, visited Lacombe, and asked him to take charge in Mr. McCullough's absence.

Fire Destroys Feed House On A. B. Haarstad Farm

An unusual fire occurred at the farm of Alfred Haarstad, in the Bentley district last Saturday afternoon, when a feed house with a quantity of oil feed was completely destroyed.

Fortunately there was no wind, and adjoining buildings, including sleeping quarters for 250 pigs, and 15 head of cattle, escaped damage.

Two men were cutting hay for feed when the fire started, and it is thought that either some of the hay got wrapped around the shaft and ignited from friction or that a spark started the blaze. The fence post by also caught fire, but was subdued by the help. The loss is estimated at five or six hundred dollars and was not covered by insurance.

McCullough, who was first named to the post, is seriously ill in Red Deer, and is not expected to be able to take up the duties of the school work for several weeks at least.

Mr. Ross will continue to attend to his duties in the Ponoka school division.

The meeting, which was called to discuss the consolidation difficulties, cleared up a lot of doubt in the minds of the executives of the two bodies. Legion members pledged all possible assistance to the Recreation Center Board, and it was suggested that consolidation into the Recreation Center Building committee for temporary use be carried out. Any building which the Legion might build for clubrooms would and conflict "in any way" with the Recreation Center, it was stated. Anxiety by Legion members that the building of the Memorial Recreation Center might be postponed indefinitely was shown, but Recreation Center Board members declared emphatically that work would start as soon as it was considered feasible.

Suffering China Calls

to Canadian Farmers

WAR has spread wreckage and suffering among the 500,000,000 people of Canada's Pacific neighbor — China.

Hoarded from farms and villages, millions of Chinese families are homeless, hungry and in rags, dying daily from starvation and disease. China was first to feel the Fascist onslaught. For eight terrible years—from July, 1937 to August, 1945—China heroically breasted the aggressor's hordes. Two years longer than any of her allies!

Farmers Call to Farmers

To day, China presents a heart-rending spectacle to Canadians mercifully spared the ravages of enemy guns and bombs. And especially to Canadian farmers!

About 83 per cent. of China's 500,000,000 people are peasant farmers.

The Japanese scourge of planes and artillery have been added, in many districts, flood or drought, at the height of seed grain. Besides the need for food, clothing and medical supplies, hospital equipment, there is urgent need for reconstruction of farms and houses.

Canada's Aid Essential

During the war, Canadians, through The Chinese War Relief Fund, sent to China some $3,654,000 in money and over 1,464,000 pounds of used clothing, valued at some $7,929,000. But the aftermath of war can be more terrible than war itself. The world-wide relief work of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Agency (UNRRA) ends March 1st in China. The burden will fall on voluntary agencies. Canadian Aid to China (formerly The Chinese War Relief Fund) is extended to the Nation. This is an urgent call to Canadian farmers to support this effort.

How YOU Can Help

To make it more convenient for YOU to participate, all Elevator agencies have been authorized to receive donations of part of grain deliveries as Aid to China.

When you deliver grain to your Elevator, simply tell the Elevator agent how many bushels you wish to donate to Canadian Aid to China.

The aim is one per cent. of the storage capacity of each Elevator. Will YOU help to make this possible?

Enlightened Self-Interest

This appeal is to our common humanity as citizens of the One World from which terrible years—from 1937 to 1945—China heroically breasted the aggressor's hordes. Two years longer than any of her allies!

WHAT TO DO

When you deliver grain to your Elevator, simply tell the Elevator Agent how many bushels you wish to donate to CANADIAN AID TO CHINA. Your Elevator will then issue a ticket in the name of CANADIAN AID TO CHINA for your donation. Official Receipts will be issued each year from your Provincial Headquarters for income tax purposes.

CANADIAN FARMERS, BE GENEROUS! CHINA, A GOOD NEIGHBOUR, NEEDS YOUR HELP!

This is the only sanctioned appeal to be made in Canada during the next twelve months for Chinese relief.

Unity Means Strength

POSSIBLE amalgamation of the three major farm organizations in Alberta seemed closer last week following the resolution passed at the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta. The U.F.A., definitely in favor of a merger with the two-division A.F.U., "providing it receives the continued support of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture" and so far as to appoint a strike ballot, with possible strike action under certain conditions. This writing of strike action into the constitution of the U.F.A. will probably go a long way towards pacifying the more militant A.F.U. the members of which voted against amalgamation with the U.F.A. at their convention held earlier this month.

Apparent reason for the A.F.U.'s decision against merger with other farm organizations was disagreement with the various bodies on strike action. Whether or not the U.F.A.'s decision to call for a strike only if 75% of its membership votes in favor of such a strike, and after full consultation with the Canadian Federation of Agriculture goes far enough to satisfy the more radical A.F.U. membership, is a point which will only be cleared up after the executives of the two bodies talk things over.

It is, therefore, a definite bid to encourage the merger of the two bodies with the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, and it is just as definitely a step in the right direction. Farmers, speaking with one voice through one organization which speaks for the vast majority of all farmers, will carry much more weight than will two or three farm organizations speaking singly for a smaller body of the farming population. Each of the three organizations, after all, have similar aims. The only disagreement has been the methods by which these aims might be reached.

By squaring away differences, submerging small grievances, and co-operating as a unit to improve farmers' markets and incomes, these organizations can set the economic pace of western Canada on a higher and more stable level.

Incentive and Income Tax

SINCE the end of hostilities, Canadians have been complaining to an ever-growing crescendo about the high income tax rate. Government officials have time and again stressed the necessity of this high rate of taxation as a primary duty in combating inflation. These officials have been declared on numerous occasions that too much purchasing power in the hands of the people of a time when consumer goods are in scarce supply would surely lead the economy of this country into an inflationary spiral. Therefore, they claim, inflation can be partially checked by withdrawing a high proportion of this purchasing power through the medium of income tax.

Doubt on the reasoning behind this claim is cast by George W. Spinney, president of the Bank of Montreal, who made some illuminating references to "Tax policy and the Tax Payer" at the 128th annual report of the Bank of Montreal. Mr. Spinney, in his address, claimed:

"I suggest that the concept of high taxation as an anti-inflationary measure in peacetime may be far from valid. Such taxation was accepted during the war as an essential contribution to victory, and in the knowledge that, because of war demands, individual living standards had to be reduced. As such, wartime taxation was an important weapon in the fight against inflation. But have we not already more than a little evidence that high taxation in peacetime is likely to have an entirely opposite effect? To the extent that it penalizes incentives and leads to additional cash demands to maintain take-home pay, current taxation becomes a potent inflationary and disruptive force. And in my opinion the level of taxation still in existence in Canada to-day rises well within this category."

There seems little doubt but that Mr. Spinney's remarks are sound. Definite evidence exists, even in this district, that progressive farmers have been refusing to work long hours because after reaching a certain income for the year they feel they are "working for the government". A sharp revision in the present rate of income taxation would definitely provide greater incentive to produce, and production, both of food stuffs and manufactured articles is the greatest single need in the world to-day.

Farming Notes

Know What You Sow

J. E. Birchall, supervisor of Crop Improvement, says that while it is extremely important to know what you sow in the case of seed of cereal grains it is even more important in the case of forage crop seeds. This is especially true if the crop is to be cut for seed for production. The best insurance in such a case is to buy only the variety of seed available. There is registered seed available of some kinds, certified in the Dominion and in some others and there is no need of higher grade than Commercial No. 1 in other cases. For seeding hay or pasture fields, seed running up to the standards of No. 1 seed is usually satisfactory except in the case of brome and crested wheat grass seed. It is wise to insist on certified seed of these grasses in order to avoid couch grass. Certified seed is field inspected and the seed is graded according to many rigid standards that are applied in the case of even No. 1 seed of the general mods of commerce.

A certain amount of buying and changer hands from one farm to another without benefit of grade. Weed seeds and even other forage crop seeds are hard for the inexperienced eye to detect in such small seeded crops. For this reason, the buying of ungraded seed, while it may be done in the first instance, may prove very expensive in the long run. Your neighbour may feel very sure of the purity of his seed but it is better to see a grade on it before buying it.

Through its forage crop policy, the Alberta Department of Agriculture has made quantity of seed seed available at cost in seed districts of the province. Seed seed is readily available from other sources in districts where there is no demand. Whether the policy operates in your district or not, your District Agriculturist will be glad to advise you on seeding obtained. Supplies are limited, so orders should be placed immediately.

Varietal Zonation Committee

The annual meeting of the Alberta Varietal Zonation committee was held in Edmonton recently to study data with regard to crop variation old and new, and to decide the future policy in regard to zones of the province. The committee consists of representatives of the University of Alberta and of the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture.

The two most important changes made were the addition of Montcalm barley to the recommended of melting barley varieties for zones 2, 3 and 4, and the addition of Lorain oats to the recommended oat varieties for zones 3 and 4. Zone 3 refers to the black soil area and zone 4 to the grey soil area of the province. Montcalm is a variety of rate, adapted to zones in which earliness and straw strength are of prime importance.

Shipping Fever

Dr. Ross Wallace, assistant to the Provincial Veterinarian, says that Hemorrhagic Septicaemia (Shipping Fever), can be considerably reduced if cattlen early applied precautionary measures. The hardships of shipping at this time of year, together with lack of rest, feed and water, or sudden changes of feed, have the effect of making cattle normally able to this disease. Hemorrhagic Septicaemia can be prevented by vaccinating with the double and reliable bacterins at least two weeks prior to shipping.

The use of Hemorrhagic Septicemia serum will produce rapid immunity, but the immunity will last only for about ten days. If serum is used, the animals may be re-vaccinated with a bacterin soon after they arrive at their destination.

On arrival at the farm of the purchaser, newly imported cattle should be kept in isolation for a period of ten days to two weeks, and protected with warm, dry, draft-free quarters and plenty of bedding. Exercise should be limited for the first ten days, and at the end of that time bring the cattle into gentle gradually. Immediately any sick animal showing signs of sickness and give large doses of serum.

Manner, recent brides of the Clive district, were honored at a recent double shower.

Rev. Wilbur Bowes rose to take a special matrimonial course in Edmonton prior to entering training with the R.C.A.F.

It was decided at a recent meeting of members of the Lacombe branch of the Women's Institute to disband for the duration of the war.

The emerging of 19 boys from the tenderfoot stage to that of full fledged Boy Scouts was the occasion of a large gathering of onlookers and parents in St. Cyprians Church Hall.

IMPORTANT GOVERNMENT NOTICE
Respecting Price Control

The Wartime Prices and Trade Regulations (Order in Council P.C. 8528 of November 1, 1941) established basic period maximum prices for goods and designated services. These regulations were passed under the authority of the War Measures Act and continued in force under the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945.

From time to time these basic maximum prices have been varied or fixed at fixed maximum but have been suspended in the case of particular goods and services by Orders issued by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board under the authority of the above Regulations. A few days ago a substantial number of suspensions from price control was announced.

I believe it is desirable therefore that a summary should now be published of those goods and services on which a legal maximum price remains in force under the provisions of the Wartime Prices and Trade Regulations so that all citizens may be given an opportunity to inform themselves of the law.

The complete price control regulations are contained in Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No. 604 which is available to the public at any office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and to which reference should be made for exact details.

Douglas Abbott
Minister of Finance.

Red Deer Outscores Luckless Buffaloes by 10-7 Count Saturday

A momentary lapse in the final period cost the Lacombe Buffaloes three goals and the hockey game in a Central Alberta Hockey League scheduled fixture at the local arena when the Red Deer Gunners won 10-7. With the game even at 7-7 at the 17 minute mark in the final period, it looked like a sure-off for the two battling teams. Red Deer however, with a terrific power play, rammed in three goals in one minute and seven seconds and put the game on ice.

It was a one-new scramble on sticky ice from the face off. Five goals were scored in the first five minutes of play, with Lacombe scoring three and Red Deer two in this opening spurt. From there on, play travelled from one end to the other in rapid succession, and the initial frame ended with Red Deer sporting a one goal lead.

Shantz for Lacombe tied up the game in the middle stanza at the 11 minute mark, after the Buffs had hammered in the Red Deer defence for minutes on end. Play in the second period was definitely in Lacombe's favor, with the luckless Buff players missing goals by inches, and Stewart in the Gunners' net coming through brilliantly on close-in shots to rob the hard-working Lacombe forwards.

Red Deer moved out ahead in front again at the seven minute mark in the last period, but the the Buffs came roaring back with Emery poking the puck past Stewart for the tying counter. Two minutes later, Emery twinkled the red light again for the Buffs, and it took the Gunners five minutes to tie the score, at 7-7.

Then, all of a sudden, the Buffs became disorganized by a determined Red Deer ganging attack which saw the puck dent the twine behind Michaels three times in just over a minute.

Over four hundred fans, many of them from Red Deer, saw the fast and rugged game.

Emery for Lacombe notched up three goals, with Shantz picking up two counters and Terry and Medwedyuk one each. Roy Jardine was Red Deer's most shorthanded ice man, he picked off two Kennedy with two, J. Jardine, Tomalty and Wight were the other scorers.

The game, which threatened to roughen up a bit was held well in check by officials McKinnon of Red Deer and Ross of Lacombe.

Fraser Rink Wins Second Prize in Ponoka Bonspiel

A Lacombe rink, skipped by Stewart Fraser packed up second place in the DeVilbiss event of the Ponoka bonspiel last week. The rink, with Don McFadden playing third, Bill Douglas second and Archie Gray lead, all but took first place in the competition, but lost out to Ponoka's veteran Buck Girling on the last rock in the twelfth end of the final.

Down 6-5 at the end of the ninth end, the local rink came back strong to lead 8-7 going home, only to see Girling pick up two points at the 12th end, to win 9-8. Score by ends was:

Stampeders Head Pee Wee Hockey League Here

Woods' Stampeders set Collins Coupars back 4-1 last Saturday morning to take over sole possession of first place in the local Pee-Wee hockey league. In the offer games played Saturday, Baines' Buffaloes trimmed Gallday's Golders 6-0 to remain third behind on third place in the four-team league. Stampeders with nine points head the standings, with the Coupars in second place with seven, Buffaloes with six, and the Gliders in the cellar with two points.

Woods, Bottle, Miller and Martin were the scorers for the Stampeders in the game against the Coupars with Gruver picking up the losers' sole goal. Brooks with a hat trick, and Kidd another two shutpsheoters in their bouts with the Gliders. Cruikshank with two and Baines with one counter finished off the scoring for the winners.

Colonels Down Buffaloes 15-1 Here Thursday

Wetaskiwin Colonels demonstrated last Thursday night why they had not lost a Central Alberta Hockey League game this year when they trounced the local Buffs by a 15-1 score. The Colonels smooth checker-board passing caused the Lacombe team a lot of trouble all night, and Michaels in the Buffs net was called upon to stop shot after shot from close in. Lacombe matched the smooth skating Wetaskiwin aggregation in the early stages of the game, and the game was tied 1-1 at the halfway mark in the first period. The first break of the game came when Art Greene was banished to the penalty box for playing with a broken stick. With the one-man advantage, Wetaskiwin poured on the pressure, and rammed home two goals within the two minutes.

The Buffs, trying hard to notch another counter, gave the Colonels brush fast time after time, to nail in on the virtually unprotected Michaels. Wetaskiwin made good advantage of the forward pass rule to the centre ice red line, and the Buffs power-plays and ganging attacks backfired. The score was 6-1 at the end of the first stanza, 10-1 at the end of the second, and the Colonels broke away to counter five times in the final frame.

In spite of the score, and the fact that the Colonels outplayed the Buffs, the score is no indication of the play.

Art Greene scored Lacombe's only counter early in the first period, and from there on the Buffs were unable to dent the twine in the Wetaskiwin net.

Lacombe Juveniles Wallop Olds, Red Deer During Week

Lacombe 12, Red Deer 2

Only a handful of local hockey fans turned out to see the Lacombe Juveniles wading the Red Deer boys-agers 12-2 in a fast and rugged hockey game played at the local arena Tuesday night. Red Deer countered first early in the opening session, and it took Lacombe 14 minutes to finally fish on the red light. Two goals by Land and one by Gilmour put Lacombe two up on Red Deer at the end of the first period.

In the second stanza, the locals rammed home five goals while Red Deer tallied only once, and in the final period, Lacombe scored five times without an answer from the Red Deer forwards.

Play was slow on the foul ice in the early stages of the game, but opened up as the Lacombe sharpshooters started to outdimeer their heavy guns.

MacKenzie scored twice within 11 seconds early in the second period, and added another towards the end of the period. Land and Frizzell also each countered one each before the final period started.

In the last session, Land continued twice to bring his total for the game to five, while Rusk, Tillotson and Davies all dented the twine in the Red Deer net.

Play was clean throughout, and the local boys showed plenty of class both on offense and defence.

Lacombe line-up was Al Calkins in goal; Gilmour, Jackson, Tillotson, Frizzell, Land, MacKenzie, Rusk, Davies, Baldwin, Furlong.

Lacombe 10, Olds 1

Lacombe Juveniles had far too much power for the Olds Juveniles when they downed the visitors team's locals 10-1 in a game played at 10th Saturday night on sticky ice. The local team outscored Olds 4-1 in the initial period, rammed home three more counters without a reply in the middle session, and rounded out the scoring with one in the final stanza. Only a small crowd turned out to see the contest.

Norm Land with four goals and one assist was Lacombe's biggest scorer with MacKenzie and Rusk both dentting the twine for a pair each. Frizzell and Haworth also picked a goal apiece in the game which saw the Lacombe aggregation sift through almost at will on the Olds defence. Frizzell with three assists, Tillotson with two, and Bob Jackson, Gilmour, Rusk and MacKenzie were the playmakers for the Lacombe's tallies.

Business in Lacombe Increases During the Season of 1946

Lacombe, being a shopping center for residents of Central Alberta, is now better able to serve its territory than at any other time in its history. New businesses and new stores were launched here during the year 1946, and here extended the services now available to include almost every line of business to serve townspeople or farmers of the area.

In spite of shortages which plagued business throughout the continent, merchants and business men of Lacombe did a superb job during the past year in providing hard-to-get merchandise and items to residents of the area. Queries were good in comparison to many other centers, and residents of the area profited by the quotas.

Among the new businesses started here during 1946 were a used store providing farmers with a complete line of high-grade used; a car and truck body repair and bumbler shop which is equipped to handle any size job on any make car or truck; a medical center second to none in the province; and other miscellaneous businesses which provide a wide range of services for the shoppers and residents of Central Alberta.

Big changes were made during the year, too, in community and municipal ventures. The local hospital became a municipal hospital to provide more services at lower cost to those needing hospitalization; the Lacombe school division, formed effective January 1, will make this town a focal point for education for an area containing about twenty-five townships. Erection of a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation radio transmitter here is now assured, and work has already started on this project.

All these things add up to one conclusion—advancement; and with the advancement of Lacombe, marches hand in hand the advancement of the district surrounding Lacombe. With the growth of this town, the services rendered by the town also increase. It is to the advancement of this town, this district and those services that the advertisers on this page dedicate themselves.

Jenkins' Groceteria Employs Staff of Seven Clerks

Jenkin's Groceteria has served Lacombe and district for the past twenty years and for thirteen of those years has been under the capable management of Charles Simpson. Business has flourished and is now four times as great as it was thirteen years ago. During the past years, customers at Jenkin's often found groceries that were unobtainable elsewhere, and Jenkin's Groceteria is noted for its fair treatment to regular customers and strangers alike. The store carries a complete line of groceries, and Mr. Simpson is assisted by an efficient staff of seven.

WEDDING
OF LOCAL INTEREST

BERENAK—CASELKA

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Caselka was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, January 18 when their youngest daughter, Helen Marie became the bride of Gordon Anton, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Berenak of Olds.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor length gown of white lace and net. She wore a veil falling from a small crown studded lace. She carried a bouquet of red roses, attending the bride as bridesmaids were Miss Grace Hansen, who wore a floor length dress of blue and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, and Miss H. Rice, R. N. who wore a floor length gown of pink and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Norman Vold, of Penoka, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man. C. C. Armstrong of Bentley officiated.

During the signing of the register, Miss Grace Hansen sang "I'll walk beside you."

Mrs. Caselka, mother of the bride, wore a green crepe dress with a corsage of pink and white carnations. Mrs. Berenak, mother of the groom, chose a dress of black crepe and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a delicious luncheon was served to about fifty guests. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake, flanked by tall pink candles. Mr. Armstrong proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom suitably responded.

Later the happy couple left for a short honeymoon to be spent in Calgary. They have now returned to their new home in Penoka.

Don Graham Comments on EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Those of us, local boys, were congratulating the local lad baby on reaching the 25th birthday in good health and excellent spirits. Here we have an old school mate of ours, who is now an important Life Insurance executive, had never been so celebrated with one.

In talking about Tom's recent promotion, his mother said to us: "Tom has made good in the same way that you boys have made good right here, by he I work, just as the boys and girls will be making good among us to take your places."

Men who work their way up in life seldom get to know how people care and love, how they live, and what they are aiming at. They know their should be a full insurance program for every rich, to enable owners to do their best, free from worry. They are specialists in selling program with safety.

We business is a business left by everybody, a great responsibility carries the future of each that had men. His business after a quarter of a century has grown to an enormous size and may go on to even greater heights. Tom is proud of what he has called to your organization.

Field Supervisor Stresses Fact That Grass Root Fibre Is Important Factor in Combating Soil Erosion

One of the principal reasons why so much trouble has been experienced on the prairies from soil drifting and soil erosion, is that the land has been cropped, year after year, by owners or tenants who have made little or no attempt to return to the soil, the fibre from the grass roots which originally were incorporated in it. This same catastrophe can happen here too, and will happen unless we plan now to arrange our ways of farming to guard against it.

Repeated and disastrous experiences have by now proved to many farmers the advisability of introducing some form of crop rotation in their land which involves use of grasses and clovers to restore fibre to the soil. Unfortunately, on many parts of the prairie, comparatively dry conditions limit the kinds of grasses that can be used successfully, but this is not the case in this area. However, a summary from the Dominion Experimental Station at Lethbridge shows that even the most drought-resistant grasses, especially crested wheat grass will dry out occasionally in the real dry years, and the roots of brome are coarse and bushy in comparison with crested wheat grass, Siberian wheat grass, or western rye grass, have a very poor root system for the control of erosion.

M. Letheridge, root fibre samples were taken from a series of grass plots that had been down for up 10 months before and last since been maintained as summer-fallow. It was found that when a cubic foot of soil from each plot was taken and all the roots extracted and oven dried, there were 5.12 grams of roots in the crested wheat grass sample, 1.06 grams of roots from the brome grass plots, 1.09 grams from the slender wheat grass plots, 1.03 grams from the alfalfa sample, and only .28 grams from a plot on which clover and Timothy had been sown mixed with grass or legumes to restore fibre to the soil.

One Local Rink Finishes in Money At Calgary Spiel

Harry Teare skipped his local rink of Moe Prissell, Harold Evans and Bill Bremner into the silverware brackets of the Heirsons' Bay event of the Calgary bonspiel last week. This rink was the only one of the four local rinks entering which brought back prizes from the big northern spiel. Harry and his curlers worked their way into the four's of the Bay event before being knocked out on the last rock of the game.

Tom Lorimer, veteran local curler, curled his way into the eight's of the same event before being eliminated. George Jones and his rink reached the eight's in the Union Trader event before being knocked out of further competition. The Stewart-Dunlop rink also attended the bonspiel from Lacombe but failed to place in the money.

First Game of Juvenile Playoffs Here Saturday

Lacombe Juveniles, who have displayed good scoring power this season, will play the first game of the provincial playoffs Saturday night at the local arena when they play host to the Mirror aggregation. The game will get underway at 8.00 p.m., and in the first of a home and home, total goals to count series. The second game is expected to be played in Mirror next week.

The local team will be augmented for the play offs by Holmes, Blanke, Mikiel, Gibson and Price of the Red Deer Juveniles, but will play under Lacombe colors for the play offs.

Winner of the Lacombe-Mirror series will play against the winner of the Coronation-Stettler series in the second round of the playdowns.

Torry Picks Up 3 Points as Buffaloes Outshade Edmonton 9-6

Center ice man Bill Torry scored two goals and picked up an assists as the Lacombe Buffaloes outscored the South Side Juniors of Edmonton 9-6 in a wild game played before a crowd of 500 fans here Saturday night. Lacombe moved ahead 3-2 at the end of the first period, outscored Edmonton 4-2 in the middle stanzas and outplayed the Juniors in the three goals in the last session.

It was a fast moving, aggressive Buffalo team that outskated and outfought the city juniors from the opening faceoff to the final whistle. Just over a minute later, Bill Torry weaved into the Olds zone and scored unassisted.

Michaels in the Lacombe nets played a topnotch game, and the defence in front of him gave him ironclad protection. The Buffs forwards were shifted into the Olds zone almost at will to ram home counters from close-in. Shoots took a pass from Bill Torry and Jones scored twice on passes from Art Greene, and Miles rapped home a Torry pass to end the scoring.

The Buffs played without the services of Don Brown and Art Greene on defence, while Michaels, regular goal keeper for the Buffs, was shot. Bill Riley guarded the nets for the locals and turned in a good game.

University Bears Outpoint Buffaloes 10-3 Here Thursday

University of Alberta's Golden Bears set back the Lacombe Buffaloes 10-3 in a one-sided hockey game played at the local arena Thursday night. The Buffs just couldn't get going, and the rubber rods boys from Varsity shaked rings around the local aggregation. Lacombe's goals came one in each period, while the visitors tallied five times in the opening two stanzas. Teams held to one counter in the middle Stanza and rammed home four goals in the final stanza.

About three hundred fans turned out to see the exhibition game.

Buffs Trim Olds 9-2 in First Game of Provincial Playoffs

Lacombe Buffaloes rode to a 9-2 victory over Olds in the first game of the provincial Intermediate hockey playoffs played at Olds Monday night. The Lacombe Buffs were dangerous in their win as they outscored Olds 4-1 in the first period, added a brace of goals in the second without a reply and tallied three goals to Olds one in the final session.

Michaels in the Lacombe nets played a topnotch game, and the defence in front of him gave him ironclad protection. The Buffs forwards were shifted into the Olds zone almost at will to ram home counters from close-in. Shoots took a pass from Bill Torry and Jones scored twice on passes from Art Greene, and Miles rapped home a Torry pass to end the scoring.

The Buffs played without the services of Don Brown and Art Greene on defence, while Michaels, regular goal keeper for the Buffs, was shot. Bill Riley guarded the nets for the locals and turned in a good game.

Juveniles Win 5-4 at Game In Red Deer

Lacombe's high-flying Juveniles topped the Red Deer Juvenile senior's by the score of 5-4 in a game played at Red Deer last Thursday night. The locals, playing high scoring hockey, outskated and outplayed the southerners by a decisive edge in every period. Lacombe moved ahead 1-0 towards the end of the first period on a solo effort by Macklin, which beat Holmes and Blanke each scored early in the middle stanza to put Red Deer one up. Lund for Lacombe took passes from Haworth and Friend, and with seconds spare near the halfway mark to deal the home team double the score 3-2 for Lacombe. Blanke for Red Deer again tied the game before Gilmour and then Tillotson counted for the locals before the end of the session.

Referee for Red Deer made the score 5-4 before Lacombe again hit the score sheet on goals by Haworth, Lund and MacKenzie.

It was a fairly fast game played on good ice, with Norm Lund being Lacombe's big goal-getter with Holmes, MacKenzie with two, and Gilmour, Tillotson and Haworth with one each.

Mayor Wilkes Returned

All Nominees Elected By Acclamation in Town Offices

Eight vacant positions in Lacombe were filled this week when all nominees were declared elected by acclamation at a meeting held on Monday. Mayor Thomas Wilkes was returned to office for 6th another two-year term as chief magistrate of the town. On the council, J. D. Williamson was re-elected to office, and J. Stanley Love was nominated to fill the vacancy left on the board by the retirement of Park. Mr. Park declined to run for office this year.

W. Avery and Dan A. Cameron were nominated and elected by acclamation to the board of the municipal hospital. These two men, both with a great deal of experience in public office, will represent the town on the board of the hospital. Three members of the municipal district of Lacombe will also act on the municipal hospital board to make up the governing body. Mr. Avery was for some years the chairman of the board of the municipal hospital district representing hospital board while Mr. Cameron served for considerable time on the town council.

On the school board, two of the retiring trustees were returned to office. Mrs. E. Wilson and Mrs. W. Frizzell will both serve on this board for another two years, while Cyril Rose was nominated to fill the vacancy left by Jack Perry, who is now residing in Rimbey.

Arrangements For Ice Carnival Feb. 15 Are Almost Completed

Good weather is all that is now needed to make the Community Carnival, February 15, the most successful of the year, in the opinion of the members of the Lion members of the carnival committee in charge, who have planned comprehensive arrangements for the event. Most of the committee members will be one of the main features of the day's program. Skaters from the Calgary Skaters' Club, Edmonton Skaters' Club, Innisfail and Armstrong will give exhibitions of figure and fancy skating.

A good price list for the racing and fancy events is expected to have been lined up, and prizes will be in line with the best ever offered. Lions are making special efforts this year to have a large number of contestants for the various events lodging events held in it previously, and it is anticipated that many local skaters will be dressed for the carnival.

Committee members will be present at all events of the day, and no one will be allowed on the ice during the events except those in charge.

The lumber truck, traveling south, reached the first of the mounting north, as both vehicles were rounding the curve. The driver and of the Edmonton lumber truck was headed for Calgary to be turned from the scene of the accident. Little damage was suffered by the gas truck.

YOUTH FOR CHRIST RALLY TO BE HELD HERE ON FEBRUARY 16

John D. Lundberg of Minneapolis, U.S.A., will be the guest speaker at the Youth for Christ meeting to be held on Thursday, February 13 at St. Andrew's United Church auditorium, Red Deer.

Mr. Lundberg is Field Director of the North Central Region of Youth for Christ International, sponsored by the Lacombe and District Board of Trade prior to the annual meeting, and scores of other ratepayers made their appearance after the repast. During the dinner Mrs. Jarlson introduced a number of numbers in the town and commented on the expansion of its business life.

Secretary C. B. Hyndman read a very comprehensive report of the last annual meeting, which was unanimously adopted.

Mayor Thomas Wilkes expressed his pleasure at such a large gathering, and the board was pleased to have provided an incentive to members of the council. "We are anxious to get from you information regarding the affairs of the town, and get some new viewpoints," he said. He referred to the new No. 2 highway running through the town, the street paving and the movement of a new town hall, which would also accommodate new fire fighting headquarters.

Councillors Report

Councillor F. O. D. Vickerson, chairman of the fire, water and light committee, in his report referred to the new light rate recently brought into effect by the Light and Power Co. at considerable saving to citizens. He said "I wish to say we are paying too much for our water, and unless a satisfactory arrangement can be made with the Light and Power Co. to have both established, the council proposes to have a by-law passed by the Board of Public Utilities. We also feel we are being overcharged for our water, and the chief worry of all committees was the alarming increase in the cost of fire insurance. He pointed out that the town could be saved many dollars if only the gas company, which he estimated had a potential of 75,000 cubic feet of gas per day, would establish a gas plant in the town. He said, "Lacombe is an ideal location for a gas plant, with its considerable industrial possibilities, owing to approximately 75,000, a large proportion of which was on the line retail, and which will be completely paid off by 1951."

Councillor W. F. Parsons, chairman of the relief and health committee, reported for his department, and Councillor J. C. Bain, chairman of the police and bylaws committee, gave his report. Councillor F. W. Burrows and Councillor R. Park, chairmen of the cemetery, works, and rink and entertainment committees respectively, were both out of town, and their reports were read by the secretary.

Mayor Wilkes in summing up said that Lacombe was fortunate in having that town of the town would be interested in the town's welfare, and the chief worry of all communities was the alarming increase in the cost of fire insurance. He pointed out that the town could be saved many dollars if only the gas company, which he estimated had a potential of 75,000 cubic feet of gas per day, would establish a gas plant in the town. He said, "Lacombe is an ideal location for a gas plant, with its considerable industrial possibilities, owing to approximately 75,000, a large proportion of which was on the line retail, and which will be completely paid off by 1951."

Councillors on Lighting

He mentioned that some residents had complained of the poor street lighting. He explained, that here again, an increase in taxes would be necessary to provide adequate lighting, and that a petition

New Highway Will Eliminate Bad Turns, Engineer Declares

Main object of the proposed new No. 2, highway between Red Deer and Penhold is to eliminate the present bad curves and turns, R. J. S. Garrett provincial highway engineer told the members of the Lacombe Lions Club at the regular meeting held in the Adelphia Hotel Monday evening. Mr. Garrett spoke very briefly and mentioned only that the new highway would have few curves and turns.

The route Calgary-Edmonton highway will be rerouted by means of an overhead bridge somewhere between Lacombe and Blackfalds, Mr. Garrett told the gathering.

District government Paul Hellis of southern Alberta also addressed the meeting, and informed those present of the district convention which will be held in Calgary, February 24 and 25. Mr. Hellis mentioned that this district had been the only one formed within the past few months, one each at Okotoks, Drumheller, Three Hills and Vermilion, and that ten more towns had expressed their desire to form Lions Clubs in their centres.

Ten Lacombe clubs are formed, Alberta would have more Lions' Clubs than Shriners, he declared.

Expect Heavy Poll in School Ballotin February 8

Heavy voting is expected to be fairly well cleared of the heavy snow drifts of the past week by the time the polls open for the purpose of sub-divisions four and five of the newly formed Lacombe school division go to the polls to elect their representatives on the divisional board.

In sub-division four, R. M. Gibson of Bentley, G. W. Thompson of Blackfalds, and David A. Park of Blackfalds are the candidates. In sub-division five, Ernest Lapp of Bentley and Jack W. Rogers of Bentley will be candidates.

Polls will be conducted in all sections of the various school districts within these two sub-divisions, and Secretary-Treasurer J. A. McCormick will be the secretaries of the various rural school boards, and will be open from two p.m. until four p.m.

Track Damaged In Collision at Downtown Corner

Trouble was held up Monday afternoon at the Royal Bank corner when a car driven by a Lacombe truck collided with a Calgary gas truck. Serious damage was suffered, although a few broke out on the gas truck. Prompt action with hand fire extinguishers saved possible serious damage.

The lumber truck, traveling south, reached the first of the mounting north, as both vehicles were rounding the curve. The driver and of the Edmonton lumber truck was headed for Calgary to be turned from the scene of the accident. Little damage was suffered by the gas truck.

A Healthy Sign

RESIDENTS of Lacombe are taking a much greater interest in the affairs of the town in recent years. This interest expressed itself at the annual meeting of the ratepayers held in the Church Hall last Friday night. Close to two hundred residents turned out to hear the reports of the various town officials, and take part in the discussion regarding town affairs.

This newly awakened interest is a healthy sign that Lacombe is a progressive town. This paper can recall with ease the annual meetings held in the late thirties when no one could be coaxed to the officials, and when it was necessary to send around for a ratepayer to act as chairman for the meeting.

Those days, let us hope, will never never have been, to be remembered, must remain the absolute and interest of each and every ratepayer within its boundaries. This interest is now shown, and the result is that Lacombe is showing an upsurge of population business, and building. Many matters of great import to the town must be decided this year. The location of the new Calgary-Edmonton highway, the question of paving streets and building more sidewalks, the matter of a new town policeman building, all these, and more, are matters to be discussed and decided upon within the near future.

The interest shown by the ratepayers is conclusive evidence that the solution to the various problems posed, will be in harmony with the feelings of the majority of the ratepayers.

Rumors Are Flying

RUMORS regarding businesses changing hands and prospect new buildings being erected have been both persistent and thick in and around Lacombe during the past few weeks. Efforts to track down these rumors have been akin to the impossible. Where some of the rumors originated, no one seems to know. One thing, though, seems definite, there is little truth, if any, in the majority of them.

There can be many slips between lease hilt and actual contract signing in real estate transactions, and until transactions are completed, there has been no change of business, nor any erection of new buildings. The Globe will endeavor to carry news of all major importance to its readers, but it will not carry rumors alone. For this reason, some of the many interesting "stories" of the past few weeks have not appeared in the columns of this paper.

Company - At Least

SPRING of the weather, (and who isn't these days?) Lacombe has not fared too badly in comparison with other parts of this country, and the world as a whole. Temperatures benefiting the forty below mark are not too easy to take, but only the poor unfortunate holding the output of Canada at bay, in the Yukon, where temperatures dropped to an official 84 degrees below zero over the week end, again, pity the poor residents of the British Isles where their home plumbing fixtures have been unable to stand up to the new weather, and water mains have been frozen solid—or pity the Germans where zero weather in Berlin, in the midst of country food supplies are wreaking untold hardship on the population.

And here in this country, southern Saskatchewan, where residents have spent most of the last month digging themselves out of snow drifts, only to have a fresh blizzard wipe away all their work and throw up even greater drifts.

No, life has been a trifle rough in this district the past week but if misery loves company, we've had lots of that.

From The Files Of The Lacombe Globe

Five Years Ago

A. McLean, member of the Lacombe volunteer fire brigade for eight years, was a guest of honor at a dinner sponsored by that body prior to his leaving for New Westminster, B.C.

Dr. C. L. Pearson, chief medical officer of the Red Deer Health Unit, speaking at a regular meeting of the Home and School Association, declared that he had found 368 defects in a recent examination of 420 pupils.

Lloyd Wallace, son of Mr and Mrs. George Wallace left for Toronto for his training in the R.C.A.F.

January 1942 was the second coldest in 36 years, according to weather records at the Experimental Station. The coldest was in 1936.

Final payment on the electric organ was reported at the annual meeting of the congregation of St Andrew's United Church.

Councillors Price and Parsons are returned by acclamation. Chairman J. S. McCormick, John Lehmann and A. H. Prissell are elected to the local school board.

Farming Notes

(From the Provincial Department of Agriculture)

Alfalfa Is King

(Experimental Farms News)

Ten years ago alfalfa was of minor importance among hay crops cultivated in Manitoba. This highly useful legume has endorsed a larger acreage each year, now occupying a prominent place as a forage in many parts of the province. The excellent feed value of the crop has long been recognized by stock men, but the severe winter conditions of its seed bedding proportion. The steadily growing realization that alfalfa is widely adapted to the soil and climatic conditions of the province, therefore has, in recent years, removed much of the reluctance of farmers to risk the price of experience and to obtain a stand. In spite of these unfavourable, however, alfalfa is scarcely known in some parts of Manitoba. Experiments at the Experimental Station Brandon, indicate that a more intensive use of this crop for hay is possible.

During the past six years the yield, irrigated, and other agronomic features of alfalfa varieties, grass species, and grass-alfalfa mixtures have been critically compared. Grimm, Ladak, and Vilmg were the alfalfa varieties tested. Timothy, brome grass, awnless brome grass, crested wheat grass and timothy. Pure stands of these varieties and species and mixtures of the grasses with alfalfa have been evaluated for hay production.

Yield and quality are the measuring sticks of the desirable agronomic features of a crop. The trials have reported have demonstrated decided superiority of alfalfa and alfalfa-grass mixtures over pure stands of grasses. Brome-alfalfa mixtures yielded 32 per cent more than brome alone; crested wheat-grass with alfalfa 23 per cent more than pure crested wheat-grass; and the timothy-alfalfa mixture exceeded timothy by 40 per cent. Pure stands of alfalfa approximated but never exceeded the same variety in mixture with a grass. Since each mixture is composed of at least 50 per cent grass, it is apparent that the increase in yield over pure grass is not entirely accounted for by the increase of alfalfa contained in the mixture. A beneficial effect of the grass on alfalfa production is indicated. The best grass-alfalfa mixture combined with alfalfa as compared with pure grass stands alone rose to three years of production hays shrinking witness to this effect.

Longevity is an exceedingly important feature to persistent, particularly if stands are allowed or really to obtain. Varieties and species vary in the ability to survive disease and insect attacks as well as unfavorable climatic and soil conditions. In three trials a reduction in stand was noted in timothy during the second crop year. Drought and unsuitable soil were responsible for the reduced crops. Grimm alfalfa was sharply reduced in stand between the third and fourth years, declining to 61% being the major cause. Ladak and Vilmg showed no stand decrease. The yield of Grimm was sharply reduced, following the disappearance of stand, in comparison with the other two varieties.

The ability of a crop to withstand high productive is equal to importance to more survival. Alfalfa and alfalfa-grass mixtures maintained high yields through four years of trials. Grass from yields, however, were reduced sharply after the second crop year, brome being particularly affected. While the grass-alfalfa mixtures gave no definite yield advantage over pure alfalfa they are preferred because they cure more readily at the end of high quality is, therefore, more easily obtained.

Soil Erosion

Anyone who has taken the trouble to watch a heavy rain brush or roll the soil down a steep may have been reminded of a giant planing mill passing the rough surface off a plank. Smoothing and evenly the surface is removed.

In soil erosion measurements by the Field Husbandry Division at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa, says Dr. F. D. Riley, Dominion Field Husbandman, it was somewhat startling to learn in 1935 that in the four months, June to October, 15 inches of rainfall washed 70 tons of soil per acre from the surface of a field of corn planted and cultivated up and down the slope at 5 per cent slope. On June 17, 1946, 65 tons of soil per acre were washed off the same plot by 3 inches of rain in exactly one hour. On an adjoining plot which was summerfallowed, the runoff in the same time was 72.5 tons of soil.

During the year 1945 growing season with 15.60 inches of rainfall and 1946 with 19.70 inches of rainfall the total soil runoff on a summerfallowed plot cultivated up and down the slope, measured, has amounted to 132 tons per acre. On corn cultivated up and down the slope 138 tons were lost. Measuring the soil made it more discernible and portion and the runoff on a measured summerfallow plot was only 114 tons during the same period while a measured corn plot lost only 109 tons of soil.

Planting the corn on the contour reduced the runoff still more to only 34 tons of soil per acre. With a ver crop of alfalfa only one quarter of a ton of soil was lost.

Expect Big Entry List In Bonspiel Starting Monday

Twenty-two entries are already in for the local curling bonspiel which gets underway next Monday for a three-day run of the local curling rink. Entries, which close on Sunday evening, have been coming in strongly the past few days, and it is probable that between thirty and forty rinks will compete in the four big events.

Don McFadden, bonspiel president and Harold Adler, spiel secretary, report keen interest among curlers, and it is expected that most of the rinks in Central Alberta will be represented in the various competitions.

A good prize list is being made up, and the prizes are expected to be of a high caliber for the competitors this year. The two main events are the Lacombe Herald and the Parson's Rose. Trophy, while the secondary competitions are the Burrows Dept. Store and Lowesmoe Limited Events.

Local Buffaloes Hold Strenuous Practices Here

The Buffaloes put a final touch to their hockey Tuesday evening when they engaged in a three-game-in-four-nights schedule. Frank Tomalty and the boys brought a tough one-hour practice Tuesday, and stated the boys were all ready for their league game against Camrose, Wednesday, and for the home game that will start behind the high flying Red Deer Canucks. The Buffs will be in Red Deer Thursday night, and play host to the Canucks here Saturday evening.

SCHOOL HI-LITES

(By Robert Wright)

Because of the cold weather last week, attendance dropped and many school activities were curtailed. In some rooms, the number present were cut to less than half of the total enrolled. Many country students were unable to get in because of blocked roads.

Hockey games and outers were rolled off. The Intermediate Boys Basketball team, Mr. M. Gibson manager, journeyed to Bentley where they put two to the Wizards in a regrettable Sunday afternoon game. The Juvenile provincial playoffs are the feature event this week-end, with final tough opposition from the Lacombe team, which has played first-class hockey all year.

The game, scheduled for 2:30, should be a crowd pleaser.

Back in the Intensive fun for her section Miss Ruth Wright, ed between the clo-sided games of the Inter-Intermediate Basketball and the provincial playoffs down. Wheeler's auto body boys were called in regular entries and had their uniforms first time in the A.H.A. provincial play off schedule It is believed that the postponed and cancelled games in the Central Alberta hockey league will be picked up as soon as the sectional provincial playoff series have finished.

Income Tax Discrepancies

LARGE charges about discrimination in income tax rulings are being made by Dominion Ads, self styled income tax experts and economic engineers of Saskatchewan. This week, which claims to have handled many hundreds of income tax returns in the Edmonton district, charges, and we quote from a recent letter: "Farmers residing in the Calgary district, that is south of Lacombe, have to pay more income tax than those residing in the Edmonton district or north of Lacombe."

According to the Saskatchewan firm, the Edmonton area can offer still greater farmers' discrimination figured on a five year average, taking as the years 1941 to 1945 inclusive. The Calgary area, on the latter claims, "seems to eliminate the year 1941 and put its farmers on just a four-year basis."

The letter then cites a case "Let's suppose that a farmer in Wetaskiwin and one at Red Deer have surrendered wheat during the years 1941 to 1945. The Wetaskiwin farmer's income, figured on a five-year average, would be non-taxable, but the Red Deer neighbor would have to shell out approximately $600 in income tax because his income would be computed on a four-year average instead of five."

This paper is not in a position to either prove or disprove the statements made by the Saskatchewan firm. These letters, however, are circulating throughout the district, and the charges made are too grave to be ignored. The Income Tax Division for the entire Dominion of Canada, and there should be no discrepancy in the interpretation of its clauses. There is already considerable antagonism towards present income tax rulings on farmers' incomes. Letters such as these only add fuel to this antagonism.

If the charges made are correct, then quick and immediate action by the income tax officials is surely the cover are in order. If the charges made are not correct, the income tax officials should most emphatically publicize the correct state of affairs.

Those School Costs

THE present school teacher shortage in Alberta is continuing to add farrows of worry to the brows of provincial educationists. Members of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance are pressing for higher salaries for their profession, and most said salaries are vitally necessary to entice young men and women into the school teaching ranks. To many such salary increases, school boards, fully realizing the gravity of the situation, are endeavoring to press the provincial government to assume a larger share of the total costs of education. The government in turn, is referring its inability to make such a large share of the costs.

And there the matter stands at present. As the Alberta educational council points out, the cost of the Alberta child was in the middle of a squeeze between the young people who won't go working, the local boards which don't want to raise taxes and the any higher, and the provincial government which throws up an entire bail-million in school grants and says 'that's all."

The school boards of the province are in a quandary regarding the teachers' bid for higher salaries. In the past few years, costs of education have risen drastically, and still rises are bind of local ratepayers, have skyrocketed. To an outsider it appears that the only solution to the question is to have the provincial government foot a much greater percentage of the educational bill. School boards, with their taxation powers limited to land and improvement taxes, have reached very near the saturation point on their requisitions. The provincial government, on the other hand, having recently concluded a favorable tax agreement with the Dominion government, has a fairly wide range of income from various items. It appears only right and proper that a greater proportion of the revenue derived from higher rates should be earmarked to help meet the costs of education in this province.

The greatest asset this province has is its children. They must be educated, and the costs of that education should be borne equally by all citizens of the province.

Canada May Lose Out

(Alberta Wheat Pool Bulletin)

CANADIAN farmers are definitely in danger of the flowering away the market for bacon in the United Kingdom. This statement was made by Sir Andrew Jones, head of the British Food Ministry in Canada, in an address to the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

During the war years Canada has built up her exports to Britain to an impressive level and in point of quality the Canadian product enjoys a reputation higher than ever before. Sir Andrew stated, but when the current heavy contract ends, Canada will face determined competition from Denmark and other European countries which aim to recover their position in the British market.

"Are you going to allow them to do to us at the expense of your own trade?" Sir Andrew asked. "If trends of the last few years are any guide to the matter, the answer is no. Seven production has decline i be 20 per cent since 1934 and, for this

Bees More Than Produce

Bees are kept principally for the production of honey and wax but these two products do not represent the true value of the bee to the economy of the country, says C. B. Gooderham, Provincial Apiarist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The two materials from which honey and wax are made is nectar secreted by flowers and by leaves and taken from them by bees. Flowers are part of the reproductive system of plants, containing the stamens and the pistil which are male and female organs respectively. In many varieties of plants the stamens and the pistil are borne in separate flowers or even on separate plants, in others the two are enclosed in a single flower in so to bear fruit, seed or vegetables, pollen must be transferred from stamens to pistil. This may be done in several ways but the chief agents in performing this service are insects. Of the insect agents the honey bee is the most important because she is the only one of these whose members can be controlled and who can be transported to any place where her services are required.

The bees of Lacombe pollinate clover and alfalfa in normal pollination which in itself is not sufficient. Sometimes most labour is done by insects especially in fruit-bearing plants, the flowers of one plant cannot be fertilized by pollen of the same plant and pollination is necessary. Pollen must be brought to it from some other plant of the same species, cross pollination, before fruit or seed can be formed. Cross pollination is considered to increase production even though the flower is capable of self pollination.

Surely the country people, of whom the majority are keen conservationists from the members of their own organizations, those who have elected Bunking they were putting in men in this responsible position who would do everything in their power to further the interests of their electors.

According to the minutes of the council meeting, the reason for cancelling your agreement is the control, therefore may we suggest that you discontinue public-baiting and the Weekly News and use the money thus saved to continue your support of the red cross.

We feel sure this would be a great deal more appreciated and do more good than the publication of this paper

We urge you to give this matter your serious consideration at your annual meeting and decide to keep up your end of the agreement.

Yours truly,

SPRUCEVILLE U.F.W.A.

More and Better Hogs

The urgent demand for Canadian bacon and the announcements from Ottawa of increased prices for pigs, offer to Alberta farmers an opportunity to build up a profitable industry. To encourage improved quality and increased production, a series of Bacon Hog Shows has been arranged for several points in Northern and Central Alberta. Samples of Wiltshire sides from hogs shipped from the district will be returned for inspection and at these Shows so that farmers of the area may inspect the finished product and learn what improvements are needed.

Demonstration of carcasses and discussion of required type will be rendered by officials of the Dominion Department of Agriculture Officials of the Alberta Department of Agriculture will be present with suggestions on feeding and management. The aim of these meetings is not merely to discuss improvement but to follow through with a definite hog production programme for the district to decide on ways and means of increasing both production and profit.

Bacon Shows during February have been arranged as follows: Lloydminster, February 24; Wainwright, February 25th; Edmonton, February 26, Kitscoty, February 26th; Provost, February 28, and Stettler, February 28. Keep in touch with your District Agricultural for details.

To the Editor,

Dear Sir

We understand that they contemplate closing the Lacombe public rest room. We, the ladies of the Calgrove district, think it would be a shame to close the town and country to keep this rest room open, as it is a great asset to the town and country people. Country people appreciate this service, especially people with small children.

—CROSWELL RESIDENT

House of Commons
Ottawa, Feb. 5, 47

Editor, Lacombe Globe

My attention has been called to your editorial "Power Before Theory," of January 16 last in which you say that "MP's can best perform their duties to those whom they represent by confining their interest and activities to their constituencies."

Also, and unfortunately, numerous duties in these days are endless like to simple as that. Canada is a member of the U.N.O., U.N.R.R.A., U.N.E.S.C.O., and has agreed to Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks, all of which have a very direct bearing upon the economic and material interests of all Canadians.

I am, besides, a member of the committee of External Affairs, in which matters of the House of Commons will be forced to take an increasing interest if they are to serve their constituents as they should

My purposes in accepting invitations to address meetings in the U.S.A. are to widen my knowledge and experience, and to do whatever I can to improve the relations between the Canadian and American peoples.

Probably you would be surprised if you knew the extent of the travelling which members undertake at the expense of their duties.

Sincerely yours,
NORMAN JACQUES,
(M.P. Wetaskiwin)

Members of External Affairs will however more and more important as time passes because whether we like it or not, the moral affairs will be more and more influenced by our material policies and commitments. I can assure you that my interest in

Meantime, I am at the service of my constituents as you say they may require and, on my return home at the end of the session, I shall be happy to render an account of my stewardship to them, as well as of parliament

Yours truly,
NORMAN JACQUES,
(M.P. Wetaskiwin)

Rumors Went Of Burial Of Son At Casino, Italy

Official word has been received by John Croft of Calgary (Sherwood) formerly of Tees, Alta., that his son, Pte. Walter Croft, reported missing in May 1945, was interred buried in a cemetery, permanently cared, in Casino, Italy. A marked map of his grave was sent with the message. Flowers have been planted on the grave and that a head stone will be erected there.

Bruce is the son of Mr. John Croft and the late Mrs. Croft of Tees.

Battle of Trafalgar is News of Day

Copy of London Times of 1805 Received at Lacombe Globe Office

In some of the London Times, dated November 7, 1805, was re ported the week from H. Walter Simpson, former local resident now residing at the Pacific coast. The old newspaper, wonderfully "well preserved, arrived in fold the office on Tuesday, and the interesting and curious dissatisfaction from the battle of Trafalgar, fought on the high seas of the victory On the 21st of October, 1805, by Lord Nelson, called "Nelson's Victory." A two-column article deals with the Battle of Trafalgar and its results to the combined squadrons of the French and Spanish fleets, under Admiral Villeneuve, "as proud an Admiral as ever wielded the Naval Standard of Britain."

Another column in the paper contains the list of the dead and injured. Two names were brought up in the Court yesterday, which is charged with "intent to pervade a felony." The name and court charged in time to publish the names of the officers and sailors who fell in the battle given by Englishmen of the day. The names of the officers read in court, in evidence, reads in this way, and the sailors' names were unquestionably art; you may see them in the paper, if you will and make a gentleman put up with the trouble. Lacombe Flying high paper report records, from our "other gentlemen's" property, thinking it to be a public property. Interrogated how he came by the unrepaid owner of the pro-party who looked upon the infringement of his book as suitable cause for a duel. The edition was an interesting study.

Bow Bridge Alarm System Installed At Local Bank

In an effort to combat the wave of bank hold-ups that has been sweeping the country in recent months, the Bank of Montreal in cooperation with a prominent agency, has devised a new alarm system and is installing it in its branches throughout the country as quickly as arrangements can be made to do so.

Here, in Lacombe, the Bank of Montreal branch is one of the first to be equipped with the new alarm system, and Bank Manager McDonald is pleased to announce his satisfaction at the peace of mind which the new protective arrangement affords.

The first to use a system of this type, the Bank of Montreal is confident that the comprehensive line of police departments across the country, and of a number of private agencies, will soon be made with other financial institutions for mutual protection.

Devised by police as "most commendable" and worthy of the "utmost co-operation", this system is based on the latest advances in protection and makes use of the most up-to-date equipment.

Democracy At Its Best

THE first annual meeting of ratepayers of the municipal district of Lacombe since the reorganization of the larger unit was held in Lacombe last Friday afternoon. There was a large attendance of ratepayers, at one time more in attendance, and all took an active and enthusiastic part in the discussions and in the voting on matters placed before the ratepayers.

Meetings such as these are invaluable to the councillors charged with carrying out the affairs of the municipality for the year to such public bodies. The true public opinion of the municipal regulations is noted frankly and without prejudice. Such ratepayers' can readily feel that he is consulted and advice and direct part in his means and government. Most of the discussions were interesting and enlightening, and there was a great deal of food for thought in the opinions advanced.

The attendance at the morning's discussions and the discussions were healthy signs of democracy working at its best.

When The Winner Loses

THE full lessons for the future which were learned home-lessons following V-E and V-J days become empty images, indeed, in Europe and Great Britain. Britain in particular is suffering just as severe as ended as may be which she was subject to during the war. The first crops has shaken the economic and political life of the country to the core, the food situation is still far from bright; the British experience is to-day and tomorrow.

If any proof were ever needed that victory or defeat in modern warfare it is received today Britain was her war against Europe and Nazism but the battle has left her in worse shape than it was in France. Let's will ever be as high again as the future as it has in the past. "To the victor goes the spoils" was a slogan of mercantile battles; battles which were fought with guns and lost before the days of present day economic complexities. And before the economic ends of a war have become apparent astronomical heights.

The British are a steadfast united nation, and by fortitude and determination sacrifice they will arise day rise above these present troubles. It is doubtful, however, if they will ever fully recover from the economic damage which a total war leaves of her productive life, and both such a truth will of her population.

Hitler is dead and gone but truly, the "evil that men do" lives after them.

Bright Prospects

NEWS of the production of the "wildcat" oil well at Pic Lake district will be received with enthusiasm by every resident of Alberta, and the Dominion. The recent decline in oil production in Turner Valley has sent the larger oil companies of this continent on expensive surveys and test drilling in all parts of Alberta. This well is one of the most promising of all, and if expectations are fulfilled, an oil field of Lake comparable to that at Turner Valley could well be the result.

Canada produces only about 10% of its oil and our requirements, and every well which proves itself to be a producer holds the promise of preventing that country's ever-increasing dependence on foreign oil. The speedy settlement of Alberta by oil workers and merchants points to the fact that oil in quantities is known to exist under the soil of this province. Once the oil resources are really tapped and production well underway the field for expansion of this province's economy is then tremendously. If oil is produced in Alberta in large quantities, every citizen of the province would prosper. The population would increase, more money would be in circulation, and farmers would have larger home markets for their produce.

All this of course is for the future. Officials have issued only cautiously worded statements regarding the future possibilities opened up by Leduc No. 1. Another well is now being drilled from the present new producer. Extensive experiments will have to be carried out before the actual worth of the new oil field is known. But for the present all the residents of the province can do is to wait and hope.

Farming Notes

Bathing Crop Diseases

Grasses and legumes pave with stem diseases of wheat and vegetables and can never conquer them by Kenneth J. Newby Director Bromus Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture Ottawa, and the Kenneth J. Newby Director of the Agricultural Institute of Canada in a recent address. But present treatment known is valid by considerably greater more a use for the work already done by said.

Speaking on the subject of agricultural conditions, Dr. Newby described the presently unresolved battle of science against other diseases. "But while we have certainly won the first round, there can be no such thing as permanent victory," he declared.

Dean Sampson, whose portfolio remained in abeyance until early enough to suffer less real damage than do professionals, is acceptable to all. When farmers learned that Sampson enjoyed rest only in certain years, they took to growing Durum; crooners but found that those suffered from rust rods and grief. Both, a letter department, was critically singed out by stem rust. Therefore prevented susceptible to lead lead and to oil. Only with the development of newer wheat varieties, such as Neepawa, Red Bogent, Renown and Pilot could plant growers feel that they were any longer should their crops.

Among new agricultural problems confronting the Canadian economy, Dr. Newby listed fertilizer disease, pests not noticeable within bounds of problems, pesticide from improved virus diseases of stems fruits including "little cherry" virus disease, flax bollworms, and Japanese beetle.

"Since crops and the work are connected to numerous and varied ills so far excluded from Canada, further trouble may be expected," he predicted.

Egg Demands

Canada's immediate poultry protective programs depends on producing eggs when the buyer wants them. This means production of increased quantities of eggs in the early fall and winter months a stepping forward of production rather than encouraging the total amount. Canadian poultry producers responded to the demand for more eggs during the war years; but there are indications in all over the post season of egg production to put choosing their chicks, month to two months earlier.

Dr. Newby, early fall and winter eggs. By the producers co-operating with their hatcheries on ordering chicks for 1947 for delivery in February and March, more eggs in the fall will be made available for export. Boats will be available in the fall for shipping eggs to Britain. So as not to take the best, orders for chicks should be placed immediately. Producers who do so will get the benefit of next fall's higher market prices.

Why Grow Flax

In spite of the present guaranteed price for wheat, Alberta farmers are not losing sight of the possibility of a future market. They are looking for other crops that may be equally profitable and still at the same time fit well into the farming programme. In the theory of early crop officials of the Field Crops Branch suggest that flax should have a high priority where clean land is available. This is especially true in Southern Alberta where our largest wheat growers as soon. Flax is not damaged by wireflies and does not readily recruit replace some of the wheat acreage in that area.

Besides proving profitable if grown on suitable land, flax produced in 1947 will help to relieve the present serious shortage of fats and oils. Only nearly thousand of Alberta's cultivated acreage was sown to flax in 1946. It could well be increased to at least three hundred thousand acres this year. Every hundred will be needed.

Farmers who have not grown flax previously must remember the price of seed high in relation to that of seed wheat. The cost per acre however, is not much high, since the rate of seeding is only 25 to 30 pounds per acre if the seed is handled from a distance then habit rate of seeding is also an important factor in transportation. The average farm crop will carry on one load enough seed for a run of about acreage.

Letters To The Editor

All letters to the editor must be signed by the writers, but not necessarily for publication. In the case of anonymous letters the right to shorten lengthy letters, eliminate excess and in this column are those of the writer alone, and are not necessarily those of this paper.

February 13, 1947

The Editor Lacombe Globe.

Dear Sir:

The writer has noted your editorial in the last issue of the Globe, pertaining to the income tax discrepancies disclosed by our circular letter.

We note that your comments almost lead to disagreement of our action, and further to imply that the income tax department is incapable of remedying this discrepancy. Per your information, the writer is armed with actual facts which will be presented at meetings next week at Markerville, Sylvan Lake Red Deer and Penhold.

Moreover, the Calmary office in its correspondence does not state that the Edmonton office publication is different from that administered by Edmonton inspector but rather allies for this disparity but weakly. No, kind Sir, this time the Calgary officers of the income tax department have really stepped into something!

Yours truly,
Business Unit,
Wm. Hammond.

IMPERIAL CANADIAN C-I-L THROUGH CHEMISTRY
"Chemistry?"
"...SURE, I STARTED IT THIS YEAR!"
Yes, son, you're now starting up with formulas and figures. But chemistry has been with you all your life. In one form or another it has provided your home, helped to feed and clothe you and provided many of the things that have made your young career so useful.
Now you are learning how this great service works. Your first simple experiments are the roots from which spring such basic products as explosives, paints, rayon, fertilizers to stimulate food growth, insecticides to kill pests and guard crops, medical paint to protect and beautify. You know the whole list by heart, by example. The same principle is made as a manufacturer, so strong that it is used for fishing line leaders and tennis racket strings.
Chemistry never stands still. It is constantly searching for and finding new and better products. For this is a chemical world and the C-I-L Oval is the symbol of an organization devoted to serving Canadians through chemistry.

The "Speech"

A KING'S SPEECH by the provincial premier and that is supposed to deep the mind of every one has been greeted with widespread approval throughout the province. The announcement made in the Speech From the Throne which opened the fourth session of fourth legislature of Alberta Thursday afternoon of last week. The second year ten, which has caused so much criticism and discussion as it has everyone has been a longer in the Alberta assembly than any of its predecessors for many years. Its passing will come as great relief to the hands of hard citizens throughout the province.

A long session is forecast as the Speech from the Throne indicates a full program of legislation the government are certain control service plans. In the field of health services, steps is to be laid on preventative health measures, additional full time health units will be established, free medical and hospital care will be provided for in not already made during the session for recipients of welfare allowances and their dependents, as well as for old age and blind pensioners, better supervision of homes in which children are boarded for care by the child welfare department will be provided by amendments to the act governing this service.

One of the boldest debates of the session can be expected on the question of the provincial government's share of the costs of education. It is suggested in the Speech that the government is prepared to take a larger share of those costs through substantially increased subsidies, but just how they may be expected to rise is a matter for the future to disclose.

Other highlights in the government's program for the present session are Legislation of the proposed Dominion-Provincial agreements on tax transfer, sharing of costs in southern irrigation projects, provision of the eastern water-shed of the Rocky Mountains, extension of rural electrification, revision of the program of studies in elementary schools, widespread promotion of the tourist industry.

Farming Notes

Heading Screenings

Seed screenings time is here, and with it is very important that they be properly reported. Following cleaning of their seed grain at local seed cleaning plants or country elevators, many farmers are faced with the screenings in open wagon or truck boxes, the mainly dusty many of these seeds are blowing off the land and lying in wait for the spring weather and later along the roadside or on neighbor's fields.

Handling weed seeds in this manner is not only contrary to The Noxious Weeds Act, says H. J. Mather, Supervisor of Weed Control and Seed Control, but it shows very poor management on the part of the offender. Many of our most troublesome weeds have been spread in this way.

Where care is exped in transporting screenings, there these either in field refills or in a light box covered with a tarpaulin.

The School Problem

BOARDS of the Lacombe school divisions and the Lacombe school district last week had their first joint conference regarding the year 1947. The former anticipated an expenditure of $126,128, and the latter estimated their 1947 expenses to be $63,500. Totalling these two amounts, the combined town and surrounding district's anticipated need for education amount to $189,707 for the year 1947.

This total constitutes a staggering figure to the taxpayers of Lacombe. Even though an hour man's pollster, would amount to no more than $425,000, leaving the landowners in the town and district to gather the dollars. This is based on the anticipated value of education for the current year.

When it is remembered the landowners as both town and country have many other commitments to meet, roads and streets, administration costs, public utilities, relief and several services, the grit and burden of taxation on the land would indicate that the saturation point has been reached if not passed.

While the provincial government embarked on the lapsed from the Throne which opened the legislature some months, that legislation would be brought forth to increase the grants to schools, it appears dubious that the grants will be increased sufficiently to take the top hour load off the present taxes on the land. The Alberta Educational Council recently completed requesting the provincial government to meet 40 of all educational costs as the province would appear to be based on need ground. With costs continuing to rise the municipalities and hence most cannot be asked to foster fight to provide proper educational facilities for their children and at the same time keep the taxes on the land down to a reasonable level. The only manner in which this can be done is for the provincial government to turn a large portion of their huge annual surplus profits into the department of education to help meet the skyrocketing costs.

Farming Notes

Forage Crops

J. L. Birdsall, supervisor of crop improvement, says that every farmer and rancher in Alberta who has not already scheduled forage crops in his programme would benefit by so doing. Two experiments were conducted this year which should help and variety must be chosen and proper seeding rates used.

Forage crops produce an abundance of rich palatable feed. This result in greater carrying capacity of pastures, an increase of hay. There are however many limitations to their production. These benefits to the field of soil conservation and reforestation. The end can be kept down to a minimum, fertility can be added or retained, and weeds fight a losing battle when they come into competition with forage crops.

Instead of growing a grain or legume alone for hay or pasture try mixture of the two, suggests Mr. Birdsall. In this way you will combine the advantage of each and avoid most of the disadvantages. Mixtures give greater yields of hay or pasture than either grass or legume used singly. For hay, a mixture is desirable because it is superior to grass in feeding value and is more easily harvested and cured than a legume.

In pastures, a mixture provides grazing throughout the season, whereas a grass or legume alone will be good for only part of the season. A mixture also has the advantage of helping the life to remain longer than a legume alone. For both hay and pasture, mixtures are desirable from the standpoint of soil improvement. They are useful in weed control, and they will prevent that unproductive and hazard condition that so often arises where grass is grown alone.

Information on the most suitable forage crops for your farm can be obtained from your District Agriculturist who can also tell you where good seed may be procured.

Soil Conservation

Speaking this week at the three-day spring meeting of Soil Conservation Service, H. J. Hoffer, supervisor of Soil Conservation and Weed Control, served the point off without a doubt. Some of his remarks are of the soil.

To get an idea of what can happen to Mother Nature's farmland to figures taken from reports of the Unit. of States Soil Conservation Service in the effort that 50 million acres of good agricultural land in that country has already been destroyed as a result of erosion. This hundred million more acres have suffered a loss of 75% of the top soil, and still go-ther 100 million acres 25% of the top soil has been destroyed. He pointed to another danger that is facing us here in Alberta and said that through careless farming practices, and that has taken thousands of years to build is being washed and is seriously destroyed.

Our agricultural soils are showing very definite lack of fertility and Mr Hoffer He said been brought on by cropping and soils improved by the use of crop rotations and correct cultural methods (tree cultivation he said, must be a soil of Surface cultivation the use of trash cover, and retention of grasses and legumes in the rotation all point the way to keeping the soil where it belongs and preserving that condition of fifth that will ensure the absorption and retention of moisture

Swine Marketing

Dominion Live Stock market reports show a decline in swine marketings in 1946 for every province in Canada. The difference between the three largest swine producing provinces, Ontario and Alberta is startling. In 1945 Alberta marketed 1 000 150 hogs. the largest number from any province in the Dominion. Ontario was a close second with 1 888 000. In 1946 Ontario showed a reduction from the previous year of 2% only while Alberta's marketings dropped 35%.

There are several factors where the percentage of decline has been greater than in Alberta, but the comparatively large numbers of swine produced in Ontario and Quebec make such a marked reduction a effect of these provinces of serious consequence Alberta's percentage of Dominion marketings was 33.2 in 1945 as compared with 28% in 1946

Several interest among the farmers of Alberta indicates that the hog has been restocked and that in 1947 increases in swine marketings from this province must be expected

SERVING CANADIANS THROUGH CHEMISTRY

"Chemistry?... I DON'T HANDLE IT!"

Even storekeepers may think he doesn't handle chemistry, but everything he sells from customers jewelry to refrigerators, is in whole or in part, a chemical product.

Chemistry is a vital factor in fabrics and foods, leather and toys. It's at the cosmetic counter and in the hardware department. You find it more and more whenever you shop—in rayon hosiery, fabrics and textiles, in new plastic articles and in "Cellophane" wrappings to protect goods and make them more attractive.

The chemical industry never stands still. It continues to create new useful products and to improve many old ones. It contributes to the well-being of all of us . . . with the C-I-L seal the symbol of an organization devoted to serving Canadians through chemistry.

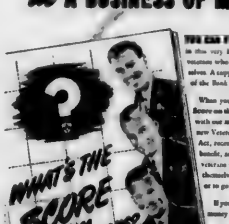
Can I get started in A BUSINESS OF MY OWN?



You can find the answer ... in this very booklet. We have published a list ... reasons who have the urge to start up for themselves. A copy is yours for the asking at any branch of the Bank of Montreal.

When you call for your copy of "What's the Score on these Veterans' Loans?", have a word with our manager. He knows the details of the new Veterans Business and Professional Loans Act, recently passed by Parliament for your benefit, and he is anxious to help ex-service veterans who want to start in business for themselves, to improve their present set up or to go into partnership with a friend.

If your proposition is sound, there's money for you at the B of M.

Remember, when you ask for a loan at the B of M, you do not ask a favour.

(By Robert Wright)

Often it has been heard of school students going to a hockey game in some other town and not enough room to travel the next day, but it is doubtful if a teacher has ever before missed anything both for classes because of it. Well, Yet now it can be down on the records as such, for Principal Mr. Mc Rae, the Grade nine teacher, drove up to Edmonton to see the University Hockey team. But he had bad luck A little way out of city a spring broke on his car and headed back. He was fined a Rex Edmonton was finally reached, but not a place could be found open to fix the spring. Then, the next morning the grade nine pupils arrived at school to find no teacher. Principal Pinch took over part of the class, so he had other classes the students were dismissed to the office room. Mr Rae arrived back in town after four Friday afternoon, so it was learned Saturday that the grade misses got back to work. Of course, they didn't mind the holiday, in fact, there is a vague rumor that they would very much like Mr. Rae to go to another hockey game.

The concert of the dramatic and music classes is to be held in the school auditorium Friday and Saturday, March 21 and 22 in the evening. Tickets are now on sale. A good turn out is expected and those who come are certain of good entertainment.

The Lacombe girls basketball team played the basketball girls last Friday night and lost by a score of 20-16. They are going to play Red Deer, Friday.

For Better Holidaying

EFFORTS of the council of the village of Lacombe to make up the younger people of the district had resulted in the Lions Scouts Hall should meet a ready response to the hearts of the older resort younger set. For many years now, the younger people have been complainers of the lack of any social activities of the lake during the long summer months. The Squatter Club, since a lively organization, has been long since defunct, for other organizations or a reinvestigation of the old club, is considered a step in the right direction for the social life which is so much a part of a holiday at the lake.

The council has done its bit by asking the younger people to form a club or organization to plan and carry out a series of dances, entertaining events and social evenings at the lake. It is now up to the younger set to get together and endeavour to the very suggestions of the council, and at the same time work with the council to improve holidays spent at the Lake

More Consideration Needed

COMPLAINTS regarding radio interference in Lacombe are again being heard as an increasing number of radio owners in the district are finding as much as possible and difficulties in trying to get reception. Certain electrical appliances, when in use, cause interference from faulty switches, an unprotected electric motors and motors, or various other thoughtless conditions of electrical appliances in the home.

Radio interference is annoying and a nuisance, but it can be eliminated only through the full cooperation of all those who use electrical energy in Lacombe. Those who use electric razors should have their equipment checked to see if it is causing the radio interference from this cause. Those homes with faulty and worn out refrigerators should have these repairs made or replaced. Only by attending to these small but not unconsiderable annoyances can radio reception in Lacombe be improved. Power and radio officials can locate and correct the big causes of radio interference in town but it is impossible for them to trace down all electrical defects in offending homes in Lacombe.

Then puts the solution up to the residents themselves. If your radio reception is bad, check your own electrical connections and all appliances before complaining about the interference to your neighborhood. If everyone does this, the annoying and unnecessary static and interference will be eliminated.

Farming Notes

Poultry Pasture

I suppose already few of our farmers realize the value of good poultry pasture. Yet the good vegetable protein found here lasts in short supply for a considerable time and molasses are fed then not as rations will overdose for several days. Pick out a very important protein supplement in our poultry diet. A good poultry pasture is also a valuable addition to the cash income. Feed manufacturers can obtain it only at inflated quotations to add a little to the feeds which it is of great value.

L. W. Turner, Poultry Commissioner, says that many of our farmers fail to realize that pasture, especially alfalfa, plays a very important part in most efficient source of protein feeds available for poultry. Good pasture supplies the proteins, vitamins and minerals in economical quantities but a heavily stocked pasture will not do this. Neither will it if we can give our poultry. Alfalfa does exceptionally well in practically every part of Alberta. A three year rotation of alfalfa should be followed. Sow a radio site on I seed the first year Pasture and cut the surplus for hay the second year. Crop for the the third year and plow in late in the fall.

If this three year rotation is practiced and the alfalfa are plowed in at the proper time, the land will soon show better being out for hay, three to four hundred hay is can be pastured per acre. The hay cut during the pasturing period can be used as a third year is available as a protein, vitamin, mineral, and general conditioner for the laying and breeding flocks. Where good pasture is available the stock hoppers should be kept closed from 8:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. in both the growing stock is starting on feed and better pullets for the laying pens. Alfalfa is one of good quality will be found important in forming our laying and breeding flocks in excellent condition and health.

Good pasture especially alfalfa pasture is the cheapest source of green food that we can provide for our poultry

Bees More Than Produce

Bees are kept principally for the production of honey and we are told there are possibilities of improved the true value of the bee in the economy of the country, says C. B. Lewis Entomologist in charge, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The raw material from which honey and wax are made is nectar secreted by flowers of all kinds and taken from them by bees. Flowers are part of the reproductive system of plants and nectar is secreted to attract insects so the male and female organs respectively. In many varieties of plants the stamens and pistil are borne in separate flowers, or even on separate plants, in others the two are enclosed in a single flower. So as to have fruit, seed or vegetable, pollen must be conveyed from one flower to the pistil This may be done in several ways but the chief agents in performing this service are insects. Of the insect agents the honey bee is the most important because she is the only one of them whose numbers can be controlled and who can be transported to any place where her services are required.

The transfer of pollen from stamens to pistil is termed pollination which in itself is not sufficient, fertilization must follow in many cases, especially in fruit-bearing plants, the flowers of one plant cannot be fertilized by pollen of the same plant self pollination consequently, must always be brought to it from some other plant of the same species, cross pollination, before fruit or seed can be formed. Cross pollination is considered to increase productivet even though the flower is capable of self-pollination

The honey bee spending most of her active life among the flowers and gathering practically all of her supplies from them is the most active and efficient agent in transferring pollen from one flower to another Because of this fact many fruit and seed growers either rent bees or encourage beekeepers themselves solely for the increase of crop that can be secured from the services rendered by the bees to the flowers alone. It has been estimated that honey bees are of far greater value to the producers of fruit seed and vegetables than to the beekeeper himself

Who'll Move In?

Last week a few days to read the comments and editorial columns of the new British press in the United States. For the other events particularly as regards to the south have printed fewer comments and editorials regarding the British Empire than have our newspapers at the same season. Possibly this is due to the fact that we are more accustomed to it and the people of Canada do not consider it necessary to keep their British "readers" so well informed as they have to remind the British people of India who are meddling in Palestine and in fact mixed their own business on the British Isles.

The most interesting Manchester was the Chicago Tribune devoted the whole of its editorial page to comment and opinion on Palestine matters. President Truman has indicated his intention to support in plans for either a division of the Jewish problem before the United Nations or if that fails to submit the United States to force. Britain has stated the United States to force Britain has stated the United States to force Britain has stated the United States to force

Something OR Nothing

Remember the story of the monkey who tried to withdraw a fistful of nuts through the narrow neck of a jar? Because he wasn't content with getting one luscious nut at a time, he ended up by getting nothing instead of something.

That story is worth remembering today. Greedy grabbing of goods still in short supply can have the same result — nothing instead of something. Inflated prices, like the inflated pay of the monkey, can so easily prevent each of us from getting his fair share of available goods.

Canadians have had the wisdom to be content with a moderate "something," knowing that as production increases that "something" will grow larger and larger. This is good sense, and is founded on the principle that MODERATION is the key to CONTINUED ENJOYMENT, a principle to which the House of Seagram has always subscribed.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Jardine Tell Of Missionary Work in Cuba

"Greetings from the Isle of Cuba", is the opening sentence of a letter received by the Globe recently from Mr. and Mrs. K. Jardine who are missionaries in the field and newly arrived in Cuba. Mr. and Mrs. Jardine are well known throughout Lacombe where Mr. Jardine carried on a prosperity business for a number of years.

The former local residents are working in South Orphanage, Santa Clara, and refer to the warm winter days with the temperature rising to 95 and 96 degrees every day. Their letter continues:

"This is a new work and we are materially restricted by lack of knowledge, We are slowly getting on a very productive farm about two and a half miles from the city The river of lumber here is prohibitive ($250.00 per 1000) with the government strongly high and are so severe as in Canada. We have already built a dozen or of twelve rooms of brick and tile, but it is already too small Brick withstands the hurricane, rot and the ills flesh are a blessing for cleanliness. We have also started a new kitchen and dining room, to replace the one of native construction now in use. Guano rock and mud floors have their disadvantages, but are the common home of the poor people.

"The Adventist work of glorying with ocean is slow indeed, and here we would appreciate a small western trailer Cuba is mixed both old and the new methods of farming, but of course we plan in time to use more of the western equipment. The farm produces enough of the food consumed in the hillsides. The prices of food are very high, lard was 30c lb., tea $5.00 a pound, chicken 60c per pound, eggs 70c a dozen, coffee 60c per lb. Canada is not a bad place to live There is no sugar rations or shortage here Cuba exports more than any other country. We not better only occasionally We do have peanut butter if we are exhibitors enough to make it

It is now time for dinner, a habit that grows on one very easily.

Adieu,
Mr. and Mrs. K. Jardine

(By Robert Wright)

The spring concert presented last Friday and Saturday nights in the school auditorium by Miss Jones' dramatic class and Miss Kennedy's music class was a complete success.

Over 400 people turned out to see the program which began with a one act comedy, "A Young Man's Fancy," the story of a boy's first date. Following this, the music class rendered five songs. "Rain Drops," "Song of a Boy's Window," "Night" and "Land of Hope and Glory." After a five minute intermission the choral numbers were again resumed with "Prayer for Peace," "Three Crescent Bounds," "The Little Brown Owl," "Dance" and "Shine This Dance" and "The Holy City."

Following this the dramatic class returned with another play entitled "Hither Entrance Examination." a character study portraying a "Typical day in Heaven." This took place in the Heavenly assistant office and proved very amusing

The programme ended with the singing of "God Save the King."

On Saturday night a banquet of beautiful flowers was prepared in each Miss Jones and Miss Kennedy by their respective classes. Following their spring lever has taken effort on certain school boys in the popularity of gopher tail tossing as an out-of-school sport.

Government By Control

GOVERNMENT by bureaucracy which has its headquarters at Canada during the war shows little signs of ending. Government questionnaires suggest new bureaucratic encroachments more subtle than the methods still more drastic than those in use during the war. Every month records a host of the various forms which different government bureaus insist upon.

Let us take the ordinary business man as he is in business. Before he can get his business and keep it he must be prepared to be required:

1. A license from the Provincial government
2. A license from the provincial government
3. Approval by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board of the rent he has agreed to pay for his premises
4. Approval by the Regional War Labour Board of the wage he agrees to pay his employees or employees
5. After starting in business and commencing to pay wages, he is required to
6. Deduct the correct amount of income tax of his employees or employees after getting a book and trying to figure it out.
7. Deduct the correct amount of unemployment insurance
8. Purchase the unemployment stamps and paste them in the employees book.
9. Record the fact that payment was correct to the workman's compensation board.
10. Remit the income tax deductions of his employees to the Receiver General of Canada.

When these jobs are finished, and all requisitions, headaches and requirements complied with, the employer must remember to see that

11. The price he is charging for his goods is the exact price authorized by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.
12. The sales tax which he has charged whether he collects it or not must be remitted within 30 days to the Receiver General of Canada before that same tax is collected. He must also make sure that the charge remitting this tax to government is accepted by the bank, or else it will be returned.

After looking after these details each month or week as the case may be the government employees start arriving. Inspectors for the sales tax, the income tax, the workmen's compensation board, the board of industrial relations, all check the farmers, the banks and the personnel to make sure that the business is dealing with all government regulations.

After attending to these gentlemen the next mail is likely to bring a questionnaire from the department of statistics. This form deals with all criticisms of small salaries paid business men and broken down into separate groups of articles which demand a great deal of work and research. It makes the Dominion Census look like a picnic. It asks in small print must be filled in other than one date's receipts or figures. Questionnaires of both are specified for the months business men would all like a government job where these bothers others would not bother them.

Farming Notes

Seeding Brome Grass

If you are seeding brome in the forage crop mixture you intend to use for hay or pasture, you will find it better to sow the brome separately. Brome and alfalfa should form the basis of most mixtures used in central and southern Alberta but other kinds may be added if desired. Several kinds of forage crops can be mixed to advantage especially if the land is to be used for pasture.

A. J. Stobbart, Supervisor of Crop Improvement says that if a difficulty to get an even distribution of brome seed it is advised with the smaller heavier seeds of legumes. The best idea is to seed the brome first if you use the broom after the beginning to drag a disc, distribute the legume and already sown and getting it down too deep for satisfactory germination.

Very few grass seeder attachments will sow brome grass seed satisfactorily in fact many of them won't handle brome at all. Because of this, brome seed is usually mixed with grain and sown through the ordinary seeder.

When putting brome by any other grass or legume seed it is a great help to mix the seed with sawdust or chaff. Through the ordinary seed drill I can assure that one bushel of barley and two pounds of brome per acre are to be seed. Spread over hundreds of thousands of acres of land these seem fifty pounds of brome grass seed over a bushel and a half of barley. This may be increased and total the desired quantity has been mixed thick part of the mixture and weight of the one in setting the drill.

The seed drill should be set for about one half of a bushel per acre more than the rate at which the grain is to be sowed. The drill can now be adjusted until the desired rate is obtained. By putting a weighed amount of the seed in the drill after you think it is feeding through at about the proper speed, the rate of seeding can be calculated after an acre or two has been seeded. It is also advisable to go over part of the field a second time when the starting rate is less than the desired rate and a drill run with an empty seed box will give a satisfactory adjustment can be made.

Seeds of seedling in one of the most important factors for success with forage crops may be. Shelled brome grass seed should not be used because this one inch, smaller seeds are more than one-half inch deep. By seeding into fit as soil moist as deep as possible and it is necessary that the soil be firm if a good stand is to be obtained.

If you want to grow a pure stand of brome you will find the procedure given under Dryland farming but the rate of seeding in that case should be from ten to twelve pounds of brome to the acre.

Further information on seeding of legumes and grasses can be obtained from District Agriculturists or from the Field Crops Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Successful Show At Olds

In spite of muddy conditions and bad roads a large crowd attended the Little Bend Live Stock Show at the Olds School of Agriculture on Saturday March 22nd. Upwards of seventy head of stock of the school farm, trained and fitted by the students, were paraded in the ring. There were nineteen classes in all and these included Yorkshire gilts, Hampshire lambs, Holstein Shorthorn and Hereford steers, cattle and Shorthorn heifers.

The judge, Dr. R. D. Wrelete, Dean of the Faculty of Agriculture University of Alberta competed against the students, and detailed placing and showing job done by the students in practically all classes, which in his opinion was a very high general standard than at most of the shows of larger cities.

It would be difficult to single out any particular entries above the others, though special mention might be made of the two steers in the all round class, and of the two pens of three lambs of names and bulls in the class of Percheron mares. The four entries in the four-horse hitch were exceptionally well developed and demonstrated the skill of Wisconsin in the Department. The entire show reflected much credit to the instructor in animal husbandry and his staff under whose tutelage and instruction the students have worked with their animals for the past couple of months.

Reduce Lamb Losses

A. J. Churchill, Live Stock Supervisor of sixes that there are several main reasons for losses at lambing time. When lambs are born under unfavourable climatic conditions, they chill quickly which often results in losses. Ewes due to lamb should be watched carefully and taken into suitable warm and dry shelter for lambing and for a few days after lambing. Three or four feed troughs inside make very suitable material for pressing off ewes and lambs. Two such troughs hinged together will fold easily and can be piled up when not required. Pens for the lambs are available from District Agriculturists and from the Live Stock Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Losses in very young lambs may occur from the ewes having too much loose wool in the region of the udder and the lambs. This excess wool should be trimmed off by pen or shears. Long lambs getting small bulk of wool under the stomach which causes indigestion and death. Prevention is the only cure in this case.

Another cause of loss in lambs, particularly in the pastured areas is due to the parasite appetite for lambs. The chewpenne should himself have certain lumber and one Scottish Death on the carcass is. The sheep should be folded into a well drained corral every night. Worm powders, good markets for ewes with lambs at foot should be free from brush which often provides protection for the parasites to sneak up on the flock.

It Is A Problem

PUPILED has a serious teacher shortage, this fact has been emphasized often in local sermons in leaders, letters to the editor, addresses to service clubs and in school boards throughout Alberta endeavouring to fill the big gaps in their teaching staff ranks. The question this year will be not has there a problem but the worst it will be some in the question of more of the educational authority. Mr. Blair, chairman of the Wetaskiwin school district, pointed a gloomy picture at a recent meeting of trustees held in Wetaskiwin.

He pointed out that there were 6,000 school rooms in the province of these 600 were closed and another 1,000 were under the short-staff category. He also added that no increase of 400 beds will be made this year and next year and prospects this current year are far from encouraging.

Such a state of affairs is a serious one indeed. The youth of this province must be educated if it is to have a chance in the world of tomorrow. More needs than ever before in Alberta's history is being asked of our youth and in most ways Alberta are getting less for their money. Teachers are demanding, and getting, higher salaries but even this inducement fails to attract young men and women to the teaching profession.

It appears that a thorough overhaul of teaching conditions and an investigation of the reasons for the basic shortage could clear up the baffling problem — for clear up it must be and as the shortest possible time.

Cause of Failure

DIFFERENCES fundamental basic differences between the USSR and the western powers continue to hamstring the final drafting of peace treaties, before the Council of Satellite countries and the session of the Foreign Conference after the latter's failure to reach decisions at Moscow, is spoken of in whispers, but the final drafting of the peace treaties still appears to be in the darkest failure.

The biggest stumbling block to accord on the German treaty at the present time appears to be Russia's insistence on reparations from Germany with which the non-German industrial exports at the present time is still flowing. Russia's claims of reparations are substantial as pointed out by Canadian Foreign Minister Mr. Bevin — claims for German current products to the extent of half that Russia says Britain claimed in 1918. That country used heavy demand of flesh from Germany and the result was a strong German industries of machinery, equipment and all related tool-tools which are needed by Germany to produce goods to raise the standard of living above the subsistence level.

Britain and the U.S. through the foreign ministers of those countries have refused to strip Germany of all equipment to produce — to free the unemployed into the ranks of unemployed starvation, and to impede the economic recovery of Europe as a whole. Britain and the U.S. can also see that Germany barred from exporting machinery and tool could not free from the USSR's permeation. Britain and the U.S. want Russia to live up to reparations, but the Germans manufacture the goods and not Russia the reparations out of the sale of such goods.

Russia however is adamant that reparations be paid immediately to them. If the western countries will not agree to the payment of large amounts of industrial part, this must come in the part of food and agriculture for short supplies in the U.S.S.R.

Warning to Poultrymen

General conditions: The scourge of our flocks, fowl cholera, and bacillary, has become well-established and widespread that we can safely say that it is now the greatest cause of poultry mortality in our young birds, and that it is the greatest single cause of economic loss to our poultrymen. The disease may strike and develop during a single day, and kill with extravagant rapidity, hundreds if not thousands between the third and eighth weeks of age, but most cases have a much more drawn-out death.

Symptoms: Diarrhea is commonly noticed, sometimes accompanied by a small one-celled animal that lives in the intestines and in the liver. There it multiplies and causes serious irritation to the walls of the intestines and even. This irritation causes further changes which result in blood in the droppings. Usually there is a great deal of blood in the droppings — more or less after the first cases.

Due to the Alberta farmers and poultrymen have just passed through a number of early chicks, the economic and monetary of the last two years conditions ideal for the spread of cholera germs. We have brought to our attention quite a number of cases of outbreaks of this disease. Farmers' losses of cases by every one we have about.

Sanitation must be practised at all times, says Mr. Evans, Poultry Commissioner, and brooder houses should be cleaned daily and the litter burned. Feed troughs should be cleaned daily and the droppings boards should be washed. Old litter should not be used to seed vegetable gardens.

Drug treatment should be observed closely. Once it dies. Although some of the drugs are helpful at the infection and can suppress the symptoms for a short length, the fact remains that the disease is not cured and the birds remain carriers of the germs. The use of sulphamerazine and sulphaquinoxaline is recommended. Feed according to instructions.

Alberta has prepared for full and winter egg production on a large scale by heavy purchases of grain in the Peace River country. Reports from the first month of 1946 indicate that 1946 is likely to be a record year for egg production in Alberta. Farmers are advised to keep culling on a regular basis and to keep their flocks free from disease. Vaccination is essential if you desire to control fowl cholera. Where is control your nearest veterinarian.

More Hogs - More Barley

The Edmonton and Calgary districts will be required to produce [illegible] of the total requirements of the Alberta Department of Agriculture is taking steps to ensure sufficient supplies of seed.

A. M. Wilson, Field Supervisor, Commissioner says that the agency will be likely to grow profitable. He says: "There is steadily increasing appreciation of the value of competitive crop in the south. Last year, good feed barley was delivered to the elevators at Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge at a premium of from 5c to 10c per bushel over feed barley. This year the feed market may be a profitable supply of seed barley."

Farmers who have used feed barley should try to obtain supplies for seed. It is not essential that they should purchase their seed requirements from the Alberta Department of Agriculture. Seed barley may be obtained from any farmer who has a crop of registered seed. Farmers who have used feed barley should try to obtain supplies for seed. Requested to Hold Flax

With the urgent need for increased flax acreage in 1947 — effort is being made by Canada and the United States and other governments to obtain their seed requirements before flax is shipped elsewhere.

Unusual has been forwarded to all grain companies asking that a certain amount of flax seed from country elevators be avoided unless purchases for such shipment by Board's Winnipeg or Calgary. How has total been allocated.

There is a keen demand for flax seed and this request from the Wheat Board will assist in the early months when flax production programme.

Barley Prices

Seed barley prices have been reported by the Live Stock Branch with regard to the seasonal price [illegible] for barley, and there seems to be a misunderstanding that the farmer who is feeding hogs could not purchase seed barley.

The Cancer Campaign

All residents of the town and district are reminded of the Canadian Cancer Society campaign now in progress. Lacombe's objective is $1,000.00. Members of the local chapter have been busy distributing literature on the dread disease and accepting cash donations. Only residents are expected to provide funds for necessary work among cancer victims and prevention of cancer. Medical authorities are confident that this can be done, if proper funds are forthcoming, and conduct research work into the cause and cure of this scourge. Funds that are collected here in the Lacombe district will be forwarded to the central Canadian headquarters where the whole business received across the Dominion will be spread towards medical research. It is a worthy cause and one that deserves the substantial support of every Canadian citizen.

Keeping Tax Down

Trustees elected by the members of the Lacombe school board have successfully managed to strike a mill rate for the year 1947 that shows an increase over the 1946 rate of taxation. It was by no means an easy task. A succession of letters and verbal interviews culminated in a budget that was approved by the board early last month. The increased assessment in Lacombe due to the 1946 building program and by a big boost in the business tax it was found possible to budget for these capital improvements for them in the current year and still meet the estimated 1947 expenses with the same mill rate as that set effect last year.

School board officials, too, planned carefully to keep their requisitions down to the same level as the 1946 levy.

It must not be forgotten though that this town will some time in the not too distant future have to make deductions for certain civic improvements which are unfully necessary. The dominion street overhead is in need of hard surfacing and an enhancement from building and fire hall for Lacombe are two urgent matters which are becoming more necessary day by day. The present financial position of the town is strong but the demands which will have to be faced shortly are not small.

Commend Fine Showing

The Lacombe Rotary Club, its members said, this newspaper, should be highly commended for the showing made at the annual inspection held recently. The members of the scouts, both boys and girls, attending a church parade composed one of the finest showings ever made by a small centre cadet corps. Their marksmanship, and dependability also in the spirit of perseverance—there's the motto—and the corps members should be proud of the record they have.

The time showing was also commendable. Scout Leader Edgerton, who has recently charged the boys and girls, is to be congratulated on the fine job he is doing.

Time Troubles

Spring is with us again, and with its coming comes around the usual complaint about the time. Edmonton, Calgary and Banff, Wetaskiwin, Innisfail and other points Alberta residents are changing their clocks at this time as recognized either southern are continuing the old style, but the vast majority of the people are following the new daylight saving regulations and will clock to order time for the summer months.

This public-wide adoption of daylight saving time is an encouraging as it is surprising, but persons desiring a break from one hour or call to be made to the other hour. Having the war when the daylight saving time was in effect across Canada, the establishment of time over the border was one hour ahead of the other time worked as inconvenience on any one. The present bridge-point time system is effort to this province under the law, will do little to endear the daylight saving time to the minds of the rural population of the province.

Annual Headache

Dr. Ian F. Mills's declaration about the annual spring clean-up campaigns and shoppers and is possible compliance with their request are only hundreds of records that dust have to one of the most serious annual problems which has not to be overcome. The dust which arises from the business section streets does more than just inconvenience shoppers. It represents a direct monetary loss to local merchants. Ready-to-wear and other textile goods are the first to suffer merchandise grocery stores lose money through dirt laden food on open counters which must be discarded. All stores lose money through extra work to dust, and keep dusting merchandise and counters which are bare to view them.

Last year efforts were made by the town municipal authorities to cut down on the aforementioned evils of dust. The streets were sprayed with oil, sample substances has been requested, but it appears many from liberty at present with the usual municipal roadwork and shoppers will have to endure another summer of dust as spring equipment is not available at present.

A proposal by the council to oil downtown streets would find great favor among the store owners, but merchants claim trucks too much, and riders may be used there rubber and cars. It seems likely however, that this proposal will be carried out to be satisfactory as an hour may clean the dust.

As a temporary measure as a result of that Lacombe council is alerting a man will be pressed police service, may be let the dust. If the is always eager to be used all merchants and local residents are hoping that it is used daily.

Present plans call for the new road to start on the west side of the Calgary-Edmonton railway line ...ross the Battalion ... ...means of an overhead crossing, between Lacombe and Blackfalds.

The railway was one of the factors which caused the south part ... early centered by most ... It was selected instead of the north part ... ...north of Ponoka Store. The area ... Battle of Edmonton is itself a quarter of a mile from the railway line and has been a property ... some time, for ... number of years.

Daylight Saving Time

THE decision of the Town Council last week to put Lacombe on daylight saving time at Lacombe has been received with mixed comments as between people and country dwellers concerned. Council assumed that the majority of people in the town and district farmers who depend on Lacombe for their day-to-day subsistence at the same time it was explained that these same time would cause considerable confusion among town residents, the majority of whom are employed on farms during their time for the summer months. Then the matter was thrown by left as short-term for further development and study.

Lacombe has come in as a particularly sensitive position. Last year only a few months after it entered adopted fast time and Lacombe was able to remain on solar time without undue difficulty. This year however, Wetaskiwin has definitely decided fast time. Ponoka, and boarded in on the Lacombe district would be affected and Lacombe to have all around their clocks about one hour. Lacombe has served its central geographical position at the same time, as a result of the change in time.

Whether Lacombe adopts fast time or not, the other time schemes within the province is a disorganized area. The Board Education, should be able to report in a unified time system within the province, if not in the Dominion First and foremost the check confusion must be put at the door step of the Provincial Government which refused to take the request that city implement day light saving time before. Council came in did so on their own head. The consequent mix up in time should have been foreseen by the Provincial Authorities. The handwriting is on the wall for a longer daylight of this time next year.

Handlebars - What?

A London report tells of a revival of the handle-bar moustache, predominantly among Britain's young men. The rebirth of these once familiar adornments of male upper lip would mean series among ex-servicemen in Canada. During the war, many Canadians joined the servicemen's ranks of cultivating sprouting by members which were carefully groomed and trained at the top lip. No-one knows how many men in Canada have grown moustaches much as four inches from end to end.

The main organization name seems to be the objective "Society for the Faithful and Fair encouragement of Heroic Appendages with Loftie ende Extremities." And there are rumors of a Canadian chapter.

If so, the organization would find unexpected enthusiasm on this side of the Atlantic. There are numerous Canadian ex-servicemen on the town sporting thick heavy pompoms reminiscent of the handle bar moustache. Some of the more successful danger moustache has been shaved into the background.

The files features Monday are gossamin: transparent tissue-like stuff that comes have prevailed. Some are printed in white and regardless of nostalgia. But whatever the status "The Battle of the Handle-bars" may be here to stay.

Farming Notes

From the Provincial Department of Agriculture

Grade "A" Hogs

Experimental Farms Service

There are really three major essentials in the production of grade "A" hogs. The hogs should be of bacon type, suitable feed mixtures recommended, and good breeding stock. Experiments have proved to farmers concerning that the pigs are from a sound, healthy strain. The most successful farmers in the feed markets to be free from worms, particularly tuberculosis and swine erysipelas, in certain parts of Canada, the swine pathologists are hunting for a quality product easily supplied commercially under I.D. Price, Division of Animal Husbandry, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Editor,
Lacombe Globe
Dear Sir:

I think before me a copy of the Lacombe Globe, date March 7, 1947. I have read through these columns and note various comments on the subject of wheat and wheat marketing. It is quite natural when you look at the Prairie Provinces from the United States to find the Canadian farmer as the biggest factor in the farming industry. The enthusiastic I am. The Canadian farmer is a big factor in the United States economy, but he should stay together as separate units as he is at present.

I am not a wheat farmer myself, but I have many friends in Canada I know some of the problems that confront the Canadian farmer. I am in the United States and I am in the United States economy, but

Getting In Line

DESPITE all the control of the town of Lacombe to adopt daylight saving time before the week was a one more under the present months as March all boards and many villages of central Alberta already doing daylight saving the time the position as regards business is the evening shall be one-quarter hour later than Mountain Standard Time. Lacombe's theatre will be opened only the last summer time and advanced as being moved by some Lacombe to conform to Mountain Standard Time.

It is hoped that the present state confusion would then be the last and time adoption of daylight saving time by towns and villages will effect the end of the present confusion and that time as a country wide concept and should be dealt with only on the country wide basis.

Clean-up Time

SPRING TIME is often an time and residents of the town and district are urged to clean-up and paint up our town property. Smart carefully arranged lawns, gardens and flower beds are one of the biggest factors in enhancing the residential appearance of any town or district. Attention to this appearance is a little payer in business, garages and automobiles, well trimmed flower beds all these should also be given due consideration.

There are many back yards in Lacombe that can do with a good clean up. The town should also endeavor to have every unsightly vacant lots are levelled with other and old machinery.

It has often been said that a resident or one's home is reflected in people in one's town and one's district. Let's pack up our goods this year and carry out a campaign of clean-up and paint-up.

Farming Notes

Seeding Of Legume Crops

Seeding of grasses and legumes merits some attention these commonly given if good stands are to result. Now that the end of seed of these crops, particularly legumes, is high every effort should be taken in preparing and seeding the land so that the first germination is obtained and the young seedlings grow every chance of survival. says H. B. Watkins, Dominion Experimental Station Lacombe. Alberta. Seeding on the proper depth on a well-prepared seed bed at a time when there is sufficient moisture at the depth of seeding to ensure germination is important.

Inches of moisture tests conducted at the Experimental Station, Lacombe, over a number of years have shown that poor seedings of grasses and legumes are usual to, or opposite, to earlier or later seedings. Thus, too, an important because by delaying seeding until June a partial conservation of the land may be carried out up to that time and the weed situation put total to hand before seeding. A companion crop of oats or barley can still be seeded at that time if desired, provided along an early maturing variety is used or if oats are sown for green feed. For the best results grass into summer or early seeding are preferable.

Shallow cultivation in preparing the seed bed is recommended in most cases. There is usually nothing to be gained by deep cultivation, because it produces a loose seed bed. The use of the ordinary drill or press drill equipped with a press wheel attachment is probably the best method of seeding. The seed is fed through the grain tubes and the press wheel packs the soil between openers reduced so that the furrow openers run under three inches weight only. Uniform depth of sowing and adequate covering of the seed is ensured. When seeding with a companion crop the grain can be drilled in the normal way in the field packed thoroughly after seeding and the former seed drilled crosswise using the procedure as outlined already.

Is less satisfactory, but frequently used method, is that of broadcasting the seed by hand from the grain seeder attachment on the drill to the ground in front of the furrow openers. Harrowing is required to cover the seed and the furrow harrowing is beneficial in forming the soil around the seeds and hastening germination.

Lacombe, Alta.

The Editor
Lacombe Globe,
Lacombe, Alta.

Dear Sir:

I wonder if you can find me a spot pool in Lacombe. All my friends at school are finding pool spots as I now Brunner's Hi-Hoot etc but I thought I should like to write for information in Lacombe where father spent two years about twenty years ago. He is of Lacombe stock on the time he was in Alberta. The father of the Lacombe newspaper was a great boy hockey fan, and so was the bank manager who was known as "Bobby" Morrison.

I should be so lucky as not Lacombe some day and enjoy a visit to the town.

I shall be very grateful if you can find me a pool pal.

Yours sincerely,
BILLY REED TORONTO.

Hospital Crowded

For the many townspeople who fear that the present overcrowded conditions at the Lacombe Union Hospital may be a reflection on the quality of care it can give to those who seek its services, we can only say that the hospital is not overcrowded because it is poorly managed or because it is not doing the best it possibly can under the circumstances. The hospital is overcrowded because it has been unable to keep pace with the growth of the district it serves. Its facilities are inadequate to meet the demands made upon them.

Hospital Board officials are all anxious, and fully aware of the present conditions, and they are building for a remedy. Expansion, of course, is going on now, but is the matter of utility. Here the vital and important consideration of cost enters the picture. Hospitals, like all public utilities, are the most notable of shortages in building materials, it has been rightly suggested whether it might not be better to wait until the cost of material and labor prices will more nearly resemble reasonable figures than the present exhibition.

The expenditure of $50,000 or more however would be more than offset by the advancement of scientific medical facilities to permit care for the sick or wounded if offered. Note that Lacombe has become a hospital district and that the flow of patients is expected to increase steadily.

Residents within the boundaries of the hospital district should be fully informed through a referendum whether they are in favor of subsidizing a new hospital addition. It is useless to fool ourselves. The hospital is suffering acute growing pains. The solution is expansion.

Stay Off The Grass

CHERRY TREES have been received at this office from local residents who claim their lawns and borders are being "cut to pieces" by unthinking pedestrians and by lawn mowers. The offenders are those who will not follow a sidewalk at a corner, but insist on cutting across the right angle in order to save a few more steps. Then pathways are worn out by one summer will wear a path right through the lawn, and any effort of the householder to keep the lawn free of mud, rivets and weeds is sure to be nullified by the transgressions.

Lacombe has its share of offenders when they ride their horses along the boulevards and tear up the turf, instead of riding alongside the road as they are required to do by law to by-law.

A little consideration for the householder who endeavors to keep his lawn clean and neat when it is needed if it is not forthcoming, notes police should be instructed to take steps to see that the boulevards—both grass and property, although attention to by individuals should be required.

The Road To Ruin

CONVENTIONS of farmers of this district along with agriculturists concerned with better farming methods are carrying with them the present unfortunate trend showing taking place all through central Alberta. Hundreds of trees are being laid dead to the ground now land is being broken, and the natural growth of the last years are disappearing at a rapid pace. A drive through any district in the Lacombe area is evidence of many farmers' plans to clear all available land.

If present intentions continue, the members presenting resolutions at these will appear at next annual conventions with the same requests, until at last a resolution will be among the past agricultural problems. The destruction of the trees has been blamed many farmers are the belief that soil drifting and wind erosion caused happen here. Certain areas where the trees have been cut in the past have protected the soil from drifting are free from wind erosion. The rehabilitation plans in the farmer-land board of southern Saskatchewan consist mainly of planting trees with the aim of preventing soil drifting and preserving moisture. In this area the farmers themselves can and will in time lend to these conditions which prevail in semi-arid areas, mainly by the farmers of the area with a thorough knowledge of southern Saskatchewan.

Another problem becoming more common on this district is that of swallowing grain and burying it in the stubble in the spring. The land which they were plowed back into the soil is now being harrowed in, and the soil is bound to suffer and labor when dry weather comes along.

Agricultural officials of the municipal district and the provincial and dominion departments of agriculture, and the farmers themselves, but unless the full co-operation of the farmers is received, in adopting these practices which will undoubtedly help the district all these knowledge and warnings are useless.

Farmers should stop and think hard before cutting more land and before taking all the grain and produce out of the soil without adding anything back to it.

Farming Notes

Fertilizer for Wheat

Thought—sometimes put by farmers have induced potashic fertilizers on the yield of wheat either in stable sections of Saskatchewan or Alberta. Experiments in Alberta and Saskatchewan show that over a period of years an increase of only four pounds of wheat per acre has been obtained by the use of potash. Similar experimental stations Beaverlodge Alberta.

On the other hand in Ontario where the use of phosphate for 30 years has raised the yield of wheat in a common fallow wheat-oats rotation by an average of 2.2 bushels per acre in the first year of application and over the eleven successive years 14 bushels. In both stations the use of ammonium sulphate produced an increase as useful while triple superphosphate increased yields by 1.2 and 7.1 bushels per acre respectively.

These information, culled last year the three-year period 1936-38, points to phosphorus as a limiting factor in crop production. The fact that triple superphosphate had given yield increases comparable to ammonium phosphate would seem to emphasize this. The results also suggest that while nitrogen and stone does not bring about increased yields it may be valuable in limited amounts when associated with phosphorus.

D.D.T. Increases Production

Would that their wives cattle and calf dropin milk, and beef production would be increased by 100 per cent, Lambethorn, Supervisor of Pest Control for the Alberta Department of Agriculture says that the new insecticide DDT spells out for cattle and sheep for flies.

Officials of the United States Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine entered and field tests with other sprays of DDT and these results show almost unbelievable results. One herd of cattle was treated with sprayed 600 head of beef cattle with DDT and compared them with untreated cattle. The treated cattle in the same pasture, breathe on drama a flyless but pursuit showed extra gains of 1200 pounds of beef for each thousand pounds fed. A second test produced 120-lb. and a third 720 pounds additional beef for each pound of DDT.

Every summer cattle often are cattle suffer severely from blood-sucking flies and it is reasonable to assume that if they were sprayed there would be gains for beef gains and more milk. There is another case of greatly increased profits from such limited trials.

Just a word of warning—as all solutions of DDT will harm your cattle, so be sure to use a safe solution.

Notes on Diesels

"Fit the tractor to the farm," advises J. B. Morris, extension agricultural engineer for the Alberta department of agriculture. "You are thinking of buying a diesel tractor make sure it will pay for itself. From the fuel standpoint the diesel is by far the most efficient type of farm tractor, but it costs more to buy.

The purchaser of a diesel tractor must have much for it to do almost the year around in order that the fuel savings will have paid for the additional first cost before an expensive overhaul is necessary.

On the basis of present tractor prices in Edmonton you should have 720 to 800 hours work per year or a very minimum before you decide to buy a diesel in place of a gasoline or distillate farm tractor.

Post Seeding Cultivation

Cultivation after the crop has been sown has reduced to some extent the problem of growing out and destroying annual weeds without delaying seeding of the crop. H. J. Wather, Supervisor of Soil Conservation and Weed Control advises that in using method the crop must be seeded at least three inches deep, and that soil treated or when seeded when the first sprout on the kernel is one inch long, that is on the kernel, not above the ground.

This method has proved very effective on such plants as stinkweed and wild mustard, and has been used for the control of many annual weeds. It has not proved quite so effective for the control of wild oats, for which special methods are required. Recommendations for wild oat control are outlined in detail in Circular No. 21, a copy of which may be obtained from the Field Crops Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

'Best Ever' Sports Day

The Lacombe Lions Club annual May 24 sports day 1947 version, has come and gone but not before proving beyond a reasonable doubt to have been the best ever, and ever staged in this area. The attractions were many and varied, and the program was run off smoothly and well with a minimum of delay. The three-mile display in the evening, a new attraction to sports fans in central Alberta, in our opinion, will be long remembered by those who saw it. It was without doubt one of the finest displays ever to be witnessed on a rural centre. Favorable comments were heard on all sides.

The officers and committees of the Lions Club, rehearsed with the operation and success of the sports day are to be congratulated on the success of their endeavours. It was evident, even before the arrival of May 24 that the committee was desirous of not only putting on a novel yet entertainment program as possible for the public and only succeeded with running into the Lions Club a deficit of $200.00 but also succeeded in their desired aim, namely that these sports not be run at a loss to the Lions. The financial loss to the club will be a real loss of the terrific expenses total $600 for fireworks alone) to which the officers of the club remembered themselves, but the entertainment value was certainly in evidence at the sports grounds.

Another feature of the sports day was the widespread publicity received by this town of Lacombe and the district on which it is situated. Through the kind co-operation of radio station CFCN, these broadcasts were given direct from the sports grounds. The children's program in the morning brought a happy smile to the face of Frank Hartman, master of ceremonies, who expressed his pleasure at the fine talent arranged for the morning show (under Lorraine Williamson, well known radio sports commentator, made two broadcasts from the grounds, and the widespread advertising received from these radio shows direct from Lacombe, is of unestimable value to Lacombe and district.

Taken all in all, the Lions' Club is to be congratulated in bringing entertainment of its best to the residents of the district.

Congratulations!

This week's issue of the Lacombe Globe includes an eight page tabloid supplement, compiled and gathered by the students of the Lacombe high school. All news items, lay-outs, advertisement and plans for this supplemental were carried out by a staff of students appointed by the student-council.

This is the first attempt by pupils of the local school to edit and publish a real school graduation paper for themselves. To launch the paper there is charge worked hard and perseveringly. The job they have done has been well done. The students and instructors who were the students as a result to themselves and to the hon-long staff which encouraged with them in their task. All students taking part in the work of the publication should feel proud of having blazed a new trail in extra-curricular work at the school, and in making such a success of their first venture in a new field.

Playing Politics

"Playing politics" is an oft-quoted phrase which, by its very recurrence, suggests some semblance of truth. Yet the first people to whine over its untruth are the politicians themselves. You meet persons who claim, are unreasonable in denouncing politics, and in refusing to participate in politics. Thus, valuable potential government leaders are lost to us. True enforcement of public opinion at election time, because a lamentable manner fail to exercise their franchise.

A sad state of affairs which is bad for democracy they argue in that point, we agree. We only wish, however that some of our elected representatives would carry themselves more like statesmen at Parliament, and help over-rule this popular conception of politics.

For "playing politics" seems to be the only explanation for the action last week of A. L. Smith, K.C., M.P. for Calgary West.

How many Lacombe was chosen as a suitable location for the proposed new C.B.C. radio transmitter last winter Mr. Smith has created a little political stir on the subject It was Mr. Smith, for example who informed the general public that Lacombe had been chosen as the site but the actual announcement. And he did so at a very convenient time to win substantial large number of citizens of our fair district at the other centre Red Deer Before giving this explosive piece of information to a stilled audience (except for Mr. Smith's part in silence is golden) and consternation in the north, Mr. Smith endeavored to collecting points of support for his own party.

Last week Mr. Smith had occasion to refer to Lacombe's CBC radio station again. This time Mr. Smith was asking some questions, unanswered questions as to why the radio broadcasting committee He termed the construction method on the foundation of the transmitter as "very expensive," since

Control Disease in Turkeys

To offset the high death-rate in turkeys during the growing period has for a long time been the chief concern of those engaged in the industry. To this end a remarkable amount of work has been done at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lethbridge, during the last few years, says A. G. Taylor, poultry specialist in turkeys.

Two methods have been put into effect over a period of years and when properly carried out remove much of the hazard of disease, particularly blackhead. The methods are known as rearing turkeys on wire and rearing turkeys on clean range.

Where turkeys are being reared on contaminated land, near the farm yard, or near laying hens or growing pullets, the chances of blackhead is considerable and unless more precaution is shown the death-rate in poults may be high. To offset this high death-rate poults can be reared on wire floors on the dominion house and on mine and even valuable birds are reared on wire with very good results and are reported I shoot two feet above the ground. A suitable brooder house would be a one-side building about 10x12 feet and is built on about 18x20 feet. Such a pen would accommodate approximately sixty turkeys from hatching time to market age.

The range pens consists of running the poults on clean ground about one hour in the morning and in four hour intervals in succession and the range should be a first year meadow. It should be well enough drained so that water will not stand long on the ground after a heavy rain. The soil should possess enough fertility to produce a good crop of green feed and be suitably grazed. The best range poultry is red clover and alfalfa is to be suggested that the green feed be cut and carried to the poultry should be cut or stretch. The houses where the poults are brooded require to be moved to clean ground each year. Permanent they should be built on runners and at last pens found that a house 10x12 feet serve the purpose very. Turkey poults reared on range should be fenced in a proverbial area. About 75 poults per acre is sufficient. Much depends on the amount of green feed the land will produce.

Mechanizing Agriculture

Mechanization of agriculture in Canada has endeavored to meet the growing demand for greater efficiency. In a measure, it has been successful, but the effect of mechanization on the land has not been recognized in a general way until recently. There is not a province in Canada that does not have a soil conservation problem of some kind, yet mechanization has developed with little or no consideration for this fact. To preserve the soil for future generations, mechanization must be guided so that there will not be a minimum of the present evil attendant.

it was necessary to burn coal to thaw out frozen ground. For Mr. Smith's information, we have learned from this quarter that the "expensive" total of $15.00 worth of slack coal was burned here for thawing-out purposes.

As Dr. A. Trigan, C.B.C. general manager explained, the C.B.C. ranked construction work last winter "before the frost really set in." Dr. Frigan stated further that costs were "well within" the estimate

This explanation did not seem to satisfy Mr. Smith, who pressed the argument further, and finally asked for figures on the amount of coal being used on the early construction We do not wish to be misunderstood, that representatives at Ottawa are there to protect our interests, and it behooves them to check Government expenditures and procedures at every turn But there is a difference between judicious questioning, and mere petty political wrangling, to the point of exaggerating costs.

The ice is still THIN!

Even though the "Danger" signs of Inflation can be taken down now, they have to be replaced with signs reading, "Proceed With Caution." The ice is still too thin for any Canadian to tell himself, "Now, at last, I can go ahead and buy everything I want."

We can't—yet. But we can proceed to enjoy—in moderation—many of the goods and services which were so long in short supply. Those good things are ours at moderate prices now because we were moderate in our demands before.

Today, Canadians can indeed be proud of one of this country's finest possessions, which is, as The House of Seagram has long contended, this nation's policy of moderation in all things—in its thinking, in its buying and in its personal habits.

TOURIST SEASON AHEAD!

THE THOMPSONS are busy at last, getting their plans in shape for the tourist season. This year, with three more cabins, electricity and a modernized kitchen, they hope to do even better than before.

They were able to make these additions because last fall Mr. Thompson drove to town to see his bank manager. He knew about the nice little business the Thompsons had built up, a bank loan was quickly arranged.

Now the Thompsons can handle more tourists and increase their income. At the same time Canada will benefit from the extra tourist dollars they take in.

Three Teams Tie For Top Honors in Town Softball League

	W	L	T	Pts

Lacombe	2	1	0	4
Ellis	1	2	0	2
Clive	0	2	1	1
Eckville	0	2	1	1

The Lacombe Hugh Softball team emerged as the top team in the Lacombe and District Softball League, after completing their schedule of games on Monday night. The victory was gained by virtue of their 9-8 win over the Legion team on the local diamond. The Legion team had previously defeated the Hugh team by a score of 10-9, and the Hugh team had defeated the Lacombe team by a score of 9-8. Each team had won two games and lost two games, thus leaving the three teams tied for top honors in the league.

Monday night, the Legion team were trapped home three runs in the first inning, only to have the Hugh team push across all those runs and go out in front in the fifth inning, however, when the Legion team in the seventh inning to tie the score 9-9 at the end of the game. Ellis team defeated Eckville by the score of 9-8 in the first game of the evening.

Tuesday night, the Lacombe team had their first encounter with the Clive team, and the Lacombe team showed up in good advantage.

Ed Hansen, on the mound for the Lacombe team, allowed only three hits on Campbell Hansen fanned eight batters during the game, one walk, and it was only because the team's backed up so well by his teammates that nine runs were tallied against him. Hansen gave up nine runs in the nine innings, but he had a catching drop ball that worried the locals no end.

Longest hit of the game was a screaming double by Jay Leibson in the fourth inning, which held off the seventh inning. It was also Leibson who was the big gun in Lacombe's four-run attack on Hansen in the third inning.

After Morrison, Wendin and Leslie had struck themselves out Jones with one man away LeBoss singled, Leibson doubled down the right center field which drove two runners home Todd and LeBoss scored their third and fourth runs of the inning when they rambled home on Armstrong's double, and Jones on a sacrifice to old pals.

With three straight victories under their belts, the locals play host next game here on Lacombe diamond this coming Monday on Monday June 1 at 2:30 p.m.

Bobby Leff, Lacombe, called the balls and strikes, and Harry Teare, Lacombe, was home umpire.

Lacombe Trims Eckville 9-8 In Baseball Game Wednesday

Locals Outscore Hosting 12-3 at Rocky Friday

Lacombe Senators whipped the Rocking nine 12-3 in a baseball Central Alberta Baseball League fixture played at Rocky Mountain House last Friday evening. The locals played errorless ball throughout the game and outslugged and outfielded a portner ball Rockings team which just failed to cost good enough Bob Peapice, pitching for the Lacombe team, received the ten hits he did yield throughout the game, and lasted up his full by his infielders and outfielders kept the Rocking batsmen well under control.

The local sluggers had a field day at the plate tossing the ball around the lot in every inning of the game save the Lacombe batters the edge from the start, and they didn't leave off pounding the ball until the end of the game.

Lacombe's unbeaten record against Rocky on May 23, was interrupted due to weather conditions.

Local Cadets In Annual Parade Here Last Week

The annual inspection of the Lacombe Cadet Corps was held on Tuesday of last week in the usual school grounds, but inclement weather over took that part of the ceremony had to be cancelled. A disappointingly small crowd attended.

The parade inspecting officer, Lt. R. W. Bliss was very pleased with the corps. He gave special praise to the manner in which the band assisted the "march past," a difficult manoeuvre which was ably performed under the command of Cadet Captain Ken Bliss.

The P.T. demonstrations under instructor Dick Bowyer was another performance which was handled nicely. After a lining exhibition between Q.M.S. Hay and Cadet Macdonald, two members of the Girls Cadets, Cdt. Ross and Cadet Macdonald, put on a sparring match, much to everybody's delight.

The signal display was under the instruction of Sgm. Bus Lee. The girls' corps under Capt. Cross were especially proficient in this job.

A Ring Bay prize awarded for efficiency to the Girls' cartoon, who, in his opinion, had the best appearance and general ability.

Valedictory Address Is Given Friday

(By Ethel Frizzell)

We have come together tonight for a two-fold purpose — to say farewell — and to express the gratitude which all graduating classes feel at such a time toward their [illegible]

We say goodbye with mixed feelings [illegible] We regret the exciting challenge which life offers, and while [illegible] regret at leaving our treasured surroundings the life to which we have grown accustomed and our many friends.

On the whole our years at Lacombe High School have been happy ones, with many activities such as athletics, dramatics, music and parties to occupy our attention. These have helped us we hope [illegible] become the many sided individuals that adult citizenship requires. It was necessary to broaden to take everything seriously, and at times we should be glad last letters But all knowledge did not go unheeded

We would be foolish to believe that all our classes labs and essays have been delightful thought inspiring things, so also would it be to make a statement to the effect that we have been deeply impressed by the learning of our teachers and by their ardent duty to help us increase in wisdom and in stature and in favour with God and man We have our own views regarding our classes and teachers which we frequently discuss among ourselves

But we have caught glimpses of some of the great minds and have obtained a better appreciation of the practical wonders of modern science and mathematics.

Continual study and midnight cramming did occasionally and perhaps yet will—harry our minds, but joy comes with the morning. Through it all we tried to think for ourselves, and sometimes succeeded.

In all we did, great or small, at work or play, there was an indefinable excitement [illegible] perhaps of youth for youth is with us and with its follies we also have its enthusiasms, which, no doubt, we shall need when we face the stern realities of life

The finest thing will be the men and women—the products of our class. Although not all of us will be great, notable, or successful, perhaps in the future we shall be able to say that "great men have been among us."

Let us hope that we have learned that living is an art and to live life fully we must have tact, poise, tolerance toward our fellow men, and consideration of others, and also the knowledge that a thing can be done gallantly as well as efficiently

We all have regrets but we also have hopes we go into the future with stout hearts and clear minds, ready to cope with the many problems which beset a new generation

Salutatorian Offers Thanks At Exercises

(By Marion Sutherland)

Mr Chairman parents, teachers, members of the school board and the town council, fellow-graduates, ladies and gentlemen I appreciate deeply the honor of being chosen the salutatorian of the graduating class of 1947, and of being asked to speak these words on behalf of my fellow-graduates and myself

First, I wish to salute the parents, who cheerfully put up with us although they must have found us rather trying at times during our earlier years I suppose, however that those trying times gave life some of its spice and present us from becoming bored

Next come the teachers who have spent so many hours drilling knowledge into us only to have us forget it for the most part soon after we go out into the world. It is not the knowledge that is so important however, but the training we have received in picking out facts and interpreting their true meaning The old school system was based on the principle of teaching the student to memorize a thing without understanding the principle behind it The new system shows a trend toward democracy in correcting this defect, by teaching the student to think for himself, and the result is more capable citizens

A salute is in store for the members of the school board, who did their best to arrange as many recreational activities as possible for us. Even if appreciation was not always shown, it was certainly felt

We sincerely regret that Mayor and Mrs T Wilkes are not able to be present on this occasion, to receive in person the salute which they so richly deserve for setting such a fine example for the community. Also, praise is in store for the members of the town council and the good citizens from whose pockets comes the means of maintaining our school

And last, but not least, hail the graduates of 1947, those of years before, and future graduates, the hope of a better world.

Graduation Exercises Held In United Church Friday

The Graduation Exercises were held in the United Church on May 23, at 7 30 p.m. Amidst a setting of lilacs tulips and carnations the graduates filed in from the back of the church and took their seats Rev S. J. Waterman from Clive, gave the invocation. After Marion Sutherland made the Salutatory Address, Gordon Lund delivered the address to our parents, teachers and school board. Mr J. S. Wes Jackson, president of the Lions Club, made the presentation of a lovely silver cup to the High School. He also mentioned that a scholarship of $100 would be given to the student taking highest marks in the departmental exams.

An address to the Graduates was given by Rev Dr P H Lee He stressed the necessity of the individual and from all four sides the physical, the mental, moral and social. Jack Simpson made the reply. The chorus sang the High School Song

The highlight of the evening came as the students filed into the front hall to be presented with their caps by Mr A M Frizzell and flowers by Mrs H. R Ross. The valedictorian was named by Mr A R Patrick and presented with an honory subscription [illegible]

(by Barbara MacDonald)

The 1946-47 school term has been a very successful one indeed for Lacombe High School students. The first social gathering of the term was held in the school assembly hall shortly after school commenced.

The new students of L.H.S. and those entering grade ten from intermediate grades were welcomed to the student body by the second, third, and fourth year students. Many of the new students had a word to say to the students. Apples were then served and school dismissed for the day.

BACK OFF DANCE

The first official dance of the season was held to the mellow tune of Sammy Kaye's music. To celebrate the official opening of the rugby season, The assembly hall was particularly decorated, one of the features being Jean Lee's comic drawings of a rugby player. Added colours of pumpkins and basketballs, as well as brightly coloured streamers, made the atmosphere complete. As each person entered he was presented with a tiny paper rugby ball to put on his lapel.

The dance got underway with a bang, the music being supplied by the newly organized High School Orchestra. As the dance continued the dancers soon found their feet and some very good interchanging as well as waltzing, was exhibited.

A refreshing contest was held first prize going to Tonnie Tolsma and Bob Goodacre of Bud Baker Confectionery in the crowd run hunt when the lucky dame was found with everyone trying to get rid of the broom.

A spot dance caught the fancy of the crowd and after the prizes were awarded the students returned their normal dancing. The lack of dance controller shortly before midnight and everyone flocked downstairs to eat, such person having had a enjoyable evening.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE

The Hallowe'en dance was held in the high school auditorium on October 31. It was well attended with a number coming as a witch's hat. The room was appropriately decorated with black and orange paper ornaments as well as pictures of black cats, witches, pumpkins, and all. Music was again supplied by the high school orchestra. Since the public address system had been set up the orchestra's vocalist, Miss Elinor Sutherland, gave out with many of the popular numbers in it. A prize was given to the best waltz couple as one of the two prize dances of the evening. Miss McEachern and Mr Patrick was first seen in an elimination dance and I shortly afterward. The prizes were found to be a bow and rattle.

Mr Patrick claimed it was a "pushover" job, but who can say?

Lunch was served later on in the evening after which dancing was resumed for a short time. After the "Home Sweet Home" waltz and "God Save the King" everyone went home satisfied.

served with the usual ceremonies during the week beginning November 11. The girls certainly took advantage of the several Saturday programs of showed their "Y-M Movies" on a wonderful time. If Dodo Mc worked a deft, she used a mole by the official writer in "I 2 Alone" the best refraining a date was Pearl Mc but we haven't heard of any dates being said! It was a great week for the ladies, but a tough one on the male counterparts.

The highlight of Inside Hewitt's week was a dance held Friday, November 15, in the school hall. The dance commenced shortly after the basketball games between Woodwards and Lacombe were concluded. The hall was decorated with pictures of the Vedan family and exhibition, but the main feature was a gruesome corpse of Lou the Plowa. The girls were really hit hard by the admission fees when a charge of one cent for every year of each of "Doc" Ed Abner's height. These ranged from shorter than were the lucky ones that made. The High School Orchestra furnished the musical entertainment and a midnight lunch was served, of course, including "Doc's" favorite "broke up" about 12:30.

REUNION DANCE

The annual L. H. S. Reunion dance, at which past and present students return accumulators was held in the Pavilion on December 26, 1946. Many graduates were able to come to the dance because of mild weather and blocked roads. However those present proved to be the largest number in attendance of the Inisfail High School orchestra. The pavilion was adorned with crepe hangings while on the band stand was a small, lovely decorated Christmas tree.

The theme for the dance was "Old Fashioned Christmas" and dancers were pleasing to watch as they were attired in both formal and semi-formal dress. The dancing continued until midnight when everyone took time out for lunch. Each was composed of doughnuts, sandwiches, coffee and cookies milk. Dancing was resumed at one o'clock and continued until 2:30.

VALENTINE DANCE

The Valentine dance was the last dance held after the Christmas holidays. It took place on Friday and it came the Lacombe Collegiate. It was a big success with the high school students, as members had been looking forward to it for some time. Therefore it was no wonder that these music had an extra bit of rhythm to it that night.

The attendance was not very good because of the cold weather but all those present were served up to their "standard" first stuff. Many novelty dances, such were held during the evening gave the dancers something extra for their money. Lunch, consisting of chocolate milk and sandwiches, was served about midnight. The dance came to a close after a few more pieces were played.

EASTER DANCE

The annual Easter Dance was held on the night of Wednesday, April 2nd. The large crowd present was by attributed to the extra weather and also to the fact that it was "Dance" late night out! Dancing started short after eight o'clock with music by the High School Orchestra. Prizes were given for several novelty dances held during the evening. Main event of the evening was a square dance called by Jim Beatty. Patrick arrived while the square dance was in full swing, but no doubt surprised to see everyone swinging all over the room instead of sitting quietly in the seats. When the notes of the last waltz had died away, the crowd began departing, everyone feeling satisfied with the night's pleasure.

Rhapsody In Blue

— By Enid Jones

One of the most heartbreaking experiences in poor mortals, a person would be desirous. For the location of this old world would be here one cent. But the unfortunate would be compensation to our ears. It would be like living in a glass cement, also be sure, but unable to hear.

Many children the heart, and epidemics the nothing to sing a tune above the handsome poet's day would in the golden tones of rolling whistling its music — to listen to the stars. The drab. How many others are left behind and the realms of night to listen back. Make be, to the happy, and it is within our grasp.

Does a musical bird realize as he bursts forth with publishers? Does song from his throat that he is doing great service to the world? Does a laughing bird, as it wanders over the ocean, estimate the balm that resonated to the wounded hearts that he breaks its hands and add their laughter to its song as it wanders over the ocean. Do but creating or what motive has taught them to do — and where does their store default to before Who does thankful we mortals be able to appreciate the gift of melody which has been held in our hands?

Just as all composers — Chopin Bach Beethoven and the others must have truly realized the full beauty dream of music in order to put their melodies to others in rippling notes of harmony which fall like pearls on the ear.

The song writers of today have a noble calling, uplifting all that is best in mankind, wrong to sometimes worth-touting. There are many truth rather music and record in it, to be able to sing or write.

Many beings from birth and warm feelings, a record of people lutherly strangers to one and other are sovereigns might and wars — as there as the homecoming call.

An unknown peasant sits down at a piano, surrounded by chords of sound. His fingers has sensitive fingers over the keys, and he plays. Every note he touches — note! This playing to touch the people — to you! Then he plays, he touches the souls of people. Here, this is the shallow waters over the shore, gently he come you cannot swim or shoals! Then will not settle back at a comfort able seat there and let the melody ripple over your tired senses, even though you cannot understand.

If you cannot sing or play you can at least listen to and appreciate previous beginnings, which has come down to us through the ages from the song of the wandering minstrels and troubadours.

Love me wealth and I have the world as me love has given me music and I have conquered The Universe.

Public Opinion

— By Pearl Nienhuis

Public opinion is sometimes more powerful than laws in controlling our behaviour. We all want the approval of the group and fashion for instance from these like others of our group. We want to be a check to wear the latest type of dress — and of course all are influenced by what seems to conform to the mode of living that surrounds us. Even a person who tries to laugh at this has some extreme else is laughing, and he some they are amused.

Public opinion is more powerful even more than everyday habits and customs. It is a necessary force in our social and business life. Many companies have gone out of business because habits or customs — using appeals to the public's emotional interest.

Practically all our habits come to us second hand. We acquire most of them from our parents, brothers, and classmates, or pick them up from

Consider The Flowers

— By Betty Magee

There is much danger that the baby's dapper and the red lily of the west, will soon disappear unless steps are taken to preserve them.

With the thought of bares being done, the modern as a leisurely drive in the summer evenings, stops. The entire family runs here and there breaking off the plants at ground level, and taking home great bunches. Arriving home they crowd many into any available vases and jars, like prisoners to an enemy reconciliation camp. The natural beauty disappears, and the flowers become there bored in shame never to bring any again to the like site.

The red lily, probably better known as the is a tall, has a red tinted, tawny bell-shaped tob-ment, which grows erect on a tall stem. They bloom in late June and early July, thriving best on low sandy soil. Little do people realize how they destroy it, but the lily puts supreme effort into its blossom. After blooming time the leaves of this personal build up the necessary reserve food supply for another year. When the flower is picked, the leaves are nearly always taken too — and so the bulb remains depleted and the roots die or require several years to regain enough strength to produce more flowers.

Wild flowers should be the heritage of man kind for all time. They are in danger of destruction. We have no right to deny future generations the joy of their presence.

Admire the beauty of these flowers, but refrain from destroying them. Let us learn to respect our wild flowers where they grow, let us admire their beauty and fragrance in Mother Nature's setting.

Tips on the Teachers

Staff L. H. S. 1946-47

FIRST Miss M. Jones, Miss C. Crawford, Miss H. Ireland, Mr. Sharpe, Back Miss A. Simmons, Mr. A. R. Patrick (principal) Mr. J. Johnson (vice-principal) Miss J. Hines

MR. R. PATRICK
Principal SH. S

When "The Boss" — true Albertan through and through, was born at Castor and acquired his early education in that same town. The universities of Alberta and Queens showed us the special ego of pitching Mr Patrick be his Bachelor of Education degree he believes in out door recreation — basketball, curling and hockey are his favourites. Hobbies build these pals, as his life has to date any takes up and through the years interest in biology he true many experiments. Where edged about other interests he modestly compelled. "High school students." The Pencil? Scissors? Oh no, it seems he is — "Well you have to write departmentals, and me — I'm the boss."

MR. J. JOHNSTON
Vice-Principal

Mr. Johnston was born in Calgary and had hardly mastered the English language when his family moved to Bancroft. Where he returned to Lacombe he had to learn English all over again. This was easy, however for Mr. J. distinguished himself by winning the scroll's silver medal while attending grade eight. Mr. Johnston specializes in commercial at the University of Alberta, where he will receive a Bachelor of Education degree next season. In addition to his school activities, Mr. Johnson has been president of the Canadian Union College.

He has many hobbies of which experimenting with electricity holds first place. Mr. Johnston says he has enjoyed his first year at L.H.S. and has found the students very co-operative. The results have found Mr. Johnston to be one "swell guy."

MISS CRAWFORD
Grade SH. II

A true lass of Scotland born on the Isle of Lisdoy, Canada greeted her to its shores in 1910. Miss Crawford started her high school career at the age of 10 (standards 17) (please take note!) For her higher education the University of Alberta was her choice. When asked about her favorite sports she replied with a smile, "All of them! I don't have any." Miss Crawford is very fond of reading and landscape painting.

MISS H. IRELAND
B.A., Science Teacher

Miss Ireland is very interested in music. She collects phonograph records and one of her biggest ambitions is to secure a record player.

In her short stay in Lacombe she has organized and trained a Lacombe High School choir. Her training was a very important factor in the success of the Spring dramatic and musical concert.

MISS H. JONES
B.A., B.Ed.

Our very capable French and Latin teacher was born and educated in Calgary. Here, she won a scholarship in French which entitled her to take a course at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Miss Jones attended the University of Alberta, where she received her Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Education degrees. She is very active socially being head of the dramatic and French clubs. Miss Jones has become very popular with the high school students.

MISS GLASS
Grade 9

Miss — or is it Mrs.? — has been a teacher for many years. Her travels some world in Dr. Locke Howe car. For instance of travels, her trip to Europe for the University of Alberta audiences I have to do with Miss Glass' experiences in her various sports. Miss Glass as head of tennis, all her basketball and skating are her favourites. Her hobbies — is Miss Glass? and — yes! Britain — and would — to Scotland confronting her at the present time is "shall I be married or shall I not?"

MR. H. SHARPE

Mr. Sharpe, our General Shop teacher, is strictly a Lacombe man having been born and brought up here. He finished his rural community schools before he began learning here five years ago.

Mr. Sharpe teaches shop in both the junior and senior high and has only a job but also one of Mr. Sharp's hobbies. Many of the fine pieces of furniture in his house were made by him in the shop. His motto, "a piece of carpentry, being and everything in its place."

When the shop work is divided next year, it shows a definite by the high quality of work the students do in the shop. Judging by Mr Sharpe's prominent supervision.

MISS A. E. HUNT

Mrs. Ross was born and educated in Edmonton, where she received her Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Alberta. She taught in Lacombe during the war years, when teachers became scarce, and again volunteered to teach. Two children, Ann and Alasdair, are through the years and can't get through.

Mrs. Ross has two favourite chores. 1. Don't come to class without your work done. 2. Don't chew gum.

She is always willing to share her time with those students requiring assistance. For this reason, along with her untiring pal ing and personal charm, she has become one of the most respected teachers Lacombe high school has ever had.

MISS SHIRDAN
Household Economics

Sounds like Bob Burns and Tex Ritter and Miss young lady was born at Killam, Alberta, and married the Reve R's there. Later she attended summer classes at the University of Alberta. Before coming to Lacombe she guided some young minds at Provost in the same sorts of cooking. When asked of her future plans she confessed that her mind was a blank.

Lacombe High School presented its Color Night on Friday, May 16, in the United Church Hall. A fine supper which started at 6:30, started the evening off. Rev. Hinman was master of ceremonies. The W. A. and the Y.W.A. served the dinner with few of the girls assisting. Who the banquet was provided, the Lacombe High Missionary Society entertained everyone by standing for a toast to the King. This was followed by Mr. Williamson's toast to the graduates. In this he expressed his sincere hope to the graduates that all of them would get out into the business world, giving a little token in thanks of all the work done throughout the year. Each of them received words. Then Fred made the presentations of money to the three students who won the Globe Editorial Contest from the High School.

Mr. Patrick then presented awards to the boy and girl who obtained the highest scholastic ability in each grade. Miss Olson gave the sports awards to the most outstanding female and male athlete. Vote Throughout School Division

Hold Plebiscite June 28 on $80,000 Debenture Issue

Plans for the proposed $80,000 school at Bentley will be held up for some time, as a result of a petition from ratepayers of the Bentley district requesting that a vote on the matter be taken in a plebiscite throughout the school division. The plebiscite will be held on Saturday, June 28, when polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Ballots for the plebiscite electors' trustees have no route on a money question to register their approval or disapproval of the proposed debenture issue. The petition calling for the vote was presented to the board of trustees at their regular meeting on Monday afternoon by Alvin Hoffman, secretary of the Bentley school district. The petition was signed by the undersigned proprietary electors of the Lacombe school district No. 56, hereby demand a poll on the matter of issue of debentures for $80,000 for the erection of a school in Bentley, and recommend that meetings be held to show reason why this school be built, and why it should be built in Bentley.

Members of the Lacombe divisional school board met Monday evening with representatives of the rural school district (Bentley) to discuss the matter. All present stated plans for the construction of the school would be narrowed down by the petitioners, and the vote has been called at an early date as per this notice.

It is expected that the consolidation of the Oxford school district and the Lacombe school district, already approved by the ratepayers and electors for the purpose of establishing a consolidated school, will be gazetted shortly.

The entire matter will be explained and discussed at the annual school district trustee convention to be held in Lacombe on Saturday, June 21 (tonight). Scheduled for June 20, the convention is now slated ahead one week because of the number of calling a plebiscite. It was felt that the general attendance of the debentures would be thoroughly discussed with the trustees of the various school districts, and votes, in turn, would pass the information on to the electors in their areas.

Special meetings may be called by school trustees of the individual school districts, if you point out the meeting, and the debenture issue for the proposed new school will be explained, could be thoroughly aired at these meetings.

Polling places throughout the division, and deputy returning officers, will be published in this paper prior to the election.

School Congestion Here Discussed at Meeting of Boards

The boards of the Lacombe school district and the Lacombe school division met informally Monday afternoon to discuss the possibility of amalgamating in the future to provide increased school accommodation in the area. In the course of the conversations both groups showed a desire to co-operate for a mutual improvement of present facilities, although no commitments were made.

It was mentioned that at the present time, only one-third of the students attending high school in Lacombe live here permanently, while the remainder come from outlying points. The larger group is the responsibility of the division board. By common consent, the boards discussed a new high school building, based on a per pupils cost-sharing plan between the two boards concerned. This would mean that under present circumstances, the division board would be responsible for approximately two-thirds of the cost of constructing any new building.

The town board representatives view the fact that future demands for education will exceed those of the past. If the town's present plans continue to be followed, and on a basis for the months, the total of a $200,000.00 school unit which would provide ten ordinary classrooms, and the facilities for agricultural-industrial and woodworking shops was considered.

It was realized in connection with the thought of an expanded curriculum that allowance would have to be made for the larger student body which would be attracted by a new high school offering new courses. The greater number of students might, in turn, necessitate increased dormitory facilities.

One of the new courses which was discussed as possible and desirable for high instruction in various branches of agriculture, including work with livestock and machinery, and also extended household economics instruction.

P. Tingley, supervisor of industrial arts for the department of education.

Suggested at the meeting as the idea that each community could be prepared by residents of the town and district, might provide elementary facilities for a new school, and would thus serve a purpose over a community center and a part of the town's educational unit. The new building now under discussion would be for high school use and would be constructed in such a manner as to make it easily extended.

The Lacombe school district board is now operating 10 rooms in the town of Lacombe. The 12 school rooms in the present school is considered sufficient to accommodate the probable pupil enrolment for several years, and most which would result from an inclusion of the district in the division.

Was Resident Here Since 1896

Dr. E. M. Sharpe Passes Away at Home

Dr. E. M. Sharpe, 85 year old veteran resident of Lacombe, died very quietly in his sleep at his home on Monday morning. The deceased was one of the best known residents of the Lacombe district, having lived here since Wednesday in 1896. He arrived on a Friday, and the medical practice up to ten years ago, but about the last eight years, he has lived a retired life.

Born in New Brunswick on April 29, 1862, Dr. Sharpe took his preliminary medical training, and was admitted to McGill University at the age of 20, and graduated, with the degree, in 1884.

The same year, he moved west, and settled in Wetaskiwin, where he stayed for about 2½ years before coming to Lacombe and succeeding Dr. F. J. Richardson, a former class mate at McGill. There was an old house, no hospital either, but Dr. Sharpe had many friends, and all surgical work was done under difficulties.

Dr. Sharpe took an active part in the formation of the first hospital here, which was built in 1907. During his early days in Lacombe, the practice was large, he made many calls to Mirror, Eckville, Bentley, Alliance districts, travelling by horse and buggy and often taking five and three days to complete a single call. In 1912 he purchased his first car, one of the first in the district, but he often claimed that it "was useful only in a limited degree."

Dr. Sharpe was appointed coroner here in 1905, and held this office for over thirty years. From 1908 to 1909 he was medical attendant at the Indian Reservation at Hobbema. He served on the Lacombe school district board from 1908 until 1920, with the exception of one year, 1909, when he was elected mayor of Lacombe. He was a member of the old hospital board for a number time of its longest term in office, until the new hospital was built in 1936, and was a past president of the Old Timers' Association here.

Funeral services were held from the Lacombe United Church Wednesday afternoon, and a large number of old timers and friends turned out to pay their last respects to the deceased.

Rev. J. Hamilton officiated.

The Lacombe Funeral Home was in charge of all funeral arrangements. Pallbearers were Dr. Lee, Lund, G. Y. Jackson and John Hutchinson, Lacombe; Fred Sage, William McNaughton, Cliff Burton, Seymour Edmonds, O. S. Young and Boyd Crocker.

Interment was made at the Lacombe cemetery.

School Industrial Arts Display Is Well Attended

Lacombe students displayed their woven Tuesday afternoon and evening at the school, and showed interested adults of the town a sample of the work of which they are capable. Amid a setting of home flowers the pupils of Miss Hamilton's handicraft class had numerous articles and illustrations of their handiwork on display. Interesting needlework, displayed samples of their work of the past term.

Miss Hamilton further the examples of home-making to about 60 girls, ranging from grade seven to grade eleven during the school's display showed, in the opinion of many visitors, that the girls are themselves will be very efficient. The girls have done a large amount of handwork, including a number of pieces of Swedish hemstitching, and among the articles turned out from the two sewing machines with which the home held possession were a number of aprons, dresses, blouses, and even bathrobes. They begin their training in the sewing class in the fall and are classified as three simple projects to more complicated ones as they

A.H.A. Refuses Lacombe Junior A Hockey Entry

Lacombe's plans to enter a Junior A hockey team in the provincial hockey playoffs next year received a body blow early this week when the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association refused to accept the entry. Reason for the refusal given was because of the fact that Lacombe's attitude followed was not sufficiently large to support such a team.

"I don't see that the size of the rink has anything to do with it, Robert Park, president of the local athletic association told the Globe Tuesday. "What difference does it make to the A.H.A. if even if we played on a slough. The Rural would be glad to go as guests anytime, but that's a rotten deal to refuse to give the kids here a chance to play in Junior hockey."

In a letter sent to Mr. Park by Frank Goulburn, who was to have been the coach of the proposed junior team here, the well known Southern Lacombeau hockey coach, says, in part

"After the rotten deal we have received from the A.H.A. it is none than I can stand, so I have decided to call it quits."

"I have done all in my power to give Lacombe a good Junior A team, and have no fight left. Such a poor excuse as they gave about the rink is no good they were afraid the team would beat the big city."

Meanwhile, the refusal of the A.H.A. to accept the Lacombe entry throws the hockey picture here for use in confusion. It appears probable however, that Lacombe will enter a strong team in the intermediate league which operates in central Alberta, but it appears certain at present that that team will not be a purely junior aggregation.

GAMES LED BECAUSE OF WET WEATHER

Rain hit the schedule of the Central Alberta Baseball League during the past week or ten days and the Lacombe team had been set to postpone three games, according to Coach Cedar Talbot. Games with Bentley Sylvan Lake, and Perky Mountain House have been rescheduled, but it is expected they will be played before June 15.

Educating Youth

On Saturday, June 14 the annual roll class picnic will be held at the Central Alberta Dairy Pool Pavilion here. Judging and judging competitions will take up the greater part of the morning and in the early afternoon, the two hundred riders will be auctioned off to the highest bidders.

Basketball and many other of these native sports are an individual show of enterprise on the part of the calf club owners. The farmers of tomorrow I am told by those who received the first calves in this district, are those who are taught to look after their own property. With each calf youngsters have received invaluable experience in the care of livestock.

That is the purpose of these clubs—to teach the young farming population the care and worth of livestock in both them, thoroughly, the manner which most of them will follow. The calf clubs are doing a masterful bit of work in fostering the farming future of these youngsters.

Hunger in Europe

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

EUROPE needs bread. Two years after the end of war, large areas of that exhausted continent are short of bread-grains. And a widespread hunger threatens all public members why.

As background to the hunger in a war spun times as destructive as World War I.

Farm machinery destroyed or deteriorated during the war has not yet been replaced. Chemical fertilizers are needed for impoverished soils—though the United States and her allies meanwhile chemically nitrogen and phosphorous plants in Germany which could supply this need. Fields in fallow which long ago presents have reduce seed grain endured of sown in Hungary, Rumania, Poland, Austria, overmastered by the number of men still under arms.

All this has been made more acute by the weather which some people accuse of Fascist sympathies. Disastrous drought has been followed by severe cold, killing early crops and finishing arable land with moisture. Hungry crops alone have kept these successive attacks of the elements from being knocked down.

But North American grain will not solve the hunger-form problems of European agriculture and somehow these problems are worse that are basically political There in the decreased efficiency] that has come with land reform in eastern Europe. There is the problem of the black market in western Europe, depriving the many to feed the few. Without faith in the currency without consumer goods to buy, the farmer hoards and the city dweller suffers. Europe finds itself unable either to solve internal problems or to dispense with controls.

Man shall not live by bread alone. Relief must continue to flow unstintingly to Europe, but an economic emphasis must be put on helping her to remedy these conditions beyond sun and frost which lie at the root of her continuing hunger.

A Successful Sale

LACOMBE'S 30th annual bull sale, held at the Central Alberta Pavilion last Thursday, was the most successful event ever staged by the Central Alberta Cattle Breeder's Association. Averages were high, sample prizes were high, and most of the contributors were more than satisfied with the financial results received.

Close to 200 bulls were sold, and all were snapped up eagerly by the many buyers from different parts of the province. The sale offers conclusive evidence that cattlemen of central Alberta are endeavoring to improve the quality of their herds in order to increase their returns from cattle, and meet the continuous exacting demands of today's markets.

Officials of the Central Alberta Cattle Breeders Association are to be congratulated on the success of this venture which followed very closely the fat stock show and sale of May 23, which was also a resounding success.

Farming Notes

For Better Cream Quality

During 1946, 47% of all cream marketed at Alberta creameries graded below Second with a loss to cream producers of nearly $325,000.00. The largest percentage of this loss was caused by cleanliness and grading only No. 1.

B. H., McCallum, Dairy Commissioner, says that one of the most important steps in quality cream production is the cleanliness of the cream separator, equipment, machines, milking machines and all dairy utensils. Two cups in which cleaning action can be done on the average dairy farm are:

1. Submerging all utensils in boiling water

2. Use of a chlorine or chemical sterilizing solution.

The ultimate solution is considered by most producers but the sentiment must be used correctly. The chlorine solution should be used only on clean surfaces. If any dirt or milk is present the strength of the chlorine is reduced and it does not kill the bacteria. Very often following milking and separating, utensils are washed, rinsed with a chlorine solution, and put away in a rack until the next milking. Having this time the chlorine passes off and the bacteria multiply on the surfaces.

All pails cans, milking machines and separator parts should be either immersed in a sterilizing solution for at least five minutes, or brushed with the solution immediately before use so that every part of the utensil is wet for at least five minutes. Utensils should then be rinsed off with cold water and the milking proceeded with immediately.

Get Wild Oats Now

W. Lehoy, Supervisor of Agricultural Services Boards for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, who has just returned to Edmonton from a tour of the province, reports that many early ordered Argentine Polish in that section are polluted with wild oats.

Mr. Lehoy suggests that farmers with early sown fields heavily colonized with these weeds, if nationally consider cultivating or plowing up the crop and re-seeding with an early barley variety such as Olli or with oats for greenfeed. There is still time for Olli barley to mature and the question of re-seeding is worth considering.

Weather conditions this spring have been ideal for the germination of wild oats but with the arrival of warmer weather germination will slow down. If the above advice is followed, those with grain fields heavily polluted with wild oats can expect an encouraging reduction in the wild oat population.

Young Farmers' Week

The Alberta Department of Agriculture has announced a new Short Course of one week in practical agriculture at the Schools of Agriculture located at Olds and Vermilion. The time set at both Schools is June 16th to 21st.

The Course is designed for young men on the farm who may either be working at home with their parents or running their own farms. There are no admittance restrictions other than a minimum age limit of seventeen years. Classes will consist of talks, demonstrations and discussions that will be helpful in meeting many of the routine problems of farming. There will be discussions on soil types and tillage methods, crop varieties, weed eradication, the farm garden, weed gardening, farm farm machinery, the farm work-shop, and some basic principles of farm management. Inspection trips over the demonstration plots, the farm, orchards and school grounds, will supplement the class work. In the evenings there will be social and recreational activities.

The only costs are those for travelling and for living expenses. Comfortable accommodation is provided in the School Dormitory at the cost of $1.50 per day. Application should be made at once since classes will be limited to the first sixty applications received at each school. Application forms and full information can be obtained from District Agriculturists or from the principal of the Schools of Agriculture at either Olds or Vermilion.

Pioneers Passing Away

DEATH has taken two of the pioneer residents of the Lacombe district within the past few weeks. The late Mr. E. M. Sharpe and Alfred Barr, have passed the stage of old Pioneer, but their both included them a country and a district rather, become they lived, the roads as these pioneered this country, the friendships of many, the home and children which did them serve, all are living monuments to the pioneers of fifty years ago who came to this district, settled and built homes, country and laid the basis of prosperity for the people who were more than once.

Central Alberta has grown tremendously since the Sharpe lived and Barr passed away, but it is owing to brave, useful pioneers like these that the district has become what it is today. Lacombe stands since All Day sub-divided part of his farm which later became a part of the township of Lacombe.

The passing of such men is a milestone in the history of this country. It throws the future of the district into active residents residents who did and experience the trials and troubles of the earlier settlers. It also lands on the residents of the district a challenge to make as successful a job of the development of this district as did the old settlers. It is then we must thank for what we have.

They were both highly respected in this district and general regard is expressed at their passing.

Centralizing Education

EDUCATION is the province in bounding for and on the right direction. It is gradually moving into and more centralization.

The school pattern is still patchwork, but it is beginning to assume a definite shape. Perhaps as much by accident as anything else many rural schools of the past few years have been forced to close down. A series of circumstances—the war, the shortage of teachers, transportation difficulties. The changed conditions have persisted in the post-war years, though to a lesser degree.

Country children left with no teacher chose one of several alternatives. Some learned their a's and b's by correspondence. Others crowded the ranks of nearby rural schools which were better able enough to have a teacher while others travelled or lodged themselves in town schools like Lacombe.

This centralization of students into a single school has caused some inconvenience to students, but it has tended to result also and at the same time improve the standard of education offered in these schools. Better teachers, and a more varied school program has been the result.

Now we see the same pattern of centralization extended to school divisions themselves, in the report "go ahead" signal given to the Consolidated high school at Red Deer. This school will allow students from three divisions—Red Deer County, and I to enjoy an opportunity to pursue training and fields hitherto beyond their reach.

Agriculture, home making, farm mechanics, commercial, automotives, electricity, metals and wood working are among the courses to be offered. Concerted action on the part of the three divisions on the pooling of their resources, has made possible vocational training on such a scale.

For that reason, Lacombe residents should shelve any narrow ideas they may have on the school "helping Red Deer." That the school is a good thing for any country that the school also helps students in this district who are interested in vocational training, along with their regular classroom studies. And any scheme which enables more people to advance ought to be encouraged, as Lacombe school division officials have done, without allowing partisan opinions to enter the picture.

Road Manners

THAT highway motor accidents in this immediate district have been reported during the past week, seven persons were involved, seven lives were at stake and only because of the chance nature of fate have we not possible serious injuries avoided.

The mishaps may have been quite unavoidable. That is of little concern here, but they do serve a reminder to us all that the heavier traffic of the summer months is once again upon us. It calls for additional effort and extra precautions to keep the highways accident toll at a minimum.

There are the time-tables admonitions that are stereotyped with repetition, but they are worth keeping alive. don't pass cars on hills or corners, watch for trains at crossings, don headlights at night. Excessive speeds too, cause many other wise avoidable crashes. Forty or fifty miles an hour will take you just as far as seventy miles an hour and with much more safety, particularly in the light of the weaker synthetic tires on most cars today.

It all adds up to more common sense on the long run. A little saves mixed with ordinary courtesy as a good driving recipe for the careful motorist to remember. If it could be applied to all motor travellers as of it, accidents would come out down the traffic toll which reaches the appalling figure of 30,000 dead in the United States last year, and a proportionate number per capita in Canada.

Selecting Breeding Stock

Progressive breeders are extremely careful in selecting breeding stock. They may have different methods or different standards on which they base their selection but in the main they all consider the following points of the animals and the litter mates, as well as the individuality of the animal itself. Information supplied by Dominion and provincial animal husbandry specialists.

Litter mates is important and it is considered by many to be the most important factor to consider in selecting for litter size, as well as selecting early and general producing matriarch. The litter test is important as litter size, because if a litter averages 12 pigs and raises only 8 or seven years ago, the record is compared with one that averages 10 and raises 10 healthy, outstanding pigs. The profit to the producer in the case of a family is due to the fact that the boar has little influence on litter size, that is, he does not generally affect the number of pigs a sow farrows but his influence is shown in the litter size of his daughters the size of a litter.

Feed economy is important and there is little doubt that there are good-doing strains and poor doing strains, which are inherited. The ability to do well on concentrates is valuable and economy should be remembered that minimum standards are accepted. For example, a pig may grade "A" but still be on the short side, and with the present price it is desirable to have good length, and not economy. The Selected Breeder Policy is the preferred manner of breeding stock, but it should be kept in mind that the A. B. system a misstep and it is best to have subsequent breeding stock of the same quality that qualifies. If the latter is not available, however, it has been shown that stock bred to the best animals is in general better than that with no record at all.

In addition to these above important considerations, the individuality of the animal to be used for breeding must also be remembered. It should have good body conformation, and be free from disease. The female should have at least 12 and preferably 14 functional teats. If, however, it comes of a declining breed type it should be avoided with quality and no regard as against one not open to such breed but with a sound body conformation. Indeed, it, the choice should be left to the latter.

Then, the selection of swine breeding stock should be based on the ancestry viewed of litter, selling capacity, maternal temperament, feeding efficiency and carcass quality, as well as the type of the individual.

Dear Sir:

I hope you will not permit the letter of John S. Holden of Evansville, had to go unanswered.

What a curse he puts up for the long-suffering land against U.S.A. Does he to ever forget that the U.S. left the British Empire and Canada to carry the whole burden of the war for three years and have made huge profits out of them, and demanded tribute for free Lend-Lease and Canada has always been your supplies well at highly inflated prices.

The present dollar shortage is caused by the U.S. policy of selling your supplies to Britain and other countries at highly inflated prices until she has built up all the gigantic dollar reserves of the U.S.A.

He says 90% of the foreign buying is Government from Government business. This is true, but the Government buys from American firms only at El Alamein to Burma and all the other fronts. Canadian Government Troops gave their lives in the battles to keep in between and Norway. No American ever gave even to protect British interests. They were given for sure. Canadian soldiers were America as interests and they have it does but because of Canada's war effort. Don't America's troops look different when the fighting has ceased.

What Americans helped liberate British possessions in North Africa? He seems to be anxious to disable, and by what kind of economics could this be liberating British possessions.

"When would Canada call on to come her second and should be invited?" I don't know who she would call, but it is very not a threat to the U.S.A. I know we would get the help from Have I do know whether threatened or not, Britain would be here with the last dollar and the last man.

Here English-speaking nations have been together and for the last resort because otherwise America would lose the buffer Lapland and Canada have always been your supplies well at highly inflated prices.

10,000 Chicks Fly

An item of interest to the poultry industry is the recent shipment of 10,000 Leghorn chicks from Chilliwack, B.C., to Edmonton, which is probably the record plane. These chicks were taken from the incubators in Chilliwack and were packed and delivered in Edmonton in the afternoon in very good condition. This is the first shipment of its kind reported in Canada, says the Live Stock and Poultry Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture and it is quite likely that this method will be used frequently for the transportation of chicks from B.C. to the Prairie Provinces.

Lacombe Beats Bentley, Mordogs To Run Win Streak To Five

Just how good is the Lacombe softball team? That question was at odds in the Central Alberta League to date, and from the wondering exactly how they can keep up their present winning habits. They showed fond the on some and much when they beat Bentley on Tuesday with their seventh win in five starts.

Jimmy Miles throttled Bentley with some run and four meagre hits before his arm tired in the fifth. Coughlin finished up the route with an equally creditable performance.

Reports Given At the C.A.D.P. Meeting Tuesday

ed by John Howe. Alta Oliver directors are J. A. Bean, Dalehurst; J. R. Bentley, Lacombe, re-elected; L. Shelley, Red Deer; J. J. Wood, Lacombe, re-elected; L. W. Brown, Penhold; J. Hutchings, Lacombe; Mrs. Ethel Hunter, Lacombe; Mrs. Bowden.

The financial report presented by H. C. McConnel of the Penhold branch of the Credit Foncier has showed deficits from Bentley, Lacombeau, Bellevue, Red Deer, Innisfail, Olds and Bentley plants totalling $2,317.47 offset by surpluses from Alta Oliver, Ponoka, Red Deer and Stettler plants totalling $4,388.69 and a surplus from the combined sale of $18,000.27 to provide the total surplus for the year.

Manager's Report

Manager Ed. Hutchinson submitted the great spread in receipts between the previous year and to the high costs of transport of feed, the high cost of labor, trucks, and the need both these commodities for building new plants, where the business justified it. Plants were personally delivered, showed a larger surplus for 1946 early in the year as was delivered personally and at the present time. But figure of Mr. Hutchinson looked here and to whom we have to thank for the primary producer if personal deliveries are maintained, along with C.A.D.P. plants which are supposed to handle possible purchases as well as direct products.

The good acquired the necessary of Bentley during 1946. At present 202 new members. This number is the highest in the history of the division thousand mark. The operations in 1946,000.00 rather than it was in 1945 and has grown in 22 years from its enterprise with one community and its assets to the point where it now owns and operates 11 plants, has 2,000 members, thirteen better plants, and a total business of $1,000,000 annually, seven of which hold a "outstanding" quality production, and is possibly seventeen plant which is regarded as one of the best for its size in the Dominion of Canada. Assets are $1,000,000 and a half million dollars worth of business a year.

A banquet in the Buffalo room at the Buffalo Hotel concluded the approximately 150 people seated up the day's activities. Miss Mary Hutchinson, daughter of the Provincial Valley Milk Producers' Association, and Mrs. Hutchinson, parents on the work done at the Happy conference of the P.A.M.

Recreation Centre Fund

The 10th anniversary observance of Lacombe to build a Memorial Recreation Centre here looks a long way off at the moment. Meeting, the fund received only the smallest sum of money in its history, being generously made by individuals and organizations of the town and district.

The fund has the 50,000 mark, the 60,000 mark and the 70,000 mark to go until we get there we will be all good, because then we will have a fine memorial recreation centre here. But the ob his prospects which are addressed to him, and which will this past week can hold just before him the fund passed the 60,000 total. For here is this week the 70,000 mark has been reached. It is to the work and plans of a new, fine and ex- projects are now under way. The centre will have but would not be erected for some years to come, although efforts were disappointed over the small number of at the same time, also by the fund reached Saturday's dance at Lacombe last week sponsored by the Masonic Lodge Hamlet put another 140 odd into the coffers. The dance was an unusual but successful one and the committee are calling for another and like it.

The funds obtained during the past week are proceeds, donations, of course, in the light of the 60,000 mark, and the 70,000 mark, and full results, however, with proceeds going to the fund, will soon receive interest and start the ball rolling. Let us hope that the new fig- ures obtained this week will carry the fund through to a memorial completion. It is up to better and district residents to give their full support in this worthy enterprise.

Co-operative Grown

Central Alberta can well be proud of its dairy co-operative, an association which in 22 years has grown from nothing to a most substantial organization. The growth has not been easy, and the difficulties encountered during the years have not been few, but the perseverance of those concerned in the organization has provided the factor of success which is necessary in the development of a big business.

In 1925 the annual co-operative group purchased a few cream separators and sent cans, apparently. Through the local and that local's decision became known and in the district the co-op was able to keep its head above water and purchased the former Lacombe Dairy Products, at Red Deer.

It was then that the co-op received a really revitalizing blow - one which was a blessing in disguise and responsible in a large extent for the substantial growth it has made to-day. The redundancy caused upset given to members. The redundancy fee and loss of thousands of dollars worth of cash with the new board which was then elected by the public didn't buy Dairy pool debts rose to unemployment proportions as milk was shorted in price to the producers.

In that time of crisis the co-op was in- almost from an old and unsound the ways of big business by a sophisticated youth, still young, re- silient, enthusiastic but more shrewd and calculating than before.

The years that have brought higher prices and greater stability to their members, which are our farmers and the economy of the central Alberta farmer and the dairy pool has fully grown up.

The co-operative is an equitable picture for the building of the farm structure which now exists, has been the spirit of the men who formed the pool. All the members are men who have in central Alberta. Their members now total almost 11,000 and if each member is counted as the bread winner in an average family, then people it will be seen that 44,000 of the farm population are intimately connected with the pool.

The co-op has proved of the provincial pop- ulation is connected with the pool and Alberta's good and during the war less than ten percent of the farm population was in uniform. The co-op- erative system to make a hopeful future for the province, and for the dominion, for surely it too powerful co-op- ers, five percent co-operative activity could easily be build a prosperous one, and to this nation that will contribute to economic life to the height of a world which has its interest in unity.

The Plowing Match

The annual plowing match sponsored by the Lacombe U.F.A. was of greater value than ever before. Twelve contestants plowed the entire field and worked for an hour and half patiently each long freshly turned earth. Their own and strong back straps, setting furrows across the surface of land over a quarter for the eye to judge.

But there was a simple service observation. The real value of the match lay in its educational benefits. It taught contestants and observers some of the finer points of plowing which are apt to be skipped over in daily practice, for example, how to control those small areas of weeds which are usually left standing at the ends and on the corners of the ordinary plowed field. The instructions and comments given at the match by the judge, F. Parkinson of the 69th agricultural school were straight for word and constructive.

The event in other words, tried to induce good plowing habits which, in turn, would improve the use of good habits in other lines of farming.

The demonstration on the tiller which followed was watched with avid interest by visitors and answers brought out helpful information.

Looking at the match from the broad view there would seem to be no less educational gather- ings of this kind which make for better farming methods in the district. If farmers know the why, they'll soon do the how. That's why instruction is important. Ten frequent outdoor meetings are im- portant, of course, but the discussion experimental stations, the agricultural offices and similar organ- izations would do well to plan a heavier and more varied program of farm instructional events, with reasonable time intervals.

The plowing match is only one public on the beach. It was badly hard during the busy weeks, season but the turnout was still be described as only mediocre in this respect, farmers themselves had to recognize the worth - basis of such meetings?

Care of Pullets

Pullets should normally reach sexual maturity and begin to lay at from five to seven months of age, depending largely on the breed variety or strain of birds. Some strains are more mature and so less time laying throughout the winter months. This is dependent upon the growth, development and vigour of the flock at this stage, says W. Ivan, Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, Alberta.

A considerable number of potential layers lose the growing birds are in the baby chick and growing stage, and if these can be established as strong, mature, or at least could be reduced both on winter grain and development.

Many chicks receive their first setback from digestive disturbances by overfeeding or chilling owing to lack of warmth. Chilling is caused by overcrowding of any sort but a common effect upon the health and thrift of growing chicks is the too brooder house with poor ventilation. In to this baby chicks, but extra floor space becomes abnormal necessary until at the end of the first few weeks. Overcrowding about four square feet of floor space per bird. Improving the house at an early age, provision of ample at the first sign of poor thrift and extra space as necessary will help prevent the evils of overcrowding.

Some, unnatural conditions favour the development of disease and parasites. Frequent changes of litter and clean range are necessary for the maintenance of health and thrift in the flock.

Feeding of quality is of equal importance and will have an unfavourable effect on growth, development and thrift. All foods should be fed in such proportions as to provide a balanced ration and should also be fed and given regular clocks at all ages in self-feeders. Plenty of clean pure water is as important as food.

Clean range and sanitary quarters for the pullets year, and an abundance of good pasture with suit- able shade and shelter are very important in the life of young growing stock.

Information on the feeding and care of baby chicks, growing stock and laying birds, may be obtained free upon application from the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Problem at the Hospital

Realizing within the Lacombe municipal hospital district ought to short considerable area and means of overcoming the present short age of bed accommodation, if the local hospital Trustees to the last district, the hospital was built to 1937 with a limited capacity in the event of the town at that time. Officials were agreed 25 be to would be ample space for residents of the town and district. In the years since then, however, the ever the majority question was serious.

Overcrowding is now hopelessly inadequate. The local hospital is often obliged to refuse many patients that it has room for. The lodgings with of the hospital are used only in cases "quite" bore over, and even that number has many sick people have been forced to stay at home when they should have been in the hospital under constant supervision. The dangers of such conditions are obvious.

Hospital boards and town councils recently passed the need of an extension to the present hospital and building. With present prices sky-high, part probably will be delayed for a few years, but the study planned roadway. A 25-bed addition would cost approximately $100,000. The addition would of a building designed much like Lacombe's, was planned with another construction in 1942 A new 25-bed wing would there that least at an equipped district of course.

In either of $100,000 for Lacombe is and a happy thought But neither is the thought of a hospital too small to accommodate some patients who need and have a right to expect hospitalization. The present cramped conditions are and expected to ease. With the hospital now entering its new assured district more ratepayers are going to take advantage of the cheaper $1.00 per day hospitalization — for the money Lacombe has on hand to serve in town which adds to the economic number who come to Lacombe for hospital treatment.

A subdivision in the neighborhood of $125,000 would cover adequately a 25-bed addition and the entire equipment needed. This figure would add about two mills to the present mill rate.

Another borrowing bill for the to pay the taxpayer says? Time, and there are so many of them today! We believe that the building of an addition is a necessity, however. Hard, cold, unsympathetic the alternative argument of high cost Ratepayers and hospital board officials must decide for themselves, of course. We hope they choose the correct road and soon.

Subduing the Weather

For centuries men people have been trying to conquer the weather. Legends abound, enough man has dared to defy the heavens and what it is doing now is the late. We there were veiled rage to of the to men who could develop floods from scratches with the and of some home much weird and wonderful appetites But they weren't able to carry out their plans.

Something changed, however, seems to have been effected in these — so much so that it likes they are about to try forgoing from a plane super cloud are cold, cloud formations. The drop lets are said that the results could be better the temperature of the cloud the ability production area.

There seems to be everything to it but so early if feels to combat the weather are still poor Making rain — only — we small means in the exact limit. When it may come to be able to control the temperatures curb boundless enormous floods and waste other abnormalities of the weather which cause widespread destruction every year.

War and Prosperity

Some people believe that a war creates a great boom world. It does stimulate business and it makes business in industry to increase production both in a time and in the months the post war years. Because they have more savings and more money to spend. These individuals think they are well off on account of the war They forget that a deflated money is valueless if the supply is not restricted.

Let us take a quick glance at the nations around the world. All countries, with a few losers, are suffering post-war pains. Because of the war they have piled up huge national debts unparalleled in history. Governments, to control, perhaps perished for a long time to come The Japanese live on sweet potatoes. So do the vanquished Germans. Further broad interesting to an already restricted diet is on there for the vanquished Poland. Another to Belgium tells Prime Ministers already attained Europe and American transportation squabbles.

Lucky United States fights labor strikes and to continue to cost spiraling living costs. Canada has many of such problems, inflation and social economic problems. Several official statistics even of hoard down in the pages of the newspapers mean a side especially that American and British taxpayers paid out approximately $300,000,000 to feed Germany — the conquered some Japan, the first two engulfed than here.

What a prospect we would not have so much money to spend but strikes, manufacturers halt of conditions not more terrible more deadly.

For the vanquished, there is misery To the victors go the tremendous cost

Registered Seed Demand

J. B. Bicknell secretary of the Alberta crop improvement association, reports another successful year in the distribution of registered and certified seed grain to the farmers of the province. During approximately 107,000 bushels were distributed during the 1946-47 season as compared with 67,500 bushels a year ago. Wheat certified amounted to 45,325 bushels, but 11,000 bushels compared with 1,700 bushels last season; barley 38,325 bushels, and oats 31,350 bushels.

Among the wheat varieties, Thatcher proved the most popular with 20,000 bushels distributed. Red Bobs was second in popularity with 9,000 bushels sold, Bonburg was by far the most popular of the flax varieties, 1,000 bushels of this variety were distributed. The three most popular barleys were Olli, 6,500 bushels; Titan, 5,500 bushels; and Betzal, 4,500 bushels. Among the oat varieties Alberta was the favored favourite Almost half of the seed purchased from the association, 15,000 bushels, were of this variety, although Eagle and Lorne were also in fair demand.

Nutrition Question Box

I am no use too much salt" Miss Joyce Lewis, nutritionist for the Home Economics Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, says that we can built an economical diet of 1,200 calories but the habit of always reaching for the salt shaker before we even taste our food is bad one Too much salt may stimulate the digestive system and interfere with the absorption of foods. It may also cause a reduction in the body's alkali reserve and is one of the other body preservers requiring water

Salt is composed of sodium and chlorine Two nutrients, both essential to our bodies, but both widely distributed in our natural foods. Professional nutritionists say that a diet adequate in quality of salt is desirable in very hot weather or when doing strenuous work which causes excessive perspiration, additional salt is not necessary and eating it less profusely is a questionable practice

Cutting Native Hays

Fails half the feeds value of native hays is commonly but thousands have cuttings and exposure to the weather three great quantities of native hay are purchased as I made this loss of feed is a serious one.

At present the feeding value of much native hay is extremely low often no better than that of straw The poor quality is due mainly to the common practice of cutting too late in the season Additional harm may be done by exposure to the weather before stacking or baling, but this is often unavoidable Similarly late cutting may be necessary in bowling areas where a short dry end fill fills in the season

The leading value of native hay plants, like that of other forages, changes considerably during the season The early leaf growth is a rich food, high in proteins and vitamins and easily digested The quality of the forage declines from that high point as the plants mature The yield, of course increases rapidly during the early part of the season, but there is little or no increase after the plants come into head

The best time for cutting is that which gives sufficient hay yields along with good quality. What is the best time to cut is early when the plants come into head

Numerous tests have shown the decline in feeding value that is caused by late cutting. In one set of hay land hay plants the protein content dropped from 12 per cent in the early head to 10 per cent in the mid-dle part per cent in the seed stage The date of cutting for these stages were June 10 July 15 and August 5.

Most native hay plants are capable of producing good of fair to good quality, if cut at the proper time and handled carefully Delay in cutting after the plants have headed results in serious losses in feeding value without any worthwhile increase in yield

DUKES EVERYWHERE are singing the praises of the smart new Oldsmobile car. Here, indeed, is a car made in the finest tradition of the years! Long, flowing lines, tasteful trim, beautifully tailored interiors . . . all combine to give this car a smooth-as-a-thoroughbred, "never-to-be-outdone" look. And when you remember that the new Oldsmobile is the lowest priced car to offer GM Hydra-Matic Drive*, the General Motors drive—that makes Oldsmobile a smart change automatically. For Hydra-Matic Drive* is the only fully proved, fully automatic drive. The only drive that shifts gears through four forward speeds without any effort whatsoever on your part. The only drive that eliminates the clutch pedal entirely! . . . Just imagine the ease and pleasure . . . all you do is sit and steer. No wonder so many smart people say "It's SMART to own an Olds."

Survey Shows Less Wheat in Canada

OTTAWA — Less wheat in be sown in Canada this year than was sown last and more grain for feeding of livestock. The difference is expected to not large but it represents a considerable trend The figures recently published are from a compilation of the farmers' intentions and when seeding is over. They may be a little out but experience has shown that these actual seed plans and intentions do not vary much

Specifically, the intentions are 23,000 acres with be growing this year compared with 25,000,000 last year while the combined acreage of oats and barley will be 30,127,000 and flaxseed crops have been increased by 1,000,000 acres to 2,000,000 acres.

The wheat acreage is still above the 1932-39 and 1940-46 averages and this reflects the fact that the demand for wheat for bread. It seems pretty certain to that the demand will continue heavy and persistent until the world food situation in Europe and elsewhere gets in better shape

Bentley School Project Vetoed by Ratepayers

Bentley, as not to get in progress 000,000 of school if present as a result of the referendum vote held Monday in division on June 30. Final returns were compiled on July 1 and show a total of 533 people against the project with 197 in favor of it. The ratepayers of the division have shown their disinclination to construct a new building the division board has decided to make this move. The present Bentley building is a frame structure on the north beautiful town of the shores school building, and the west basement room of the brick build ing.

At the present time the Bentley school is overcrowded and the Oriental school district, maintains two rooms in which it accommodates class 10 to 12 pupils. Transportation is also taken instruction to all grades from the Pershing building.

Members of the board visited Bentley on Monday night as a preliminary meeting to the regular monthly meeting which was held on the division office in Lacombe on Saturday, July 5. It is understood the completion of the two additional classrooms will alleviate the cramped interior and rural conditions which now exist.

Buy Coal Now

Last fall, lumber companies are urging customers to buy their early purchases of coal. They do so advisedly.

Central storage bins, at the present time are filled with coal. So further shipments can be made until the stocks have been depleted. That is where the customer comes in. He can particularly thank the railway coal men for that, summer weather and the same, there will be a heavy drain on coal supplies around fall when people finally begin to be hard, cold fuels of winter and Lacombe coal merchants are worried and good people's coal, now as plentiful, is difficult or impossible to obtain, as it is in late winter.

Local stocks of course are of no concern to most Lacombe residents who are supplied with gas. They are of vital interest, however, to the district farmer who relies on coal for winter warmth. The advice is there for his own benefit. We hope he acts.

The Marshall Plan

The Marshall Plan of the United States has been given the boot by Russia. And "Russia" as that term, still probably includes the Communist-dominated countries of Eastern Europe whose governments are largely interwoven with the Soviet Union.

Britain's Bevin and France's Bidault, spurning but certainly not astonished at Russia's refusal to participate in the economic reconstruction of Europe have gone ahead and invited all interested European countries but Spain to "take stock" of their needs, and to determine how far they themselves can go toward meeting those needs. It will then be up to the United States, to see if the Marshall Plan is complete bosun. "To help those rotten guys to help themselves."

We have thought all along that Britain and France have headed in correspondence the signatures of the Marshall Plan. Without the support of the also, almost casually, at a Harvard address. When Western Europe's two leading countries grouped for their own self-preservation, the Marshall hastened to clarify the brand, pointed out statement to make pressure of help for all Europe, any countries willing to employ that aid for the further one of years and not for "political purposes."

There were two big question-marks at the Paris conference last week that was in Britain's pose how should answered by the regrettable "No." The other is the attitude of an economy-minded American congress.

Marshall has produced America's help but any help must convert the unwilling of congress is a commodious capitality have set up in the United States to acquire into the amount of money it may wish to spend on self-perpetuating cure a dominion position. I shivered at it and at the question.

It must be remembered, however that a powerful-acting Congress recently trimmed appropriations on the supported "Voice of America" radio programs designed to launch much-needed American points-of-view on international ails. If a hostile Congress published the Marshall Plan and disapproved of the European Imperial and Invading nations of Europe it would make a farce out of the much-lauded idea. It would at the same time, reinforce the positions of Russia whose attitude at the Conference but a mere effectiveness and positive America as stand is now being questioned.

Reducing Taxes

TAXES, Everywhere, listen. The Canadian nation is besieged as never before, with needs. Some children are in dire need of help proved gone in the form of direct and indirect taxation. He pays the Government as odd, an increment was of one cent on all goods and chewable beer. He pays heavy taxes on "luxuries" like movies, cigarettes liquor and gasoline. He pays a crushing 15% tax on all jewellery and silverware.

Besides this form of taxation, the Government takes a large share of Labour's earnings and profits. It takes another slice from the net income of property owner. The taxpayer must have a "cut" and he cannot expect unlimited services from the Government which some people foolishly demand and seem to expect. The money has to come from somewhere, and that's the taxpayer's own pocket. He looks at higher municipal rates, but he can't expect good roads, decent schools, paved sidewalks and the like without paying for them.

The corrective for over-taxation, then seems to rest first with the taxpayer himself. A vocal criticism of the Government's income. Its ability to cut down on unnecessary expenditures at the civil service.

Farming Notes

Food Values in Hay

Many arguments have been advanced by producers against early harvesting of hay crops, chief of which is that they get a higher yield by cutting later from a greater amount of material point of view, this contention is of course true. After a certain heading time, however, the feeding value decreases, the additional growth of hay crop is often very coarse.

There is, however, another side to this story from the feeding standpoint. Several years' tests show that the highest yield in terms of digestible nutrients and consequently the highest feeding value. It is a well known fact that young forage is higher in protein, vitamins and minerals than old forage. While these are very important components in the feeding of livestock, the percentage content of the forage to these materials does not always cause an actual loss. On the other hand, carbohydrates, starches, fats and other forms, which are the load, energy and fat producing foods, usually increase with maturity of the plant. However, it is very known that a very appreciable portion of the carbohydrate is burned and lost during the process of curing and storage in the stack. Legumes in the structural material as well as the rest stalks of the plant in addition to being indigestible itself, it also tends to hold other digestible nutrients and often prevents the animal from obtaining them. From a feeding standpoint, then, the proportion is very serious total loss.

The only means of preventing this loss is to harvest the hay crop when it is in the early bloom stage. The best information available at present indicates that the highest yield of livestock nutrients is obtained when grasses are cut for hay just before heading, long before they have flowered. Legumes likewise should be harvested in an early bloom stage.

Science and Modern Farms

An extensive study of the expenditures made by the Government of Canada on research and scientific activity is given in the January issue of the Agricultural Institute Review by Frank Shelton, Agricultural Representative, Dominion Bureau of Agriculture. Dealing with the ever-widening demand for scientific research in the conservation of natural resources, production, marketing, public standards of health, industrial development, and other services which have now become a matter of usual functions of a modern government, he says in part that research in agriculture has made a considerable contribution to increasing the productive capacity of the farm economy.

Today, with the era of machines and science, the average Canadian farmer produces four times the amount of improved land; in 1891 he was able to cultivate only 32 acres. Today, the farmer can get about 60 bushels of wheat per acre, where he previously he fill only 10 bushels from standard varieties. Every yesterday 10 bushels of oats, now usually are average rates, as compared with less than 3,000-pound producers at the turn of the present century.

Varieties best adapted to grown in southern districts where brewery used and distilled on shortened forms. Farmers who have been handicapped by short growing seasons, dry weather, rust, smut, and other troubles, have been given a fresh hope by the introduction of new plants, such as hybrid corn. Summers wheat, created wheat grass, and rust and smut resistant oats.

Drainage and irrigation have brought much additional land under cultivation. New information on fertilizers and improved cultivation has created output on available land. Much of this research and related activities responsible for increased productive capacity of the farm were undertaken at the laboratories and on the Dominion Experimental Farms.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by Don Gratton

One of the small but important things that helps a man succeed is the ability to remember a few names.

When you call a man by his name you show an interest in that person and he responds quick. He feels that he has met a friend when you call him by your given name. It is important. And it needs a little practice, but once you get started it's fun.

The value of this habit in dealing with customers and people is higher percentage in business. In fact, the principle can and should be applied to everyone we meet.

There is no closer principle followed by the office of "Good morning, Mr. ——" and "Good morning, Bill."

Try improving your memory now and see if it doesn't help to advance you in your career.

When you think of your future, think about life insurance. Life insurance is an investment offers such an easy way to save. And the security it gives for your family brings priceless peace of mind.

These benefits are enjoyed by over four million policy holders in Canada.

Safety First

SUMMER and lake resorts in central Alberta are visited by a speedy thin ice on holidaymen's speed their campers vacations, swimming and boating enthusiasts to the last July set. No less crowded are the old swimming holes of the district as the youngsters head off by dawdling their bodies in many of the summer lakes of this area.

Each pond fishers are fishermen whom this area can be proud of, ought to do residents the good this hour's lake traffic and the large number of swimmers to the thread of death in the through ice, and has been a very amazing, as town serve as great reminders that precautions must be undertaken by all swimmers. Swimming, it is a healthful and enjoying summer sport if it also can always be abundantly safe with of proper common sense and precautions. Follow these simple rules which are available and there would be far fewer heart drowning of tragedies and the observance of a few simple rules were practised.

Here are some "don'ts" for swimmers, bathers and pool plans "another's" which if observed should make our beach resorts safe for all.

Don't go into the water immediately following any meal. Wait at least half an hour's meal. You will feel better, and swim better.

Don't go out beyond your depth unless you are a strong swimmer.

Don't play on floating rafts, logs or old boats unless you can swim far more than the distance that you think they are.

Don't go in swimming after dark unless you are an expert swimmer. You may get into difficulties, and drown without even being noticed.

Don't have small children in the water in the care of other children. They should be left only in the care of responsible young people and adults.

Don't play around in or "rock" any type of boat you might be. This kind of sport has caused too many tragedies already.

Don't stay in the water long if at a very cool. You may be seized with cramps or your legs or arms.

Last of all, learn to swim if you are not already a swimmer. Swimming is an accepted land sport for young and old. It can be made a real pleasure if the above precautions are strictly observed.

Too Late

JUST as after thought on the Russian refusal to participate in the Marshall Plan What if the United States had had a definite foreign policy one year ago? What could have happened if the United States had made the offer one year earlier?

The Russian coup in Hungary had not taken place. Hungary probably would have not crossed the conference table (as he does now) but command material (certainly would have been a summer There explains might have persuaded other neighbor countries, But with a vague and unthinking foreign policy prevailing in Ottawa the Communists calmly and diligently upon the task that trapped the nations of eastern Europe within the Russian net.

The Lacombe "man curtain is now a reality economic aid is definitely Europe, the red cultural tool about whose the sparks of war have spread for centuries, as said on this "parlor Stove."

The picture is admittedly reminiscent of European peace posters prior to the first great War. That conflict was touched off by an insignificant incident in Serbia. In this era, belligerent, minor countries might again start a neighborhood brawl And since the major powers are drawn in by pacts, the world possible somehow develops into a "fight" in the hands on the world ring.

But perhaps freedom is inspired by the dangers of the new threats Certainly the Marshall Plan did not come the spirit it only hurried it in a question of not "too little," but "too late."

A Worthy Cause

VICTIMS of the Red Cross blood donors visit will be limited in the immediate future for the travelling date which will visit Lacombe sometime this fall. Purpose of the clinic is to provide blood plasma free to all home this hospitals in Alberta. One of the Lacombe municipal Hospital will be among those making full use of this free blood plasma service.

No estimate of the town or district has as yet been made on the date for the clinic's arrival here but we'll soon set.

During the war Lacombe and the district me rationing the boom set a high standard of co-operation with the Red Cross in providing blood donors for the national blood plasma transportation. It is hoped that a new list runs visitors for the listing of names for the clinic this year, that an equal number of blood donors will step forward to offer their blood to the service.

Chemistry's contributions to the home and individual are countless. Chlorine purifies the water we drink. Textiles are chemically treated to give them wearing qualities. Chemical fertilizers mean bumper crops. Chemistry produces paint, tans leather, is "Cellophane" it protects things we buy; as nylon or plastics, it serves us endlessly.

Support The Fair

NEXT Tuesday and Wednesday, August 5 and 6 are fair will be staged at the exhibition grounds here. A fine list of attractions has been lined up for the occasion and the committee in charge has worked hard to make the event a success. Both of these days will be holidays in Lacombe and district and it is anticipated that a great many weather many thousands of visitors will flock to the grounds on the two days event.

For many years, during the war and since, the agricultural society has worked on the great difficulties in providing attractions for the annual fair. High costs, both of labor and of materials has forced the society to operate on a very slim margin between profit and loss on each fair. This year is no exception. The best possible attractions have been lined up and a big one has been arranged for all those who attend. If the weather is even fairly kindly, no crowd of visitors to Lacombe will be disappointed.

Members of the society, and last and most important of every resident of the district. In return, they offer hard up attractions and fun for all two days of the fair.

Ruthless Tactics?

THE ruthless tactics in local business seem to be getting down all the lowest on the bottom sports on this terrible scale. It is a shame to see formerly respected business men to be so debased. The attitude of the town council of course smells; candidate Jim Bain's green town were posters and their rude spreading. Let this be a warning to those who damaged the sidewalk and set sign upon on that street. Better to get rid of the town, and the voters judgement. For the problem, we have some good points, but for the remedy, we have none.

The town has been quite already transformed from a verdant, lush summer picture by one of barren nakedness. Furthermore council to date has made no provision to replant trees of other types in town beauty to be so manhandled with one mighty swipe of the axe. Undoubtedly, Lacombe is regarded by an outstanding perhaps the most beautiful shade trees of all cities and towns in Alberta both because of its natural site trees, and there has been much favorable comment from visitors.

We believe the popular problem could be better solved by removing, but not one third of the offending trees each year, and by replanting them immediately with whole lots, replace or some other lots to adolescence variety in the town the beauty of the trees in town must be preserved while we gradually get on with the job of replacing poplars with other types.

The latter problem is going to cost the local agents and cause other like evil few years, but there are a lot of poplars in town. They will have to go, just as do the poplar gradually, not at one big lumbering operation. The town has had only a meagre proportion of its residents.

The Wicked Spiral

UP and up. Business purchases and cash dividends prices continue on the soaring spiraling based on an annual inflationary foundation. Wage levels show the trend. Taking 1941 as a base of 100 the Canadian payroll index had climbed to 207 at June 1946 to 263.7 this year according to the final bank of Canada figures. Average hourly earnings reached a high of 171 cents.

It is not hard to see where the biggest increases in wages have been made. They are not in office clerks or the skilled industries. Lots to be the unskilled labor group. Labor and more — get part time jobs today. Lumbering made for eighty cents to one dollar per hour. Other workers with no trade can go out and dig ditches for eighty and ninety cents an hour.

Not that the high type of work are not honorable but paying high wages to men who have no craft or trade is a pressure on prices to lead to higher wages in those men who have. Where it stops they say. We have worked for years for a 40 hour week. Who won't we bring paid more?

And there is some logic in their argument though it is not the full story. All the employer can reply is that the production is only terrific so that his employee's job will be safer in prosperity. His income he has learned himself to be skilled work which is the unlearned labour cannot do. The fundamental, while recognizing whether on these words, is still production and consequently satisfied partnership in the matter of settlement terms — of living. The alternative is to have employees to pay inflationary wages caused by inflation, raise the cost of living that's why, with increased income, shared at a time when there is already widespread hardship.

It calls for an unusual amount of foresight and patience on the part of employers and employees alike. Wage increases will not come across in creases, up the cross inflationary ladder. It will have a business relapse — economic economists solemnly warn. then let it be a mild recession and a punitive depression. Wage earners can help by exercising intelligence during a difficult period.

Farming Notes

Summerfallow, Cutworms

Leftovers have caused considerable damage in some districts this year. J. L. Raphaelson, Supervisor of Pest Control for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, says that while the moisture conditions prevailing during the period of their activity dating up to 1946 is likely to be heavier still cutting, the summerfallow stand.

You can do much both now checking next year's cutworm damage by keeping off the fallow during August and early September. Leftovers moths lay their eggs during this time but they must have host will for the operation. The host plants and those in around the brome eggs will be laid.

Summerfallow is one of the problems. If you can keep off the summer fallow between early August and September 15th the host plants will have a chance to ripen the soil surface and the cutworm eggs having. Weedy and dusty fallow on cutworm moths in by this eggs there. Try to get your fallow cleaned up without the use of the plow. In this the cutworm a chance to vent the soil surface. Then precautions may interfere with these two moth cutworm you are getting your summerfallow for poisoned weed control. Where cutworm are a serious problem poison bait is recommended. Poison bait be ready to start work again on the pest animals and as soon as the flight of the cutworm moths is over.

Keep birds animals off the summerfallow during August and early September. Cattle or other livestock walking across the fields break the crust and surface and provide good spots for egg laying.

Haying Without Forks

The old reliable hay fork appears doomed to take its place among the relics of the past. Keeping in step with the technological revolution which has taken place in other phases of farming, hay has now been developed to the point where the use of completely mechanized units which reduce cutting, hauling and stacking to a minimum of human labor.

During a recent tour of the state of Vermont, farmers studied the modern hay making methods in operation. They saw the cutting operations performed by a self-powered harvester pulled by a tractor.

The machine meets the standing hay and reduces it to easy to fire-inch lengths by means of short blades on a revolving drum. Mounted on the rear, a conventional-type blower elevates the cut hay to a speed wagon which is pulled alongside. The wagon boxes are equipped with steel side rails to prevent hay from its unloading.

From the wagons the chopped hay is fed through into a blower to elevate the feed to a hay room or silo. This blower is similar to an ordinary silo filler but has no knives.

When the last crop is harvested green it is stored in a silo for hay silage with out rings added as a preservative at the rate of approximately one and one half bags per ton. If it's feed is desired, the crop is cut with a mower and stored in the field in the same a pick up attachment as employed in front of the harvester.

Modern Equipment

It is definitely known that there are more minerals and vitamins in green unharvested, half-mature hay than in conventional fodder that has run the course. It is therefore important that hay be cured in such a way that as much as possible of the rich green colour is retained. This is particularly applicable to areas where the grazing season is of relatively short duration.

If hay is to be put to the desired conditions it must not be left too long in the swath where the sun will bleach the colour out. Furthermore, when it is sufficiently well cured to store, it must be done quickly and a rain shower often intermittent during recent years, stacking equipment has been developed that enables the farmer to put the hay up quickly with a comparatively small gang of men and with little heavy work.

Moderation
WILL SEE US THROUGH
Last year, in one of its several published statements, The House of Seagram said, "Canada's great record of price control was made possible by the wholehearted co-operation of the Canadian people with their Government's anti-inflation methods. This fine record should be maintained . . . by moderating our pressures, by controlling unessential spending, we continue to serve our Nation and ourselves best."
That statement we repeat today. We need only march steadily ahead . . . with continued emphasis on those habits of moderation, self-control and commonsense which are so happily—and fortunately—characteristics of Canada, and Canadians.
Then this Nation will speed onward on the road to its yet greatest opportunities.

WEDDING

SAUNDERS - LONG

A pretty wedding was solemnized on June 14th, Andrew's United Church, Leeds, on Wednesday afternoon, July 23, at four o'clock when Grace Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs F. P. Saunders of Lacombe was united in marriage to Roy Garfield, son of Mr. Joe Long and the late Mrs. Long of Leeds. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Alfred of Lacombe.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wed ding march played by Miss Lois Long in a floor length dress with bodice of brocaded satin and short full skirt of net. She wore a halo of pearls in place by a wreath of flowers. Her shoulder length veil fell from a double shower necklace of pearls, a gift of the groom. The bridal bouquet was of white carnations, sweetheart and sweet peas.

Miss Phyllis Long of Regina was bridesmaid, and wore a gown of blue taffeta net and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Jane Sadler of Edmonton, cousin of the groom, was bridesmaid, and was attired in a dress of pink taffeta and also carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The flower girls, nieces of the bride, were gowned in floor length dresses, while Marilyn Forest as orchid organdy and carried a basket of pink carnations. They carried baskets of pansies.

Mr. Allen Perrie of Edmonton supported the groom, and Roy Long and John Hickey were ushers.

The bride's mother looked lovely in a dress of lavender silk crepe and wore a corsage of talisman roses.

Mrs. Saul, bridal matron of the church, played the wedding music. Mr. J. Davies of Lacombe sang "The Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The church was beautiful with its profusion of flowers and ferns in tall baskets and vases, and the altar was banked with bouquets of arch decorated with white bells and pink and white streamers.

The wedding dinner a reception was held for sixty-five guests in the church hall. This was in charge of the bride's sister and sister-in-law, assisted by Mrs. A. Wright. The bride's table was centered by a three tiered wedding cake surrounded by white silver vases of mixed pink and baby breath.

The bride and groom left by car for an extended honeymoon at Jasper and Banff. For her going away costume the bride chose a rose-colored dress-maker suit and wore black hat and black accessories.

The happy couple will make their home on the groom's farm in the Meadowbrook district.

Bleak Crop Prospects

There would seem to be little chance of escaping a serious shortage of foodstuffs for farm crops has been continued serious proportions. Week-end rains received Tuesday will help ease the situation.

Almost a month ago farmers were publicly entertaining a bumper crop. Today they are pleasantly hopeful that they might be able to get through below average crop conditions into this spring's new unburdened crop. There was a good supply of moisture in the soil when seeding started and generous precipitation had built up a large water reserve. Heavy crops were noted. These very weights has proved a detriment however since they have demanded abnormal amounts of moisture moisture which has not been there.

The result has been less rapid maturing of all grains. All the wheat and about 50% of the oats and barley have now headed in the district. The hot sun has advanced these grains so quickly that the ripening will be normal time. The harvests are far from perfect from lack of moisture.

The situation is calamitous in southern parts of Alberta and western portions of Saskatchewan, where almost no crop is in sight. But in the Lacombe - Red Deer farming area the crop picture is not quite so hopeless. Only 25 inches of rain fell in the last two months in July. But it was reported rain a decade. Ample moisture reserves have undoubtedly saved the crops in this locality.

Feed grains requirements required by eastern farmers for their cattle, are no better off than wheat, which is an unprecedented demand by Great Britain and European. The general picture is further proof of the terrible destruction caused by drought dry winds and a hot unseasonable sun, over a long period.

The Game of Golf

Golf is no longer an old man's monopoly. It has become a game for the younger set. The dictionary defines it as "a game played with a small ball by means of clubs and the object being to drive the ball into a series of small holes with the fewest possible strokes." Sounds easy? It's probably the most exasperating pastime ever invented by man.

The "putt-putter" ball is a bewildering little pill that refuses to travel in the proper direction for the required distance. The "club-headed sticks" have been known to cause more ground on an angry horse than the balls they hit. The "series of small holes" in the greens can shrink to the size of a dime before the eyes of a thoroughly dejected frustrated golfer.

The true golfer belittles his game before his comrades. There's rocky little more from which he becomes considerably lofting than that he's really nearly lost control of the others. To put too modest to admit it.

The true golfer consigns to the first tee, on Sunday, and hopeful takes a few practice swings which are usually like off a few dandelions and with a current bough says he'd better shoot five because it's probable by the last time he has the honor. He punches the first ball into the bush to take a little color off that ruffianness. He still remains hopeful for the rest of the round, hoping for balls in the rough, and speculating on dry conversation on the reason for those bad shots. He wants not just enough good ones to egg him on to further effort.

By the eighteenth green, the true golfer is hot, weary and in a sour mood. Returning to the clubhouse he usually regains his composure and even talking like the angler about the close ones he missed. The score does not improve his losing figure but it doesn't improve his language. All of which makes us wonder why so many silly golfers go back for more. But curses on We must rush off for a game.

Pure!

Indian Independence

On August 15 British India will receive its independence from Britain as a move that will see the union split into two states, Pakistan, and the Dominion of India. The means by which the separate Hindu state of Hindustan will be known.

British statesmen hesitated for some time to partition India Moslem and Hindu beliefs appeared to be implacable opposite, however, and mainly through the diplomatic efforts of Viceroy Mountbatten British independence was brought about.

Much remains to be done before the division and ultimate independence of India on August 15. The Indian states must be partitioned and each state's boundary to the two new governments. Minorities, stragglers and their separate areas causes much anxiety, abrupt transformation. The rule of the most separate peasants states is still questionable "some of a thought will pass on of the dominions."

India, a heterogeneous country in race religion and custom remains largely unknown and strange to the western eye. But we can welcome the new self-governing nations within the fold of the commonwealth of British Empire Independence on this year has not brought unity. But it has increased, on wealth and influence the creation of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Farming Notes

Care of Dairy Utensils

Many farmers think that after washing dairy pails and utilizing machine parts and sterilizing them with a chemical solution it will remain sterilized until the time to milk again. E. F. Hinton, Supervisor of Dairy Herd Improvement for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, wishes however that the educative powers of farmers meetings allow say the bacteria on the milking surfaces before the next milking time arrives.

Utensils should be washed and sterilized immediately following milking with a rack to drain and dry and just before the next milking they should be disinfected again with a chlorine rinse solution and the milking proceeds with all care.

So far as the milking machine is concerned it must be cleaned after each milking and as soon as the last cow has been milked. Full directions for cleaning and sterilizing milking machines can be obtained on request from any by writing to the Dairy Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture Edmonton.

Effects Of 2,4-D

Considerable publicity is being given to and apparent shows in 2, 4-D weed killer. Many farmers possess misgivings in regard to the product used latter in spite of all the wonderful things that might be said about 2,4-D, it cannot be called the perfect weed killer For certain uses, such as killing dandelions in lawns, if properly applied, it does get labor, it is unsurpassable For weed control in growing crops of cereal grains care should be used in its application.

The Dominion Experimental Station at Swift, Sask., has now two years of experimental work done on the use in growing crops of cereal grains In these experiments, various formulations were used at different rates of application. It was found that the lowest concentrations of all formulations resulted in satisfactory kill of dandelions without injury to the growing cereal crops.

The spraying took place early just before the grain had headed. With the concentrations of the only formulations which appeared to affect wheat were the various esters The more effect continued of the amount of abnormal growing heads and maturity being slightly retarded. However and from these abnormal growing heads when seeded, germinated normally and looked to produce one offshoot. All formulations appeared to cause delayed maturity in barley but no other harmful effects were noticed. Oats appeared to be more severely retarded in growth and in some cases stunting took place The effect on flax in all cases was injurious.

Hints for Berry Pickers

Miss Ruth Whalen District Home Economist at Athabasca for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, warns against keeping freshly picked fruit for any length of time in galvanized pails. The acid in the fruit dissolves the zinc and dissolved zinc in quantities is a chemical poison. The pail is not the best thing to let your fruit stand in either The fruit juice may dissolve enough iron or copper to give a disagreeable flavour A solution of iron or copper in the fruit means that there will be less Vitamin C too.

Don't plan to make jelly from those thickly-cherries you picked right after a rain shower. The rain will have diluted the pectin in the fruit and you will have difficulty in getting it to jell. Raspberries, strawberries huckleberries and blue berries should be picked over as soon as you get home and kept in a cool place on a shallow tray. Wash them only just before using.

Be sure to pick in small containers and handle the fruit as gently as possible Not only will the berries be more attractive and easier to pack over but bruising the fruit destroys the vitamins too.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS
by Dave Gerhart

Recently I met a young man who made an extraordinary impression on me.

Very soon thereafter I made a mental note that this man would "go places". But I knew very little about the actual work he was doing.

Have, therefore, did I get such a favorable impression?

Several factors contributed. He had a neat appearance, plenty of poise and enough self-confidence. But it was what he said and the way he said it — even to commonplace remarks — that counted.

Also that he "talked big". Quite the contrary.

The effectiveness of his remarks was due entirely to the fact that they were always "meaty". Every sentence was concise, crisp, pointed, forceful and interesting. And constantly I didn't think I ever heard him say a thing that was trite or even a faulty generalization. In short, he thought before he spoke.

Here is unfortunate young man. In the field in which he has known this chap, he has had two big raises in pay.

A quiet pretty wedding was solemnized at the Bethel Church, Lacombe on Saturday, August 2, when Elsie Loral, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Tudor of Wilton, and Howard George Morrison eldest son of Mrs. Mabel Morrison of Bluffton were united in marriage. Rev. S. J. Waterman officiated.
The bride given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a floor length dress of white jersey with long full sleeves and a chapel veil. She carried a bouquet of white princess.
Her only attendant, Miss Phyllis Tudor, a sister, chose a floor length pink taffeta dress and carried pink carnations.
Mr. Glen Chilliard of Lacombe attended the groom.
Wedding music was rendered by Miss Jessie Hoppins, and during the signing of the register Miss Joyce Waterman sang an appropriate song.
After the ceremony, the immediate families of the bride and groom met at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Howard Shepard, where a buffet lunch was served.
The happy couple left by motor immediately after the reception for Calgary and Banff. For travel the bride donned a navy blue sharkskin dress with black accessories.
Upon their return they will be at home on the groom's farm three miles north and one-half cleveland.
Out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. Morrison's mother, Mrs. grandmother, Mrs. Lorral, and aunt, Mrs. H Wiltshire, all from Mrs. Ida Lorral, of Cross Chief, Isle of Shelley. The groom's sister, Mrs. Howard Shepard, and Rev. Morrison, brother of the groom.

Invariably, the man who is in most eager to learn succeeds most rapidly.
Obviously, then, it is advisable to use all available means of learning more about our jobs.
Experience is the greatest teacher. Books and courses are a great help. But few could have much we can learn by observing and talking to people.
The people who can be of most value to us in this way are those who have made, or are making, their mark in this world. From their ideas, experience and methods valuable information can be gleaned. It is usually easy, I find, to get these people to expand wholeheartedly when asked intelligent questions.
Nor should anyone feel that they are humbling themselves by seeking to learn from others. No one can know all the answers.
But those who know most are usually those who are always eager-minded and trying to learn something.

Teacher Shortage

The teacher situation at the present moment and in the Lacombe school division is not a good one. Teachers from 27 out of the 30 schools in the school division attended the resignations for this coming term and numerous efforts will have to be made by the school department board to find other teachers. All these vacancies have come from schools which closed due to lack of teachers and the opportunities were snapped up by the pick of teachers in other schools throughout the area.

At first glance it appears that the situation will be even worse this year. Demand for teachers with the certificate the supply and as split classes are a thing of the past, the number of teachers will have to be increased. Increased salaries will compete with other vocations.

The Lacombe school division schools in the past have been able to attract good teachers because of the reputation they have built up. Every effort is being made to continue this but it is hard to fill the gaps and it is hoped that the school board will be successful in obtaining enough teachers to operate schools in full capacity throughout the division. It is a tough problem for the board.

Let's Use Our Heads

(The Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville)

We could use a good cartoon showing a man walking backwards into the future. It would also help the architects of some people about where we would be regards our list of standards. Turns are the days when the best thing to aspire for workmen necessarily meant expensive demands for limousines.

Evidently one big neighbour to the south is in for another round of wage demands with their accompaniment of strikes or threats of strikes, curtailment, diminished production and increased prices of manufactured goods to the consumer.

What does this situation hold for Canadians on the home or in the workshop? It may well mean less markets and bad jobs. Where countries of that land develop in the Maine, labor almost everybody thinks and in Canada that our economy differs so vitally from that of the United States that some things they can absorb themselves cannot. The need which our lack are not one of cash, that is easily made up out of world markets.

Is Canada now repeating of wage contracts [illegible] wages automatically follow any increase in the cost of living index. In Canada the operation of this system is not quite so automatic because trends we are glad to say is going in a greater part.

The United States is virtually self-contained depends for less than 5 per cent of its export trade than we do. On the other hand, one dollar out of every three in Canada's national income comes from our export trade. Some jobs in every three depends on it.

Farmers are not better about rising prices on the things they have to buy. When rising wages squeeze to "up the price of everything the farmer must buy farm tools go up 30 in his prices he cannot complete in the export market. Canada loses the market. The farmer deprived of his foreign market cannot buy goods at home made by factory workers. The workers become less their market and their jobs.

Canada's farmers feel of the farmers that are selling profits. [illegible] grain exports monitored by Canadian credits and government marketing. But as far as the general of our economy in the book of Canada report, the credits cannot last forever [illegible] our later Canadians will be back to the position applied other countries in world markets.

[illegible] workers without increased production [illegible] everything for everybody. We think that farmers, too, sell working both need [illegible] a fair [illegible] of the wages economy in the united situation. To have it we do not sell all for our own use markets in the world. That means a [illegible] which Canadians will have to bargained at on goods [illegible].

Let us not kid ourselves in the least.

On Neighborliness

PARTY telephone lines have always had a certain community appeal to the urban dweller here bright outlets of humour of the steady growth of his cities and towns, the party line as a joke and symbol of business trouble is one of those pawky institutions that country visitors are supported to make all unexpected hospitality to their city friends. Either party installations dotted the land and the party telephone line came into its own. It is no wonder that the maxim of city convenience, the avenue a whole populace to action against a sudden outbreak of fire, horses of a running mad runaway, was likewise painted about rather than through the no time of the newspaper or the radio. And of course it was natural for Mr. Smith to learn the latest gossip on a third cousin party to a gas conversation.

The party telephone line has outgrown its usefulness for the urban resident but for today's rural resident it is still a vitally important and necessary link in community life. There is little silence to the party line as there ever, the rural correspondent knows. Long, complex, superficial records that listeners on two lines in that area turned out in half-hour to cut brush and help harvest crops and mend and mould new community. Indeed it has been destroyed [illegible] By destructive fluids we see the local bodies of directing stones or using a 22 rifle to sharpen their shooting eye. The lines had apparently been used out of only several occasions, and with the advent of telephone repair crews it took work on the part of farmers Farmers to remember the numbers of those should make it a point to warn those children against this sinful destruction of attendance of property which is both expensive to game and interrupting to telephone service

The lines, from time to time, complained against interference of a line by the individual the person moving-making the phone a link in the previous minutes running into home with complaints and chatter. A farmer who is urgent need of trucker repair parts to rent have to wait long periods of time. If he rings up he is upbraided as an antagonistic user than line is busy."

Nor is the practice of eavesdropping appreciated by any means confined to the rural. It may be a source of amusement to the remaining members but it is not included in party lines. "Rubbernecking" as it is called tends to weaken the line so the party called cannot hear the other end Rubbers are quickly worn out in the process.

Urge Farm Safety

As part of their conception of service to farmers and others, Lacombe farm equipment dealers, through their co-operation of provincial dealers organizations have selected the week of August 16-23 as "Farm Equipment Safety Week." A co-operative advertisement on this theme is distributed to them to assist in the farm

In participating this period for the sake of emphasizing to farmers the hazards existing in some of the machinery in the use of machinery the dealers obviously feel every week should be regarded as "Safety Week." It is pointed out that every year scores of farmers are needlessly injured and frequently others are killed through neglect to observe ordinary precautions or dispensing with the use of protection such as shields for power take-off and chains

Dealers are also aware of the loss encountered farmers each year by fire. They emphasize the wisdom of preventing fires by periodic checking of electrical wiring, heating systems and other likely places where fires could originate. Moreover also to the value of cleaning up buildings and grounds to eliminate the danger of lighter appearance and to the efficient [illegible] that the low-cost safety measures such as both fires and accidents. In fact, the dealers' efforts publicity in connection with "Safety Week" point out that "accidents do not happen they are caused."

Training Bees

The busy mailbox of calming hormone is by no swarming, but to let them do it their own means smaller range of honey and possible loss of the bees also saves it beekeepers. Dominion Apiarist and Chief of Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

In preparing a queen month by requestion of the brood nest. This may be brought about in several ways. To reduce the brood chamber to two to a maximum the beekeeper must provide each colony with ample room for the best brood production and for storage of surplus nectar or pollen that may be gathered by the bees. This requires a minimum of two full sized brood chambers and at least one for the storage of surplus. Some of the latter will be needed save the main flow. Many beekeepers find it more convenient to the normal expansion of the brood nest The use of queen excluders, crushed combs or the insertion of a sheet of foundation between brood combs is still often reduce the brood area to part of the brood chamber only causing congestion of the brood nest even in the largest of brood chambers. A shortage of storage space offers the bees no other choice than to swarm. Therefore, here reducing the area the queen needs for egg laying, and thus controlling swarming and the resultant natural manipulations may also be required to reduce the colony to expand normally Where double or triple brood chambers are used it may be necessary to change their positions to reduce the queen to occupy them all. For extra strong colonies it may be necessary to remove some of the brood from chambers to storage supers above Where this is done, the combs may later be examined, for queen cells, sewn then after raising it. In some regions where the main honey flow comes late and colonies will take little surplus nectar or early fall, the swarming impulses can be stopped by divining the colonies approximately six weeks prior to the main flow. In other regions the division can be made during the flow Early swarm division should be given a strong flow to season are made These divisions take care of any increase that may be desired, and are made by the beekeeper at any day that of the time.

Hog Sanitation Needed

Millions of dollars are being lost every year by farmers in Canada by raising pigs under unsanitary conditions. It has been estimated that about 20 per cent of all pigs farrowed in the fall reaching market weight but this loss is really small compared with losses sustained by feeding unhealthy pigs which do not die. Unhealthy hogs do not return market prices for grain, says H. L. Wilson Dominion Experimental Farm, Lacombe Alta., where hog breeding and feeding is demonstrated.

It is the practice of good farm sanitation, and such is that is needed in many cases what the pigs are not doing well Conditions on many farms are very unsatisfactory and pigs suffering in manner cannot be expected to remain healthy When kept in insanitary quarters many can have one of the more blood-borne diseases and diseases contracted of disease would not occur if pens, yards and equipment were kept clean. There is no substitute for right sanitary conditions for disease control.

Contrary to popular opinion, the pig is an animal which thrives best in clean, dry comfortable quarters. Many of the common diseases to which are traced directly to unclean surroundings such as the old permanent hog lots, filthy hog houses and unsanitary feeding troughs. During the summer season hog pens have the run of a pasture and yards located from many years use, damp, as mud, and deposed for under on decayed goods. Keeping pigs healthy is chiefly a matter of good feeding, cleanliness and protection from extremes of weather. It is a better policy for a farmer to direct his efforts towards the prevention of disease rather than the costly and unsatisfactory treatment of preventable diseases.

Pigs are born free of diseases and parasites so that if infection occurs it can be traced directly to contaminated soil, to infected pens, or to direct contact with diseased pigs. The immediate institution of safe animals from the remainder of the herd will help in preventing the spread of disease Young growing pigs are more susceptible to worm infestation and the well-known diseases than are older pigs. It is, consequently good business in the interest of healthy hogs to keep the pigs on clean sweet at weaning time to a clean lot or pasture free from contamination.

At the Experimental Station, Lacombe, every yard and lot in which pigs run in any considerable extent is ploughed and seeded to a temporary pasture crop at least once a year The strict adoption of this precautionary measure has materially reduced the losses of young pigs and improved their general health during the whole feeding period

CARE OF TEETH
Tooth decay, say the experts, can't be prevented entirely, but cavities can be stopped and filled when they are small, so that the teeth may be saved in small cavity, naturally, to be filled much more easily, comfortably and cheaply than a large one.
Pyorrhoea, which causes the gums to recede, teeth to shake and drop down decays, can be prevented in most cases. Irregular teeth, too, can be straightened out and moved enough, can be more easily covered. In dentistry, we are required to keep abreast of the times in indeed worth a pound of care.

The Days of Yore

WHEN our old-timer finally smother, there's usually a home-spun tale woven from the days that's gone. Some of the majority of old-timer's author each year of the Central Alberta pioneer. Of course, there are exceptions, the result is much the same except that the time wanting is done on a more wide. There's the pity of it all. Their stories their hobbies, are held only once and perhaps won't be requested next year, for the tenth death bed customers in place an increasing number of pioneers from our midst. The years, the inexorable tenth, these vitally important tasks, are a bit unrewarded for future generations.

The truth of the matter is that there is an official record of the early history of Lacombe. The books records were destroyed in 1906, four years after incorporation. The town newspaper is mostly able to provide some useful information of events of the past, but the files of the former Western Globe were burned in another devastating fire some years later.

On June 3 1922 on the occasion of the Town of Lacombe's fortieth anniversary from the date of first settlement, a committee of the Women's Institute of Lacombe was prepared by Rev. R. G. Lawson and others, and read at the gathering. The story was quite accurate, plain and was related more to early church happenings than to all facets of the town's growth and development.

It seems clear that the true, accurate picture of Lacombe's early days remains preserved, but every week we pass long in the minds and memories of the old-timers themselves.

It would seem to be up to the old timers' association to read this previous story of information from the scientific mind, and get it down in concrete writing. Perhaps Town of Lacombe officials would be interested in making it a joint undertaking. Let's be obtained would go to make up official town archives. At Camrose, an industrial society has been formed and the issue of information obtained was recently put under cover in a neat little booklet entitled "Camrose and its early history."

We trust the old-timers breathe at each annual reunion and get together. A wealth of interesting information lies in its dead ears, never to be heard again. Would that the air could speak. What tales it could unfold!

An Eye to the Future

CAUTION SIGNS observers have come to change their original stamp of the Leduc oil "boom and promise and have replaced it with the title, "Look the Field." They do not without reason. Not successful wells were drilled in one company alone and production was found in all of them. Right-of-way were and drillings are now pending in other areas in the vicinity, and although not all to have been successful, results have been sufficient to warrant going in and all of "Boom" round a shadow of a doubt.

Reports, however, all companies are in a favorable pitch of settlement awaiting developments from drilling experiments now going on. No one is aware of the boundaries of the new oil field no one knows how big the field will be. Like a gold rush coming down South up overnight, the small town of Leduc, 30 miles to the south has suddenly become a booming oil town.

While there is still too early to make positive statements, it appears that Leduc will be at least a partial answer to the problem of oil supply and demand. If there has long since been an unquestioned source the industry being viewed as this province's only real production. From present indications, Leduc stands fair to become the No. 1 oil producer in the province, replacing the Turner Valley oil fields which are now on the decline.

All we can do is wait and hope. Important oil discoveries of major balloon size may grow out of the present exploratory oil bubbles.

Signs of the Times

SMALL but very significant, notices have appeared this summer in many Alberta weeklies to the effect that their newspaper shops would be closed usually two weeks period about one week to give members of the staff a little holiday. The printing does not contribute to small newspapers only it included such large and well-known weeklies of the Red Deer Advocate and the Drumheller Mail.

It seems almost incredible that a newspaper, that is open every day on the value of daily work, should be forced to close its doors for several successive days, so that staff members may enjoy a respite from work. This method of giving holidays is expensive and excludes advertisers both from the publishers and the customers' point of view. It shows rather profoundly the "slow strong" motion in which a good many weeklies are apparently forced to do their home. The shortage of trained printers has reached the point now where a newspaper cannot afford to lose the services of even one employee at a time, for holiday purposes.

Farming Notes

Wintering of Bees

Most experienced beekeepers prefer to winter their bees rather than bed them in the fall and start each spring with package bees. Some of the main reasons in favour of wintering bees are that the honeycomb is undisturbed and the bees are not retarded as they would be if fed in early spring, advanced before packages can be obtained with the result that the colony is ready for spring when the honey flow and considerably more honey is obtained. Another reason is that bees wintered successfully in cool dry dwelling, protected and well-ventilated in cellar and when a beekeeper raises his own queens he can winter them results with a colony and thus maintain characteristics he strain continually.

For success in wintering bees a strong colony a good supply of wholesome stores and adequate protection from cold and changing temperatures are required.

To have a strong colony of young bees it is usually well to replace the old queen with a young mated queen at the end of the main honey flow and provide plenty of space in the brood chamber. If colonies are fed any reason should be fed in the fall to a week colonies are better united then to try to winter them as weak or small colonies. The stores of honey should be of the best quality or dog-drive troubles may occur during the winter The best honey gathered in the fall is often of poor quality and not satisfactory for winter stores. It is good practice to remove the greater part of the honey and give sugar syrup for winter stores from part water to two of sugar) This may be fed from September 1st to the end of October. Full directions for the feeding of sugar syrup are given in the outdoor wintering circular. Feeding may be continued in spring if colonies are more which usually requires about 10 pounds of sugar per colony.

Protection from cold and changing temperatures may be a degree made for the purpose, a basement of a residence or an outdoor cellar. The rate heated where it is sheltered from the wind, the the province where winter temperatures are usually fairly steady, the wintering of bees in packages one of the most satisfactory methods of wintering bees

Farm Land Values

The average value of occupied farm lands in Canada for 1946 is reported at $49 per acre. This represents an increase of seven per cent over the average values estimated in 1944 and 1945, and an increase of 33 per cent over the 1935-39 average. The upward trend in farm land values, from year to year, is shown in the accompanying table. Statistics, collected at least in part the relative changes which have occurred in the price levels of farm property. The changes which farmers buy, and the value of farm products sold. The ratio prices of commodities and services used by farmers had advanced 45.1 per cent from the 1935-39 base-period level. Increases in farm land values over 1945 have been reported in all provinces, with the exception of Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, where slight decreases occurred.

Everybody's Business

by Don Graham

The push to success is overcome with many pitfalls.

One which catches many victims is the tendency to regard oneself as being just another worker among a host of other workers.

Such an attitude stifles achievement. Every man should regard himself as an individual with a unique combination of talents and skills. Realizing this he will try to make his own special contribution. Then, and only then, will he begin to advance.

By the same token, it is important to take a positive attitude toward each day's work. To one man, it is just a matter of an hour's input of labor which must be done as quickly as possible the sun reaches all tide. To another, each day is an opportunity to prove his skill and value — and to take another step toward his goal.

It won't be long before the second man's attitude pays off in increased income.

Every increase in income brings with it an opportunity to provide greater financial security through Life Insurance. The wide variety of plans and policies makes it possible to choose one that suits your individual financial requirements.

TEACH THE CHILDREN THE MEANING OF THE WORD

DANGER

Too often a young life is snuffed out by drowning; a child is fatally wounded by firearms; a fire set by little hands playing with matches takes life and property. It is most difficult to remove the causes of accidents, but by intelligent instruction children can be taught that "Danger" is a poor playmate.

Rev. W. Hollingsworth Delivers Fine Address at Old Timers' Roundup

If we are indifferent to the welfare of our community, we are not much of a blessing to our fellow men and it is to our own loss," said Rev. W. Hollingsworth, when he was guest speaker

Introduced by Chairman C. F Dawson, the speaker in the highlights of his talk took as his theme, "What difference does it make?" "I use it to mean if it does matter", he stated, and it seems to me that last night's very successful reunion of old friends, old pastors, and those that have passed on, you would not have the slightest reason to have that you were lonely.

Looking gatherings as this does me a heart good, and cheers faith in human nature in renewing friendships" he continued. "The world is in an awful mess, and instead of wallowing things plus roughly, we need do our part in making a better way of life, we need to be thankful that we have passed.

"I am a young old world, and what we get out of it, is in proportion to what we put into it. Many problems confront us, and need down and help mankind, as shown as always a better side to life, if we are to have the Faith in the knowledge that if we do our part in the right direction, and does make a difference. The pessimists who said in his district in improvement conference difficulties that with perseverance they overcame the trouble, and we the old out determined doing likewise both spiritually and morally" he concluded

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker, and much appreciation of the address was also passed to G. E. DeLong, superintendent, and the staff of the Experimental Station, for kind and valuable assistance, and to the ladies who had so capably handled the catering.

During the meeting two minutes silence was observed, while the gathering stood in tribute to 34 old timers who had passed on since the last annual meeting after the ceremony rend the names

After some discussion regarding changing the qualifications of membership, it was decided on motion and carried, that the qualifications remain the same. James Alexander suggested that every member be a committee of one to

Britain Desires Regain Production in Welsh Industry

LANDUDNO. Britain's desire to become one of the world's major steel and tinplate making countries is being undertaken with a new plan for large scale home production of tinplate and when the Revival of an old British industry has been announced in South Wales where 23 new tinplate hand mills and one mechanized mill are to be erected.

It is possible, however, that Britain will still be importing huge goods tonnages from Switzerland for a few years. Under a 10 year agreement with Switzerland, Britain's imports will increase and in exchange Britain will get Swiss watchmaking machinery for development of the watch industry.

Resident chunks and watches Welsh Industries will make watches but still agreed that Switzerland has advantages, American binoculars and motion-open have been imported and large scale dashboard instruments.

"Our Town"

"OUR town" is slowly assuming the proper form of a small "little city."

Some two blocks of cement sidewalk are being laid in the main business section of the town. The sidewalks have been "relifted" with a hard surface through the use of oil and gravel and these sidewalks will be paved next year with the highest up-to-date system, from present expectations. Several more businesses have been opened in Lacombe recently and renovations and alterations to other buildings have occurred and the improved section of Lacombe. Building permits have been obtained from the town office for the season thus far and we can truly have look forward to more business being carried on here up to about the end of October.

It is hard to predict what effect next year's move of the main highway to 67 street will have on the town. It may mean a school building or two of that line of activity, it may mean a new building sub-divided at that early date by application of several business firms for town lots and building permits about 21 street.

These are only a few suggestions of palpable progress achieved, but a few years on the street will soon form a table of advancement. Only the population has remained largely stable on the census of 1941 and the last five years, according to the dozens-of-citizens this might well ask why? The answer seems to be lack of housing. We know of numerous individuals who have been deterred from the move from nearby to Lacombe because they have not been able to find a place to live. The housing shortage is evident in most other centres as well of course but that doesn't lessen the seriousness of the unnecessary shortage here. It would be of much improvement. Lacombe continues to move ahead.

Doubtlessly "Our Town" is growing up.

Variety at Least

A newspaper other than more than proud a newspaper. Over the years, it seems to have acquired other duties both varied and numerous. It acts as a sort of information bureau, for example answering daily queries concerning everything from the date of the Kansas King's proposed retirement to the weight of Stalin's moustache. Because of its host and honest travelled reputation a newspaper also acts as a sort of interpreter between persons who have articles and persons who find them.

It is a pleasure to be able to serve the public of course, and many articles are returned to their rightful owners as the result of the notice. Articles remain un-named and they are slowly broadening on our cabinet drawers. Our lost and found drawers at the moment bear a new coverslasher by a chattered shell in a push shop. We have on hand to name only a few things: license plates, keys, glasses, fountain pens, purses in fact personal items of every description except cheese and bubble gum.

We are not sure exactly what all this goes to prove. It does show the apparent carelessness with which some people treat their personal belongings. It indicates further the seeming indifference that shows toward returning lost valuables. People don't complain about an extra fifty cents they have to pay for their eye glasses, yet they'll blow those same glasses with fourth a blind of an eyelash. It must be human nature.

We're waiting for the day when something worthwhile is left unclaimed, like a hundred dollar bill.

New Approach Needed

THE world is sick plain-boiler underneath. Feel on spiritual thought! Is what now the burning war hungry for a better world, a peaceful world? the blood faith on democracy somehow mouldering through? the fear seed what a next war would do, with dreaded new implements of war like the atom bomb? Or the strength of the United Nations, which is unassailable for the time power of the Big Five?

All these answers are doubtful or unsure. We have tried solving the world's problems by just about all principles before and we have failed. It tends to a struggle of political power rather than a sustained live of peace. If history does hatred war and we are heading in the same direction because little has changed. Are we forced to use other more suitable answer waves of strength through the ranks about? Spiritual thought?

It is serious shocking, intolerable, attitude and thinking worldwide. The love would be our answer. It calls for a complete attitudinal revolution. But the world is a time to be thrashed of man' share common problems and that it should solve them problems in the spirit of blood brothers.

It is serious shocking, intolerable, attitude and thinking worldwide. The love would be our answer. It calls for a complete attitudinal revolution. But the world is a time to be thrashed of man' share common problems and that it should solve them problems in the spirit of blood brothers.

Farming Notes

Know The Difference

The farmer is constantly hearing to distinguish between friends and foes, but when three true enemies resemble each other some knowledge of details is needed before he can decide whether to kill or let be alone.

The Field Bindweed one of the most serious weeds with which Alberta farmers have to contend, can be readily mistaken for another troublesome and rather attractive weed. Before the Hedge Bindweed Bindweed-like of the Field Bindweed each many and considerable patience. It is well to be sure that it is the Field Bindweed you are attacking before going to the expense and trouble of attempting its eradication.

There you know the difference between these two plants you will not be likely to mistake one for the other. Both Field Bindweed and Hedge Bindweed have the true "morning glory" flower but the leaves of the Field Bindweed differ but one's smaller that that of the Hedge Bindweed. The best way to tell the difference between these two is by the position of two small bracts or bracts that grow on the flower stalk just below the flower. On the Field Bindweed these bracts are very small and are about a quarter to half an inch below the flower on the Hedge Bindweed they are much larger. They grow close to the flower and cover the lower part of the flower.

If you find any wild "morning glory" on your farm and are unable to tell whether it is the field or hedge-bine bind, get in touch with your field supervisor or district agriculturist and have him show you the difference. If you find that it is Field Bindweed, take steps to eradicate it right away.

Weeds and the Farmer

This is the time of year when weed infested fields really show up. Even the good farmer may find that weed infestation has occurred in spots of the otherwise green fields. This is the time to solve his problem by changing his farming methods.

There is the other one however where the same weeds fields are noticeable year after year. A veteran soil in this community of Red Deer, the Field Crops Commissioner A. M. Wilson. Farmers, he says, have an obligation and a responsibility in maintaining the fertility of the soil. Weeds growing in this responsibility is sufficient reason to have these fields under proper crop rotation. In these districts who are capable and anxious for the opportunity.

In many districts of the province excellent crops are being harvested. High quality of clean grain should be sufficient to bring premium prices for good farming practices. Good soil, if properly handled, will return excellent yields. If it is abused or improperly cultivated, weeds will flourish.

There is no time like the present to rehabilitate weed infested land. Thorough fall cultivation when soil drifting is not likely to occur will do much towards bringing perennial weeds under control. Land surface should be packed before frosts up it will assure early spring germination of annuals.

Clean the Stables

Clean stables have much to do with keeping livestock healthy. With shed soil on pasture crops are unnecessary to keep down internal parasites. After the stables have been thoroughly cleaned they may be sprayed with a mixture each containing a suitable disinfectant.

Flies and mosquitoes around farm buildings are a source of annoyance to both humans and livestock apart from being possible carriers of disease. The new chemical DDT is effective in helping to keep stables and other farm buildings free of these pests. Any of the commercially prepared barn sprays containing one per cent DDT may be used for this purpose and the instructions of the manufacturer should be followed.

The gallon of spray will cover 1,000 square feet and sufficient DDT will be deposited on the surface to last for some months. In addition to spraying the interior of stables and other buildings, the outside around doors and windows should also be treated.

MENTAL RELAXATION

Mental tension is touched by the experts as an enemy of health. Pointers out that such effort as is required for study requires as much, at least, of strain as physical exertion, the medical authorities say young people at school are grappling with life's problems to remember that the mind as well as the body needs rest and relaxation.

Rest, sleep and recreation are nature's antidotes for fatigue and they are essential in relieving the strain of sustained effort

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS by Don Graham

You may notice how much you can help your business can help plan increased in their paid.

In about 1 hour a man theoretically can "learn" a terrible memory." Always does make him more to convey the impression that this just an unlucky accident of birth.

The truth is that although some people do have unusually retentive minds, anyone can improve his memory to a remarkable degree. To do it, of course, takes exactly effort. But the rewards are many and important.

At any time you may be able to supply some important person with an exact fact or figure, and by such a simple act suddenly gain new prestige. In many other ways a good memory repays you for progress and builds self-confidence.

Modern psychology has much so much on methods of memory-training that may help you. But even if you merely concentrate on remembering you'll become a more efficient and pleasant person.

It looked for a while as if a temporary financial problem in the family might keep Mary from finishing "High". If she had to quit school to help the family income that would have meant good-bye to her hopes of becoming a nurse.

But here she is, starting her final year. But her Dad suddenly came into some money!

No . . . and yes. He consulted his bank manager, who told him how the bank, through personal loans, often helped people to meet just such situations. Arrangements were made, and now Mary will take up nursing after all.

In 1946 Canada's banks made half a million personal loans to Canadian men and women.

Locals Win Clive Ball Tournament

Lacombe baseball club won the ball tournament held at Clive on Wednesday of last week, when they defeated Innisfail 5-4, in a thrilling final game.

In semi-final games, Innisfail edged Clive 2-1 in another exciting contest. Little Larry Lavallee, a boy, on default from Buckner Ball, Clive and Lavallee pitched "pea-ball" games, but all the Clive men's and Rankin's in the world, from Rankin, couldn't win the game for Clive.

Both teams counted one run in the fourth inning, and the Innisfail struggle remained knotted at 1-1 until the last inning when Lavallee, mainstay among the visiting lads, Hayes, in the second time defeated Lavallee 3-2, but it was only an exhibition tilt.

In the final, Lacombe and Rankin put on a real baseball battle. Lacombe came through 5-4 when Johnny White pitched a smart game for Lacombe, and the locals had just enough batting power to maintain a winning margin.

In spite of the heat, Clive's city day, a good crowd was on hand at all games.

Vaccination of Cattle Will Thwart Bangs Disease

Farmers within the district will have the opportunity of getting their calves vaccinated against bangs disease for a low minimum charge, following an arrangement between the Alberta department of agriculture and the Lacombe agriculture service board.

The agreement has only recent ly been ratified, and L. R. Sterling, district agricultural agent, urges every farmer in the district to give his co-operation. There is nothing to take advantage of the service must have their applications completed and forwarded to Mr. Sterling before October 31.

Bangs disease in cattle takes its toll in the form of calf losses every year. The disease is very contagious and usually causes all the cows in a herd to abort before the farmer realizes what the trouble is, so the earlier chance to do anything about it.

Such calf losses are serious, particularly among the beef breeds. The disease is even more serious among dairy cattle where the farmer and his family are using the milk on the table. Humans can contract undulant fever from bangs infected cattle.

Whole herds may quickly become infected once one cow loses her calf, Mr. Sterling stresses. The best known method of preventative is calfhood vaccination which will immunize the heifer calf for life, and thus prevent losses resulting from bangs disease.

The heifer calves must be vaccinated between the ages of four to eight months. Farmers who apply for the service will be notified when the vaccinations will be done, and they will be expected to have the calves either in the barn or in a handy corral.

Blank application forms can be obtained from the district agricultural office or the M.D. of Lacombe office. Farmers living some distance from Lacombe are requested to write Mr Sterling for the blank application form. Only farmers resident within the boundaries of M.D. of Lacombe No. 64 may take advantage of this service, at the special rate.

Changes in Bank Hours on Saturday Afternoon is Explained

The recent announcement of a change in banking hours on Saturday afternoons has caused considerable comment. In the Lacombe district, as elsewhere, the banks are closed on Saturday afternoons.

Friendly relations existed between the staffs of the banks and the public during the war years, and the banks were willing to accommodate their customers in every way possible. Many people who were employed during the week were unable to do their banking except on Saturday afternoons. Many farmers came to town for the week end and could not do their banking except on Saturday afternoons. Communist Tendencies

The fall is a dangerous season of thought speculation. Many Canada, today is even more Communistic, and is perhaps less exempted by the settlement of the recent strike by the premiers of Canada's provinces. Unions and the forced Labour-shopping corporations. The strike never being an unspecified commencement against the coming vessels of the United Lakes. The final terms of settlement still for short notice delegates warning statements that there are not commercials before they will be allowed to board the ship. Further the union is compelled to accept such unlicensed members as will of health subsequently approximately commence of sub-equal to the three conference terms, the shipping companies agreed to call off the strike.

The composition of democracy has always been that an individual is free to think, talk and act as he likes, within certain bounds prescribed by law such as the laws of libel. What of a Canadian does attend to be a communist and believe in that system of government, one has from Soviet Labor-Communism? That individual perception of individual liberty seems to have been forgotten by him since he cannot see how he can hope to personally by force of communism that is a moral record be communistic methods — by force and stealth.

An unpalatable settlement of this kind is an way to avoid a serious crisis in Canada. Unless there are threats of communism in harvested post free action along constructive lines to prevent any chance of the success of such an aim of fighting. We must prove that democracy by enforcing the Canadian people are not dissatisfied with it, but adopting totalitarian measures which are not fight any to children.

A similar "one-hand" resolution was brought up at the provincial premiers' meeting at Edmonton in June, which would have prohibited a communist or any person supported of being a communist from holding a legion executive position. The resolution was turned down by the legion patrons last month, other legion members hotly condemned the resolution before fighting steps by-side in the trenches didn't call such either if they were communists. The resolution was thrown out without even a vote.

These actions are strangest but they deserve careful watching. We feel the trend is only a little surprised summary reaction to the mistaken ideas of public thought as this liberty being used. Let us make sure the natural check and balance has strong

Reflections on Banff

Banff is a small town with a population of [illegible] months of the season but during the summer months it travels at the seams with its transient population many times its own size. Banff is enjoying a boom season of business activity. Agents for the town say its safe bet for the rest of the season. To-day there are 11 000 automobile tourists of various makes passing through the national park gates, with an over 20,000 count points. Add to that the number of out-of-dollars tourists who travel by charter bus and supported by regular and the many night users who arrive in trains and buses and one gets some idea of the thing moving around in this ever-running festival of the summer town.

One is amazed at a peculiar lack of self-control permeating the atmosphere of the pretty little mountain resort. It is the environment of tourists on holiday's autumn to see the spectacular and beauty of majestic rising mountain peaks and the numerous mountain lakes that hold. Large numbers of women and young girls forsake shirts and unbelted tailor-shorts to walk around the downtown streets itself the residents wear short summer dresses. This hectic atmosphere is rapid vesting plans.

To see the number of automobiles from the United States one would think Banff were an American town. At least one-in-three cars are American and they come from every state in the union. The black and white Alberta license plate is almost an oddity.

Americans and Canadians of other nationalities travel in harmony in our country, happy. Money matters usually do not appear who wants for it, and it goes readily from the pocket of every free-loving person. Tourist tips are expected of the slightest host of service rendered, and they are expected to be liberal tips. Even the service station employees fills it not with one, for example he handles about a dozen cars in the course of his activities. The observant driver can see that the servicemen has no been pestered on what sort of job he makes, but it is all done with a friendly smile and the tourist is expected to oblige accordingly with a tip.

These services which are not fortunate to having a car at Banff are the numerous sights to buy souvenir and bonus made of [illegible] specially designed with plaque for the purpose. The [illegible] to show the visitor every thing there is to see or a particular route, the arrangement of the trip, hiking trips, the organized bus tour drive, and anything else [illegible] interest.

Prices are high, but the tourist is there to spend money. He knows and he becomes a part of that activity, whether it [illegible] to avoid the [illegible] and the [illegible] of the [illegible]. There is [illegible] spirit, and that certain atmosphere that must be experienced to be understood. There is probably no other place like it in the world

Don't Neglect Summerfallow

Harvesting of early seeded crops is underway and the actual ground in the control of perennial weeds has begun.

H. J. Hafker Supervisor of Weed Control for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, says that the most common perennial weeds that is evident is summerfallow of stark perennials as Canada thistle and sow thistle, is the failure to follow through. In order to eradicate these perennial weeds they must be continued until frozen up. Implant during the fall means work of the time and means spent on the fallow during the summer.

This practice is contrary to recommended methods but extreme conditions, where farmers are time advised to keep all the fallow during the one having period from early August to the middle of September. Where conditions and perennial weeds both present problems, it is suggested that the summerfallow be well cultivated in early August, cultivations stopped during the period of cultivation until activity then resumed around September 15 when the moth Pupae has ceased. Following that date cultivation should be continued as required until freeze-up.

Failure to control perennial weeds is mainly the result of considering summerfallow operations completed by the time harvesting is finished, and the fallow for the remainder of the year. Where cultivations are not a problem cultivation during is harvest season will pay dividends in perennial weed control.

Care of Dairy Calves

The raising of calves for replacements in the dairy herd is recommended by Dairy Commissioner to such in the communities in D P Dixon in particular of Dairy Improvement, may be of interest. The first is that only those calves from the best producers out of bred for producers both be retained and fit, and the [illegible] of the [illegible] per head and care

Many of our poor producing cows of today were once promising young heifers that were improperly cared for and as adequately fed. The attention and care given the growing heifer calf is repaid in increased milk production during the productive life of the cow. The so-called "observation" heifer as of [illegible] is the ideal replacement as the milking herd. Ample pasture as sun water and good quality hay should be given to another with a conservative mixture is essential. With well bred heifers properly developed calving at 24 to 28 months, the dairy herd is assured of replacements as good and in most cases better than his present milking herd.

These calves are strongest but they deserve careful watching. We feel the trend is only a little surprised summary reaction to the mistaken ideas of public thought as this liberty being used. Let us make sure the natural check and balance has strong

Ringrot Survey Begins

For a number of years the Alberta Department of Agriculture has been helping farmers in Rolla Ridge and other Northeastern districts of potatoes, and a definite reduction in the number of infected farms has been noted. Control of Bacterial Ring Rot entails an annual survey of potato fields in commercial potato growing districts. Fields are inspected during early September for symptoms of the disease and specimens of tubers from suspicious plants are sent to the laboratory for actual checking for the disease.

J. J. Parkinson Supervisor of Pest Control for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, warns that Bacterial Ring Rot is a serious disease and Lower's necessary for its control. He says that this disease is an [illegible] menace to potatoes as small [illegible] as one [illegible] in hundred is extremely contagious and when the crop becomes infected very heavy losses may be suffered. There is no cure for Bacterial Ring Rot. The only solution is by disposal of the infected crop and start afresh with new seed stock. Growers of commercial potatoes [illegible] to control annihilation.

Bacterial Ring Rot is a seed borne disease. Provided the infected crop is disposed of and recommended practices faithfully followed, the greatest should have a clean crop. Before purchasing a clean crop on his farm the following year [illegible] is essential. To attempt to raise a crop from [illegible] tubers from an infected field is useless.

EVEN at normal cruising speed the pistons of your car are striking with terrific force—one of them gets smacked some 1,000 times every minute—more often when you're in a hurry. Heat builds up to 600° and higher. Will the pistons take that beating on and—one thousand miles and more cars manage.

Another reason is their lightness, which in turn means power economies. Here's why: You can push a modern, lightweight aluminum piston a heavier piston and harder with almost no effort. An engineer would explain it in terms of less inertia. And inertia is important in a piston, which must reverse its direction of travel—up and down. The less force needed to keep pistons moving in the right way, the more power saved to drive your car. And that much power saved to drive your car means that much greater pep and speed.

Lacombe Legion Will Direct Poppy Day Here This Fall

Lacombe branch of the Canadian Legion will take over the sale of poppies for Remembrance Day this year, and efforts are now being made by legion members to obtain advance orders from businesses in town for the purchase of wreaths. Members report good co-operation so far, and it is hoped that there will be a good display of wreaths in all business houses in Lacombe.

In this way, the local legion hopes to be able to build up a financial fund that will be built entirely from poppy day collections. Funds raised from the various branches of the organization have aided, in need among other persons, for the benefit of needy ex-servicemen.

Farmers Should Check Chemical Preparation For Caponizing Poultry

Articles have appeared recently in various publications warning farmers the use of chemical preparations for caponizing poultry. These preparations are referred to by various names such as Synthetic Female Hormones, Diethylstilbestrol, etc. The result has been a considerable number of enquiries to the office of the Poultry Branch regarding the use of these preparations and where they can be obtained.

C. W. Travers, Poultry Commissioner for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, says that in the first place the term "Chemical Caponizer" is misleading as these materials merely retard sexual development. They do not remove nor do they destroy the male sexual organs, even when used to large doses. In order to be effective these materials must be used in the stated quantities and at regular intervals. These preparations are put in liquid and tablet forms, the tablets being the only form up to proved as yet. They are still very much in the experimental stage and should not have been recommended for general use.

Secondly, we have every reason to believe that the tissues of treated birds accumulate a sufficient amount of the estrogenic properties of these preparations to affect the ultimate consumer. The Poultry Branch recommends that for the time being farmers do not consider the use of any chemical preparations either for stimulating or retarding sexual development of the birds.

SCHOOL HI-LITES

By Robert Wright

A united gathering was held for all high school students in the community hall of the school last Friday afternoon.

Jack Wilkie as chairman kept the program going and Barbara Hazlehurst ably supplied the piano. Karl Stadel as vice chairman in the rest of the student body. How about it, Karl had a song ready.

Following this there was a discussion concerning plans for the coming year's activities, during which a committee for the nomination of the executive was elected. Mr Patrick said that as last year's ranks could not be left bare, he hoped Mr Hine would reach the ranks once more.

He then asked Jack Sampson, an ex-student of last year's executive to comment on the suggestions of having two assistants during the year, and of having room committees. Jack said that in his opinion a number of these ideas are to be recommended, as with two people examining the first would just be "leaving it" when a new executive would come along, and that room committees would give too many people the feeling of responsibility. "Room committees," he added, "is more cooperation."

The election for the student's union is to be held this this week.

Bus-ing Session

The latest fad of school is chartering and bus-ing bubble gum. In all parts of the building you may see students from grade nine to grade twelve trying to blow a bigger bubble than the next one.

"Gums" the pride and pet of the biology class has become a subject of interest to the entire high school. He is a salamander which Mr. Patrick found outside the school one cold. He now resides in a glass aquarium on the science room and lives mainly on [illegible] which are brought to him by his student friends.

Barley Denies In Competition Has Arriving at Winnipeg

Carload returns in the 1947 National Barley Contest apportioned by the Brewing and Malting Industries national maltsters, on the highest of the grains designed to the brewing.

A less favorable season than in 1946 may have had some effect on quality in the southern part of the Western Provinces but the weather has deteriorated both yield and grade. In some of the provincial regions prescribed for the contest, the results may be disappointing but contestants in these regions at least are all on an equal footing.

Each variety shows great variations in yield and grade. Presumably both are better in the western north and there appears to be some good quality produced for the final judging.

Britain's Crisis

BRITAIN'S economic crisis has affected the sympathies of the entire English-speaking world. Sympathies is hardly enough as time passes, however, and drastic new economies for Britons on land, foreign travel, and gasoline have brought the austerity programme to more than its darkest wartime point.

The basic gasoline ration was abolished pot vate motorists can buy three gallons-thirty miles on the average-for a month but because they can't obtain fuel. Foreign travel has been restricted Britons can spend their holidays at home. The ration has cut down 15 - ton on sports so there has been a drastic cut in manufacture. No more Americans can motor in Britain - 40 - acres the British bring suddenly to arrive but material shortages limit their production.

These two examples of austerity place restrictions on all users. Austerity binds as bonds probably but the average worker a little harder around the belt - still bread, meat, sugar, bacon and cheese - rationed in the best war-time level.

What stares out glowering promise of Britain is the manner in which the people react. After the latest austerity measures a report tells of a Bet bush wife burning to her husband with the pathetic words "I'm sorry but we should draw the black out curtains, John." Humor veiled hardships! A type of British character-ism.

Expert figures reveal that the average worker is pulling up his sleeves and trying to do something about it. Public reports, reached 1947 - 1st per with 1948 added. The Labor government talked of saving 3 - words has reduced the public debt figure - more than 2 pound to 1947 - before food shifts can be purchased an opportunities comparable to 1939.

The moment is a trying one. And Britain needs a little more than mere sympathy from her friends - as allies. The old country must have a hearing sentiment - distant applause with the generosity of a dispersing standard of living. Perhaps the Marshall Plan will benefit - less admiration to be more action

Cadets Praised By Provincial Army Officer

The following letter, which is self explanatory, was received this week from Lieut. P. J. Isbrucker, cadet training officer for the northern Alberta area.

"Let us take a minute and look at Cadets and Cadet Training. First of all it must be remembered that a Cadet is NOT a soldier. He takes no oath of military service and is a boy who has the spirit and the good and the good of his country is disciplined through a voluntary exercise. Any possible objections to a Cadet Corps applies with equal force to a Boy Scout or to a Boys Brigade.

"Cadet training provides an excellent outing-up drill for boys physically. It trains boys to be mentally, definitely, unbalanced and not absolutely obedient.

"Cadet training does more than encourage the spirit of patriotism. It reveals to a boy his value as a citizen, and therefore, his responsibility for the performance of his duties as a citizen and develops in him a desire of his country, but in the highest development of his country in all departments of national life.

"The Lacombe Cadet Corps has in the past received a high standard of efficiency and we are sure it will continue to do so in the future.

In this respect we feel that a great amount of credit is due to Lieut G. J. Edgington who has spent a great deal of time in bringing the present Corps to its present high standard. We would like at this time to make known our appreciation of and only to

Adieu to Baseball

LACOMBE baseballers hung up their cleats and mitts last night when Bentley defeated them 4-2 and handed them their second game to Rimbey to drop out of the running in the league playoffs. We guess we could say that our baseball hall of fame for Lacombe in months a decade. It has been a long time since the locals have walked on fire to battle on their own little league competitions this year. There seemed to be more pep spunk for them. They finished in second place, played 24 games and had only three, two of those by one run margins.

The long list of the boys had between them had bonnie name and the first playoff encounter, which called for a three game total point series, gave fans a terrific amount of fun to make a power show up in the playdowns. League officials might well have called it off after the fifth game and put down in playoff lessons to the benefit of all concerned. Though Lacombe was definitely a little rusty and off-color for the semi finals, that does not detract from the fine sport and showing of both clubs an excellent ball club should demonstrate both fairly and squarely in two contests.

All in all it has been a very successful ball season. The baseball league formed this spring with ten teams operating, called to make every effort to keep alive the game in Lacombe. But this un-thousandth crowds at the beginning of the year increased materially at the end in both num bers and enthusiasm, the same is true on other ren pects. That points to what Rimbey baseball fans might be the case in a few years when the present fine support prevailing good ball is in the offing.

So we may truthfully say congratulations, Lacombe on this year's play. Good luck to Rimbey and Give the two league finalists. And to the rest of the league we say, look ahead to another year. Let's make next season better than ever.

The Central Alberta pavilion built in 1922 at an official cost of $30,000, is now valued at more than $60,000 by a qualified architect from Winnipeg, who visited Lacombe last week. The fact should be an effective answer to those few die-hards who have persisted in expressing loose assertions that if it fined and the improvement

A Golden Harvest

"GOLD'S gold in them thar hills." Every fall and there is gold in the needle rolling plains of the district. The gold ripples in fields under a soft breeze like a series of water waves following one upon another. The gold is as far as the eye can see ripping in valleys here rising on creek there.

It is the rich gold of a ripe crop ready to yield its riches to the reaper. It is the farmers' reward for his year's toil but golden prize he harvest.

To the farmer the bounty of a modern crop is probably seen in terms of so many dollars per acre. Still there is a certain exquisite grace about rustling ripe grain. Each full kernel is nature's gift to man. Each plant is a living entity in itself. Each head is a communication of nature's efforts to produce food through a complex and mysterious method with which still baffle. Millions of gold pieces that were in the waving arrows a vast countryside of fields and dollars

World Police Force

AT a meeting of the security council last week in Russia proposed that the United Nations police force should consist of 12 divisions of troops, 1,200 planes and five or six cruisers. There is not liable to be much argument over this recommendation since all the Great Powers are fairly well agreed on the size of the forces to be put at the disposal of the United Nations for world peace.

Some disagreement has been reared, however, over the individual contributions which should be made by each member of the United Nations. Britain and the United States have each suggested contributing to the armed branch in which it is best adapted to serve. But a better force can be built up on that basis. Thus, Britain and the United States would probably send predominately forces to the air and sea arms, while Russia a powerful land power, would offer proportionately large numbers of troops.

The broad does not favor this scheme and urges that all nations should send their military contributions equally among the United Nations police force. Russia probably feels that as America dominated air will prefer for example would be a preferred liberal to their own security. We are on hand to agree with the Russian view and for that reason, but for your sake let all countries have their contribute to each branch of the striking force wherever able and as advised being either the navy, army or air arm.

At last Russia's intervention appears to mark the end of the world police force in one era of high hopes of world peace. The Soviet thanks in terms of a united world army in a while.

Farming Notes

Watch the Young Turkeys

Summer and early fall often prove to be a time of commentary losses with our young turkeys, states C. W. Fraser, Poultry Commissioner for a province. Many are lost because the young birds are chilled and as a result the pasture is usually out of its best when the poults are placed out. There is also a greater tendency to find that turkeys are small roosters and therefore do not need the feed and attention that the hens require. Because of the lack of attention to many flocks of young turkeys, we have a serious shortage of turkeys this season and Mr. Fraser's reported during the summer and early fall.

Feed the growing turkeys just as carefully as you do the young chickens and see that they have their share of the good pasture available and there will be little or no trouble with them.

Young turkeys should be watched carefully for signs worm during the summer and fall. By this we mean worm from the ground which, especially the hens. Practice strict sanitation at all times. Should hens worm appear they are easily controlled by use of the suitable pills or powders available on the market

Order Rams and Boars Early

If considerable value to the live stock industry of this province is to be derived from the government policy administered by the Live Stock Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture under this policy a government bull is placed with one herd every two years, a purebred boar or ram at cost and how the eligible farmers prepared to his nearest shipping point. Under the five short lasting policy therefore arrives of the Late Stock Branch's not more than two more other but subsequent changes in this case are not prepared by the Department.

Many purebred ram breeders are wondering whether or not there will be a market for their rams. They cannot be expected to retain them on the chance of later demand. Farmers requiring boars are urged to place their orders now even though delivery may not be required until the

Another Bad Weed

One of the worst weeds with which Alberta farmers have to contend is Russian Cress. This troublesome weed, with its persistent habit and enterprising root system will prove the ruthless of every farmer in the province if its activities are to be curbed. Field Superintendents are combined with the opportunity and responsibility of keeping this pressed spread and encourage eradication.

R. Lehen Inspector of Agricultural Service Boards for the Office's Department of Agriculture, tells us that in Bora district where Honey Cress has already made headway a good work has been done by thorough and frequent cultivation until the first week in September followed by seeding of fall rye. In the spring another crop will be killed by the cultivation are operated with 2-4-D at the rate of about ¾ pounds of acid per acre. Harvesting of the crop is followed by further cultivation and fall rye sown again

For the eradication of smaller patches of Honey Cress, 2-4-D has been used with promising results but one treatment is not usually sufficient Follow up treatments are needed. The use of Russian Thistle has not been too satisfactory, since Honey Cress has proved extremely resistant to this chemical Following application of sodium chlorate given is recorded but starts again as soon as the effect of the chemical is lost. Here, too, warn will

For effective control of Honey Cress the repeated cultivation is required. Lacombe has a resistance this weed If the plant enters its appearance on your farm advise your Field Superintendent immediately

FLOUR AND BREAD PRICES TO BE INCREASED

Government Withdraws Subsidy to Consumer

CANADIAN housewives will soon be asked to pay higher prices for flour. The Milling Industry of Canada would like to tell why.

Nearly six years ago the price of flour was fixed at the low prices then ruling, based on wheat costing 77½c per bushel when milled for use in Canada.

Since then, the price of wheat has advanced step by step, but the Government has paid the difference in the form of a consumer subsidy in order that you might buy flour and bread at no increase.

Wheat has naturally risen to $1.53½ a bushel so that for some time past the Government has been paying more than half the full cost.

Now the Government has dropped the subsidy and the price Millers will pay for wheat through the Government Wheat Board will be more than double what it was originally. That is why the cost of flour will be increased.

Furthermore, the cost of bags, other supplies, labour and transportation has increased substantially during the control period.

Canadian Millers, however, knowing the importance of flour in the family diet pledge themselves to keep the price on low as they possibly can.

The prices of practically all ingredients in bread have also risen sharply and your Baker must take this into consideration when calculating his new prices.

Lacombe, Red Deer Eliminated

Clive and Eckville To Play Off For Central Alberta Baseball Crown

STANDING IN LACOMBE

Lively eliminated Lacombe from the play offs in the Central Alberta Baseball League by virtue of an 8-5 victory at Eckville Saturday afternoon. Lacombe had previously been defeated 4 to 3 in the 10 inning game played here on the previous Friday evening.

Six costly errors were made by each of batters, and most of the Lively runs were unearned although due to the timely hitting of Bobby Coughlin on the mound for Lacombe pitched superlative ball, struck out eleven batsmen and allowed nine hits. It was a heart breaker for Coughlin, who has been down well in the pitches and deserved a better break.

Hansen, the star pitcher for Eckville, was pounded from the hill in the first inning when Lacombe batted two hits, scored two runs and loaded the bases before being relieved. Fauch for Eckville allowed the game and scattered six hits, seemingly to hold down the threatening Lacombe batters.

It was the last game of the season of the Lacombe team which enjoyed a good season and ended up the league play standing in second place.

Fresh Meats Still Obtainable at Local Shops

There will be no scarcity shortage of fresh meats at the local butcher shops in spite of the present strike of Lacombe's three local packing plants. Swift Canadian Company Lacombe Packers Limited and Burns and Company. This following news was contained from Lacombe butchers this week.

Lamb, pork, beef and smoker fresh meats will be available in town because local meat markets do the majority of their own killing and killing forces these meats are not handled in from the city packing plants thus supply will not be affected by the strike

There will be, however, limited amounts of smoked meats like hams, weiners, bacon and kolobasy, and on crushed meats like bacon and similar cold meats which are purchased direct from the packing plants. Local butchers do some of their own meat curing, but not an sufficient amounts to satisfy all wants for bacon and ham.

Another offshoot of the strike is the rapidly worsening shortage of lard and shortening. These products are supplied by the meat packing plants, and since they have been closed down, new supplies are impossible to obtain.

Just how long these items will remain in short supply depends, of course, on when the packers' strike terminates. Local butchers affirmed.

Classes in Calisthenics May Start Soon

Classes in calisthenics for adult residents of Lacombe may be forthcoming soon. While still in the preliminary stages local school officials are interested in the idea and such classes under proper direction would be a welcome addition to adult education programs.

The class, to include all types of calisthenics such as tumbling, apparatus work, etc., will be under the leadership of Miss Jessie Tuer. They are expected to be held one night a week, at the Lacombe High. A similar class will take place one day each week after school for children, it is anticipated.

WEDDING

BIRCH—NESBITT

On Sunday, September 21st, Lois Isabel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Nesbitt and the late Mr. Nesbitt of Clive, became the bride of Mr. Harvey, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Birch also of Clive.

The afternoon marriage ceremony was held at the home of the bride's mother, under an arch of autumn leaves and white bells, while the rest of the room was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers, and bouquets of asters, snapdragons and sweet peas.

Rev. L. A. Thompson of Lacombe officiated. Miss Ivy Rose Cody of Lacombe played the wedding music.

The bride was lovely in a street length dress of white wool with a white shoe-string hat, and a corsage of pink roses. Her only ornament was a gold locket and chain.

Mr. William Boden of Lacombe was best man.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold compact, and to the groomsman a pen-knife.

During the ceremony of her daughter's wedding Mrs. Nesbitt wore an afternoon dress of black with white flora. Mrs. Birch wore a grey dress each complemented with a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served to 35 guests. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake flanked with tall silver vases and bouquets of roses. The toast to the bride was proposed by Ivy Thompson to which the groom fittingly responded.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. A. Boden, Miss Betty Boden and Miss Marion Schmidt.

For travelling the bride wore a chocolate brown coat with beige accessories.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. Christianson and Terry, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Mc Alpine, Sylvia Lake, Mr and Mrs. M. C. Ramsay, Mr. and Mrs. R. Collins, Red Deer, Mr. L. Wilson, Rosebud, Miss Edna Dorsey, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sowerby and Ivy, Lacombe.

More Mail, Please

In last week's issue of The Globe, we published a letter from the U. S. members of the Lacombe Union church, congratulating us on a recent editorial which urged a willingness, as well as a comfortable approach on the church for world peace.

Readers are invited to use the columns of The Globe at any time to express opinions of matters of public interest. This is not a plea for mere complimentary letters—but rather for the kind that many subscribers have about an current event, that would be worthwhile hearing. Naturally some persons will disagree with certain of our editorials. Fine. Let's have other views on the subject discussed—by use of a letter column. The Globe, and we are certain our subscribers as well would welcome expressed opinions on matters of public interest.

Such correspondence columns as have existed here previously, and Lacombe public likes, must be warned on a number of good faith, thought and no-enmity for public citizens. We feel, however that writers ought to ignore any articles of false pride and allow sentiments to be presented with letters wherever possible.

Decontrols and Prices

LAST week Ottawa announced the removal of price controls and subsidies on a wide range of commodities which included food, clothing and laundering materials. Food ready cleaned garments, also affects the price of flour was pushed up 40 to per hundred pound sack almost double a load of bread and sweet three cents the value nearly one third as much again.

These are only daily examples that appear at every man's table but John Q. Public finishing today. When reports of price controls results on a no market values, it indicates that costs in these have been held down artificially by the government. Now the ax will fall in many week their own level on a supply demand basis. And the average man is wondering if his pocketbook can stand the additional strain.

That query raises the broader, many sorrow, question of whether these increases may not touch off another rise in prices all along the line. Fear of workers demand more wages to pay increased costs; merchants will increase the mark of their merchandise to get higher wages and the inflationary dog will chase its tail in another years span of price increases.

The government believed that now was the proper time to relieve the hated group of items from price control and unlucky payment that time will tell if its judgement is sound.

Conserving the Soil

A farmer came into The Globe last week and casually mentioned that he was breaking 30 acres of woodland on his farm. At this month's meeting of the agriculture servers board, the vast amount of breaking being done at this district prompted the board to unanimously pass a resolution urging the government to pass early legislation bars curbing the activity. Three two embedded woodcuts have a common meeting ground in the problem of soil conservation in Alberta.

Thousands of acres of brush have been uprooted in the district this summer. Two and three half dozen cutters working in the Lacombe area have been in continuous operation all season long. Obviously attracted by the large returns on grain parts which rye and flax, the farmer is cutting growth trees on his husband which he visualizes under cultivation growing profitable crops. He decides to spend 60 acres to extend his acreage.

Is it worth it? Brush-cutting is an arduous expensive job. He'll pay $15 per acre for brush ing and cutting another $15 per hour piling, and $30 per acre preparing the land for seeding. Total $60 per acre but save he does some of the labor himself it may cost him in cash $30 per acre. Seed acres" only $1,800. He can get that back, and then some, with one good crop of rye at present market prices.

That's the narrow short-term view. The long-term view looks upon the forests as the essential guardians they are against soil and water erosion. If his was bush is cleared, it exposes the top-soil to the heavy winds. This rich soil drifts in blown off the field in less productive, may become even a virtual desert as happened in the southern United States during the early 30's.

The same protection is given against water erosion. Woodland growth tends rainfall and melted snow to be retained in the subsoil where expensive where it is often ready to supply the needs of plants and crops. If the bushland is not there the water runs rampant on the earth's surface, washes away top-soil, and creates gullies which may ultimately large fields.

The farmer says "but I'm only breaking 30 acres. That won't hurt." Forty acres multiplied many times over by other farmers will. It seems all true that most individuals create the forces of their own destruction.

This district still enjoys brush production. Common sense should tell the farmer and the government to preserve it.

Spring Seeded Forage Crops

Forage crops that were seeded last spring without a nurse crop may have produced a fairly heavy stand by mid-August or may have had weeds growing in them. In either case the crop could have been mowed or pastured without damage. In damaging the stand by cutting too close than however it should not be mowed now or winter killing is likely to result.

New stands of forage crops should appear to mentioned on the first year. The young plants are not deep-rooted enough to withstand the effects of frostheaved. Even when a stand is well established on an fine second or third year, close cutting or pasturing in the fall before freeze-up may result in winter killing. Pasturing after freeze-up will not affect the winter hardiness of the stand. Removal of the top growth may of course result in less snow cover.

Seeding in the Fall

Farmers, particularly crested wheat grass, are often seeded in the fall of the year. If the seed has not been done before September 15 it should be delayed until between October 1 and 15. The early seeded grass will germinate and over winter satisfactorily while October seeded grass will be in the ground ready to germinate on the early spring and make full use of the moisture that is available.

Legume—Should not be seeded in the fall or the poor mature it is subject to winter injury the possibility of germination is past. Legumes that germinate in the fall are almost certain to winter kill.

Fall seeding should be avoided on land where soil drifting might occur in the dry house land it would be wise to delay seeding until early spring or seed and moisture is adequate. Fall sowing also stubble is usually safer than seeding into new new fields.

Assure Feed Supplies

Poultrymen should make sure of their feed supplies says C. W. Tyrwhitt, Alberta's Poultry Commissioner points out that the western provinces and British Columbia are greatly concerned about the grain situation on the prairies. There will be heavy shipments to the East and to the West and with our present crop prospects it is essential that Alberta farmers and specialized poultrymen carry every effort to see that they hold over or are assured of obtaining sufficient grain to last them from now until next year.

You can estimate that for each hundred bird, you will require five whole grain and ground grain as the number approximately eighty pounds per bird. This eighty pounds of which grain should consist roughly of forty pounds of wheat, thirty pounds of good quality oats, and ten pounds of barley.

The Use of Concrete

D. B. Marion, Extension Agriculture Engineer for the Alberta Department of Agriculture says that although the making of good concrete is not an involved or highly scientific operation, good hard be get control in being used to many costly ineffectively.

Concrete is only a mixture of sand and gravel with cement and water but as it will be here a knowledge of what constitutes good concrete what is good sand and gravel, what kind to use, what proportions to use, how to mix the materials, how to build good forms and remove concrete Work correctly is frequently due to her being mixed with the sand and gravel. Before using bank run gravel it should be sampled for freedom from excess dirt and other foreign matter. Excess silt should be removed by washing. The quality of the mixing water used is also important. It should be clean, and, or alkali in the water give poor results. As a general rule if the water is fit to drink, it is all right for mixing cement

Red Deer Advocate

What MAKES a good citizen?

A good citizen respects himself . . .

He puts the welfare of his country and his community before his own advantage.

He is moderate in his thinking and moderate in his actions.

He is moderate in his use of luxuries.

When an occasion calls for the enjoyment of whisky, the good citizen knows, as The House of Seagram has frequently pointed out, that he has a personal responsibility to himself, to his family and to his country.

It is to "drink moderately" . . . or not at all!

Bubble Blowers

PESSIMISTS and old-timers are shaking their heads again over the antics of the younger generation. No, it isn't the good boys rolled down the aisles on a load drummed next chapter. It isn't the gangs who are staying up late and sleeping in bed-time stories. It isn't the bubble gum, stirred and blown to the chorus of "I'll never Blow my Bubbles."

Except that some of the bubbles have changed color. There is no more fantastic sight than a bunch of little school urchins, equipped with umbrella, blowing purple bubbles in front of your face. Who can describe the picturesque sight of the same little scalawags walking tall after the gum-packed bubbles. Its stately impressiveness ranging in breadth, now - bowls and often in one amazing moment.

Experts tell us fads remain in fashion only as the mental appetite is the result. On that basis the emperors of parents seem to be accepting the latest gum craze with equanimity. In the meantime we echo their discarnated wish, "God, what a mind has!

The Good Saving Habit

THE true high of the 19-thirties, did have I an advance like value of money-saving habits. Anyone in Johnny's court who couldn't do the business himself tried to do his bit among other things, by purchasing War Savings Bonds. It helped the government finance the war and the returns on the issued financed investment look like a safe surprise.

He exchanged dollars which had default-ed and value but Government bonds. It likewise he remember comfort to buy as many bonds as he could when they were offered during each drive of six month interval.

Well the Government recognized that Mr Canuck liked this number-saving idea. War Savings Bonds were a product of the war, but the Government introduced a "thrifty" substitute in peace in the form of Savings Bonds. He Canuck no longer has the added incentive of helping to win a war by lending purchases but the attractiveness of a sound investment remains.

The first series of Canada Savings Bonds proved to be a great success that it was passed. It can only lend a quoted the money saving habit, and added to a national prosperity. A ten-odd series of Canada Savings Bonds goes on sale October 14 It has been announced from Ottawa. Canadians can make authorized purchases from banks and other savings institutions. A further attractive offer allows Mr Canuck to make his purchase on an employer-employee co-operation basis through a payroll savings plan.

He purchase when in two-bill It aids the national economy and is a profitable investment to personal savings. It appears Mr Canuck will again take advantage of the opportunities.

HORSES: One spavined mare 30 years old one arm gets more with false teeth. Also two 4 brown matched horses one nose cotton, perhaps sound with good grass two-thirds one eye nearly loses runs of the nose.

WANTED: Any riding pan, buggy and one 311 riding separator with mortgages attached and one McCormick binder in bad, two 15-inches with plows, fresh by mid-June, one milky cow, one mule with wood post holes, six cylinder chevrolet with power takeoff and one thoroughbred stallion.

Lacombe's School Problem

THE old one-room schools that used to be employed as accommodating a new school building for Lacombe. Both factors were fortunately considered with proper regard some at last Thursday's meeting of the Lacombe school board with Edmonton school commissioner H. I. Bulmer One of three is the unofficial cost of such a building at a time when construction prices are so high.

He one hand, the urgent need for a new school building is a commodity at least high school students and railway competition at the other hand seems to dictate caution at the earliest possible date. On the other it is obvious a question of whether "economy" more than offsets hour's work and the ultimate burden on the taxpayer's shoulders. Cross-examining at the hospital held a probable early vote on a new hospital addition is something over the taxpayers' heads to mind But he should also keep in mind the important fact that these conditions will have to be made sometime and with true commonsense it ought to be possible to get expenditures elsewhere and make the necessary change now without draining the taxpayer.

The other aspect which was terrible though both employed at the meeting concerns the fact that such a new school building should take. Should it house both school students only? Or should it accommodate non-school pupils as well, and also cater conversion as the present school building for pupils? Should it be a "community centre of a double"? Members of the board attending the meeting tended to feel we believe again really find the new school building to be used for purposes fourteen schoolrooms, rather than eight

He larger building would easily handle in three-hour and high school grades that need to be joined together for the easy exchange of teaching and extra-curricular.

The other classroom space would ensure the healthiest of any movements between the Lacombe school boards. It would eliminate the many private and rival students. No matters were cited, in board days of consolidation, but the fact remains that between the children to measure up to any extremely regular shown of Lacombe divisional students. Instead of running a Lacombe school, the pupils are attending Red Deer school this term.

Lastly, an adequate 14-room school in location befitted to be the day when the Lacombe school district and the Lacombe high school district are consolidated. Such larger school space would then be restored possibly for the introduction of an agricultural course, for example, and it would be left thinking of another school or an addition because of their inadequacy of floor space.

The argument is unbroached as the money question comes to and he wants to know what it will cost him in dollars and cents. A rough estimate indicates that a 12 room school at this time would cost in the vicinity of $300,000. That would include the town hall site, again roughly, by about eight mills on a 20-year debenture

Mayor Luther Story will be a vote on a new school building a up to the Lacombe school board. Three of the councillors in the council are on the board. Two more seats for town residents to start third, one about them. We look forward to letters of opinion on the subject

Bentley United Church Scene Of Shupe-Craig Wedding

The United Church, Bentley, was the scene of a pretty ceremony on Friday, October 3, when Margaret May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Craig of the Prentice district became the bride of Mr. Wayne Shupe, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Shupe of Calgary. Rev. C. C. Armstrong performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin and carried a bouquet of red roses. Miss Bet-ty Cambrae of Edmonton was the bridesmaid, wearing pink and carrying pink carnations. Mr. Harry Craig, brother of the bride, was best man.

Serving the opening of the reception were Kenneth Stewart of Red Deer using "I'll Walk Beside You". Mrs. Willaford accompanying Jack and the Stewart brothers of the bride, played the wedding march.

The church was tastefully decorated in pink and white with a profusion of sweet peas, and candelabra provided the only light. The tapers were lit by Sylvia Shupe, sister of the bride, and Miss Shupe, who attended the bride at the church were undistinguished, adding a very impressive note to the ceremony.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for some 75 guests. For her daughter's trousseau Mrs. Craig chose a green ensemble crepe with a corsage of yellow Talisman roses. Mrs. Shupe, mother of the groom, was dressed with a corsage of red roses.

The guests enjoyed a sumptuous supper after the blessing had been asked by Rev. Armstrong. Mr. Armstrong then called on A. H. Blundell to propose the toast to the bride which was responded to in prose by the groom.

Mrs. C. Wetzenhofer and Mrs. A. Craig assisted and those assisting with the serving were Shirley Moore, Doris Hodges, Joan and Edith Hodges, Joan Randall, Opal Craig, Rosamond Hamilton, Norma Freeman, Lorraine Shupe. During the evening Kenneth Stewart and Gordon Anderson entertained the guests with vocal numbers.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Shupe, Mrs. G. Smeltzer and Miss Louise Hinson of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shupe and Mrs. Harold Shupe of Gardiner, Mr. and Mrs. R. Thomas of Pigeon Lake, Miss Betty Cambrae of Edmonton, Mrs. R. Stewart and Lorraine of Red Deer, Mr. and Mrs. O. Hocking of Wetaskiwin, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Craig and Mrs. B. Gemmell of Bentley.

The young couple left for Red Deer later in the evening and for travelling the bride wore a brown rayon-wool suit with matching hat-coat. They will reside in Calgary, where they are both teaching school.

Cousin of Mayor Wilkins Recent Visitor To Britain Describes Conditions There

Illness here claimed more than the subject of our present. A doctor in our local says for every one 7(0) ons in homes now confined of days or weeks on the sick list.

This fact was brought visibly home, when this locker interviewed J.B. (Jack) Wilkins of Olds, Alta., who was in town last week, visiting with Mayor Wilkins for a few days. He described a recent visit to England and Scotland, where he visited his aged mother, of Stanbridge, Bedfordshire, England. He came north to Scotland, to visit two cousins, one of 82, the other 86, who are still active there. The stories are full of homely details and the picture does not appear to be very well-drawn-out, but no doubt to their elderly folk new and to remain.

The men, on the other hand, are very chubby. It is nothing to see a man going about with a pack on his trousers, or a man with his vest in front of him. It could be that they eat enormous fatty stew wants to offer to their guests, but it certainly is chubby. Everything is very dear, for instance, a man's good suit would be over $100.

There are queues for everything. And this applies to food, which is a big problem. Mr. Wilkin said that meat is rationed in Britain to 1 lb. per week per person, but even adding it to those of his relatives, made very little difference to their diet. In order to reserve old friendships one could not offer meat or give hospitality in an ordinary times. Folks over there eat at a "pub" about once a week and spend about $2.00 a head on their meager rations and entirely on cooking and normally for many food.

Everyone runs a bit of a mild "black market" he said Mr. Wilkins, "and the government knows it." They have all kinds of fish but it is rationed because of the scarcity of fats. They want butter and cheese badly. The latter is an answer showing soup is used to both babies. In his wine there is practically no supply of pubs everywhere, he was no one likes it.

Britain is now crowded economically Mr. Wilkin said. There are too many shop-keepers for the number of people, giving them only a very average living. But their pension reforms is better than ours for veterans and the aged.

Miners are wanting but there is a lot of absenteeism, Mr. Wilkin told us. Coke is not rationed, but hard and soft coal are. And there here is the poor's allowance.

People are not pound-conscious, he explained. They buy cars if they can get them, even if they are twice as dear per h.p. as here. A Ford or Pontiac would bring $1,000. Of course they are in luxurious comfort, and they are economical.

British people take better care of their cars, according to Mr. Wilkin and seem go about keeping roads and sceneries in much cleaner than ours. The driving laws are better, too, and beginner's cars carry a big "L" back and front allowing them to look out for them, with due consideration.

There is a lot of building going on but there are no materials used that is not manufactured over for a home but they are of brick with roofs of slate or tile. One still sees straw where rushes

National Newspaper Week

NATIONAL Newspaper Week is being observed in seven Canada. Plan salute to newspapers as not simply praise or idolatry of the press. It is to offer newspapers to take stock of the work they are doing in a contemporary and to keep their sights levelled on the ultimate objectives and services they are supposed to perform.

A newspaper is an organ for disseminating news. The Globe strives to report all news in an orderly, fully truthfully without bias. We believe this is the news our subscribers want to read, and our efforts are to decided.

The editorial columns we devote to honest interpretation of the news as we see it. Perhaps all our judgements are not sound. We intend to be corrected, and to change our views with changing developments and new facts. We want to have our columns containing by publishing and answering letters of the editor representations, and pointing out constructively.

It is largely through the financial support of advertisers that any newspaper is made possible. We do not accept advertising covering any quackery or charity but feel that full value is given our advertisers by each dollar expended through its columns. We therefore urge our readers to patronize Globe advertisers.

A word must be said for the country correspondent. He receives praise from few but many. They are the "old faithfuls." As the Washington Star says,

"They report the homely little everyday happenings that can mean so much. Unlike daily newspaper correspondents, there's not much glamour in the life of a country correspondent. But there is little for them to complain about. Their compensation is derived from accurate reporting of activities of one's own community, satisfaction from stories that will do much in promoting the district."

The New Angle

SOME shoebuyers are trying a psychological twist in their advertisements to attract the attention of their readers.

According to the latest issue of the Retailer's Digest, some merchants are carrying traditional methods which emphasize their goods, and are avoiding the theme something like this "The manufacturer says these rubber covers are easy to assemble. Don't you believe it. If you're the homely type and like to bake a cake, fill, we dare you! Regularly $12.50 to $15.95, that they go for $5.95."

Smart advertising, we'd say! When wouldn't be a "homely type" in this ears eyes? Who wouldn't be a wee enough to bake a cake? It's a human failing, and we venture to say plenty of customers take up the challenge and buy those rubber covers. If a store isn't well-informed locally, others advertised by the original advertisement will purchase the product and of course.

Of course, such a trick of trade is only good for so much use. It makes pleasant reading for a change, but people would soon tire of reading an "about face" advertising, just as they tire of monotonous jobs either. For a joke, too, is only a story with a little twist at the end.

A Lesson From Sport

THE world series is over for another year, but it seems to us that this fall's baseball classic offers more than just a lesson in sportsmanship and fighting spirit. It teaches us—or should teach us—a lesson in tolerance against racial prejudice.

Colored were the heroes of both the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers. There are such names of victorious foreign extraction as Stirnweiss, Henrich, Berra, Bonelli, Bonetti, Reese and Furillo. There are Italian named stars like DiMaggio, Rizzuto and Fiorello. There is dark complexioned Jackie Robinson, the shy rookie first baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers who has had to fight bigotry as well as sure-enough to make good in the first major league ball season.

The story are treated equally in the baseball world. What about the world generally? A negro and was recently refused training in an Ontario hospital apparently because he was also a Jew. A little less prejudice and more of the broad-mindedness we demonstrate on baseball, and we wouldn't have those sordid racial disturbances to daily life.

Many of the ball players are known in the sporting circles of American boyhood. Can we at the same time consider them "foreigners" with the sort of prejudice shown by all the world? More prejudice, preach, with good sub-stream, that we should hand-pick immigrants, preferably from the British Isles, and bar others from our shores because they don't make good citizens. Utter nonsense!

These quiet and un-sportsline heroes racial affiliations will work together Pole with Britan with Jew with Negro on the ball field. They subscribe, or ought to, a baseball code.

The world at large needs to take a leaf from the baseball book. We need team play on the part of nations in place of individualism clashing by the rules of a United Nations world code. Puffing hitler world beat-makes can knock out a series of home hits on the long uphill struggle toward lasting world peace.

Farming Notes

Market Turkeys When Ready

There are thousands of early hatched turkeys in Alberta that should be marketed for Thanksgiving, and there are many thousands of mid-season turkeys that will be ready for marketing not later than the middle of November. C. S. Travis, Poultry Commissioner for the Alberta Department of Agriculture says that at the post there has been the customary practice to consider turkeys as a Christmas commodity and very few people think of marketing them before that time. The early hatching of poults in commercial hatcheries and on the farms has resulted the past in a large number of turkeys that should be marketed with ease and turning it into a cash realize."

Many of the hatchery produced poults come from breed breasted flocks and the feather quality of this type of turkeys is not of a very high standard in many instances. As the turkeys reach maturity and are ready to be put on the market, thousands of these birds develop dry heads, feathers that loosen off very easily. If the birds are kept two or three weeks beyond the time when they should be marketed, it is not long before they will be full of dry feather stubs which will put a "dirty" look down the carcass. This becomes it is unable to remove these feather stubs.

The food situation is very serious, says Mr. Travis, and producers cannot afford to feed any more of these heavy food consuming birds are longer than is absolutely necessary. Birds that are now well finished and plain fleshed should not be marketed for Thanksgiving, and from now until Christmas time, as the birds develop they should be dressed for market, not held for the final rush.

Harvest Help Needed

The harvest rush is on and help is needed. Alberta farmers are working long hours in an endeavour to get the crop off before frost. In many districts they are handicapped by a shortage of harvest help. Following the late harvest last year and cold weather it was impossible to obtain all the help needed from Eastern Canada. A quick clean up of the harvest fields will depend to some extent on volunteers from country districts.

Help is needed particularly in the areas around Edmonton, Stettler, Vermilion, Camrose, Red Deer, Daysland and coast districts between Edmonton and Calgary and other areas. Whether you can spare one day or a few days, Dominion Employment Service will be glad to refer you to farmers in your district who can use your assistance in threshing.

Electric Pig Brooder

"For the initial investment made, the electric pig brooder will pay the highest returns of almost any piece of equipment on the average farm." That was the opinion expressed recently by H. R. Martin, Dominion Agricultural Engineer for the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Mr Martin pointed out that 95% of pig losses occur during the first three or four days after weaning. "By the use of an electric pig brooder", he said, "These losses can be cut in half. The brooder prevents the young pigs from becoming chilled when harvested in cold weather, and it reduces the possibility of young pigs dying from crushing by shivering the pigs away from the sow."

The electric brooder consists of a small three cornered box placed in the corner of the farrowing pen. A light bulb with a reflector is set in the top of the box, and when the light is turned on, the heat from the lamp warms the air to the required temperature.

How to make and set up this pig brooder is told in the Alberta Department of Agriculture bulletin number 84. If you would like a copy, write to the Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture and ask for their bulletin, "The Home Made Electric Pig Brooder."

Letters To The Editor

Editor
Lacombe Globe.
Dear Sir

It was with considerable interest that I read the letter from W. G. Thompson published in your pages last week. Most of the letter, I think, is based on either ignorance or a complete blindness to the facts concerning both the new post office and the activities of the Memorial Recreation Centre.

Concerning the new town of Red Deer Mr Thompson states that "our workers will be employed on the terminal station, building some of the largest grain elevators and lumber and turning it into a city realize."

I am personally responsible for this action, and I will be only too pleased to talk it over with Mr Thompson at any time he cares to spend half an hour with me, sending to learn the facts are these:

1. The town was hired with the necessity of obtaining another elevator within the next two or three months.

2. Any possibility of moving back to the old town seems to me much unprovided because of the necessity of using the present two rooms there as well as the new one.

3. There is no need for added purposes of the present library room. It was imperative that the town council find room for library purposes.

And all this, mind you, without a levy months.

Having already committed myself action to a considerable expenditure here by purchasing the old Jim Ashe's favourites building to allow the new highway to go through, he felt that by spending more we would have something of value, I personally, will be quite proud.

The only other alternative would be to build a large, fairly new office which has been under consideration for some years, but building costs are prohibitive. Building costs are prohibitive by the probability of having to spend close to $200,000 on a local school within the next future, as educators, in the Lacombe municipal hospital of possibly $100,000 in order to cover necessities within the locality failure, our downtown streets are in urgent need of being surfaced, an understanding that might have been made this year with materials and labor been available.

With these facts before him, I feel that Mr Thompson would withdraw his statement of his letter.

Mr. Thompson's suggestion to spend "some twelve or fifteen thousand dollars" to erect "some-thing with a little better and classy" appears the fact that it would be impossible to build and equip a building for less than three dollars.

As to Mr Thompson's suggestion that the Memorial Recreation Centre appear to part Mercheants and Business men of this town have contributed generously, given considerable of money for such a building, others have given a lot of time and work in the past few years, and even now, plans are underway to raise considerable more money. This however, is not within the province of the council's activities.

Local publicity is the best remedy what we need in this town, constructive criticism is also welcomed. Let's get out, and half brake based on ignorance cannot and should not. Publicity like beers are better than it is today.

In closing, Mr Editor, let me point out that it is very easy for those who are not taxpayers to criticize all these improvements, but the men who pays the shot must be remembered by the council whose duty it is to look after his interests.

Sincerely yours
F. W. Stevens,
Lacombe

Mr., Mrs. N. N. Woody To Leave Lacombe Next Week

Two of Lacombe's well known old timers are leaving the district. They are 75-year-old Ned N. Woody and his wife who expect to pack up and leave next week for sunny California to 912 Lotus Valley Drive, Long Beach, by the water!

They will make their journey by plane, and if it can be arranged they hope to step off on the way at Wheeler, Kansas, and there see Harold. They won't be taking the company of Long Beach where live near-relatives reside, their grand-daughter, Mrs. John Brocock, who once attended school at Lacombe, and Mrs. Woody's sister, Mrs. Lovegra MacLeod, who once used to live here.

Mr. Woody's 33 years of life here have worked with activity. He came to Lacombe in 1910 with his wife and family from Long Beach. Since then, he has spent 13 years in the Men's clothing department of the former A. M. Campbell store, and the remainder of his 24 years on the hustle are well-known business of the Lacombe furniture store.

But it was before Mr. Woody [illegible] when he was younger that he took up one of his life. He, with his wife, were estimated 30 of the 48 states in the United States, making as a travelling quartet for almost 10 years.

In the Woody quartet were L. H. Woody, Ned's father, H. Woody, Ned's uncle; Horace Woody, Ned's brother, and Ned himself Mrs. Woody accompanied the quartet as a contralto with one of the most beautiful voices in the United States at that time—to use Ned's own words.

This group operated from 1910 the year Mr. Woody married Miss Sarah Margaret Waddell at Tees Creek, Ill., until the year 1920.

The quartet, singing such old favorites as "Remember how They Crossed," appeared before two United States presidents, Theodore Roosevelt and Benjamin Harrison.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Woody continued their singing careers after they settled in Lacombe. Around 1940-41, they taught music separate at five-day conventions in numerous Alberta towns. At one of these conventions there were more than 600 people singing their heads off at the local United Church, many of whom are still living and will remember the concert well.

So now Ned and Mrs. Woody will return to Long Beach, the place they left to take up residence in Lacombe. Ned confided that he and his wife are going to miss the town. And numerous friends in town are going to miss them.

Miss McKay was an Edmonton visitor over the week end.

Among those spending the week end at their respective homes were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Booth, and Gordon Hansen of Red Deer, and Miss Marie Hansen of Lacombe.

Unsettled weather has again halted harvest operations in the district much to the disappointment of us all.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs Keith Booth of Red Deer on the birth of a son at the Lacombe Hospital, Monday, October 6.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reed of Sara Wetaskiwin, B.C., are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. M. Brown.

Army Drive For Recruits Held Friday

Captain Newlands of the Princess Pats Light Infantry took a small contingent of the Lord's Work Forget memorial park last Friday that the Canadian army needed even on a number for the present time away The Princess Pats have 300 men overstrength and other units are similarly understaffed, he said.

The speech was given as part of a Canadian army recruiting drive taking place in all sections of the Dominion. Many people also through the streets of Lacombe presented the parade, with about 100 members of the Princess Pats, forty members of the Lacombe rifle corps, Lloyd, C. Edgington, and three boys pan carriers included in the parade.

Mayor T. Wilson introduced Captain Newlands with a short address. "I hope the points, "we must be prepared for war," Mayor Wilson said.

Captain Newlands said about 6,000 men were needed for the Canadian army. He went on to describe what army life was like, and what would be expected of those in peace-time forces. He gave a word in favor of the conscription in remembrance of those who died during the war. About 160 local residents looked on.

As far as is known, no local recruits have yet volunteered their services.

We Fools

We have a tendency, in our day-to-day methods until we can't see beyond the ends of our noses. It's the little things that make the big things but do the big things we should be losing our outlook on. Voluntary shortages, before it is a concrete reality, famine over the Western Hemisphere—compared to pre-war figures—are unthinkable. These are little points. What do they add up to? What individuals will the Western Hemisphere—as a whole—be left with at the end of the 20th century four hundred years hence?

It is an interesting game making these guesses up to 1947. We, the younger generation in this era, are bound to go through an inability to stand aside and judge history as it unfolds from childhood. No mind supervises it while it is being made at the present.

We have no doubt tired and fatigued, that the historians will dub us resentful-country lords if we don't straighten out our present country mess. We, Larry J. Park Rogers' generation, and those fools found two bloody wars through 1914-1945.

The long-time results of these wars brought a demolition of the strength of Great Britain. Britain was crippled as the number one financial world power by the United States, a young, fabulously-rich, highly-motivated democracy.

Across the Atlantic a short-lived merger of Western Europe to an end, to be replaced by a new heavy Communism. For after the war, Russia came into its own as a great world power. It assumed a mighty German stronghold about its border from the United States pushed to its side America, and Western Europe democracies with their African empires. Then two giants stood there glowering and slugged it out—verbally, geographically, politically.

Military, too?

The war was notable, above all else, for the development of the atomic bomb. It could be used most beneficially in peace-time industry but it was a fearful dreadful weapon of war . . . .

Here our sights falter. The picture does become an unresolved future, but we don't care to surmise further. We seem to be rushing like fools toward the dark abyss ahead, unreasonably committing little acts of folly that are charting a bloody course ahead. The historians beware the answers, but it within our power to change that destiny we and the other races preceded ourselves.

It's too early like. These are grim facts of life that aren't beyond a happy ending.

Everyone Suffers

One immediate result of the month-old packing house worker's strike has been the announced from Britain that Britain would not receive a week more ration would be halved starting October 19 which is deplorable. The shortage of many Canadian articles there no longer have here like the Mother Hubbard's cupboard, particularly in the larger cities where the meat supply is more dependent on the packing plants.

The breakage of the union leaders seems to be to rely on the pressure of public opinion to force employers' managements to come to terms with their demands for wage increases averaging 17 cents an hour. This strategy does not appear to be meeting with much success, as the majority of smaller Canadian centres continue to supply the consumer with his meat requirements by buying from non-striking plants or the former direct.

The strike continues to linger, and the unions are still on the losing side of the battle. But everyone loses by the strike, as in most other strikes. Non-packing packing plants are the losers, non-striking workers are the losers, the average Canadian consumer who can't purchase meat is the loser, even Britain is affected by the strike.

What further complicates the stalemate is the fact that the strikers have been sent to fit to take the law into their own hands, by completely ignoring the law of the land, by re-arranging their differences. By taking this stand the packers quite naturally feel a strong doubt in taking their word or any agreements that may be arrived at. In other words they feel the democracy that has given them the freedom they enjoy.

W. R. Carroll, superintendent of Canada Packers, said from Toronto last week that union leaders were not allowing the men and women to go back to work though, "We know that the great majority of our people would like to resume work. Members of their leaders would give them the word." Although that statement obviously favors management's view-point, it is nevertheless true. Before a worker's strike vote a smooth-tongued union official harangues skilfully before aroused crowd and completely warps their emotions to the feelings of the movement.

The original purpose of unions was fair an honorable one. They fought, quite rightfully, "sweat shop" conditions. They fought and won for higher, shorter hours, better wages, better working conditions. But one may well ask if unions as a whole—as we have not grown bigger than they should with these unnecessary post-war strikes that haven't the support of many of their members.

The first signs of reconciliation returned over the week end with the re-opening of several plants in the province of Quebec. No doubt the strike will eventually be settled in piece-meal fashion in other provinces, since efforts for a common-wide agreement broke down. And another highly unsatisfactory strike will be at an end.

Farming Notes

Clean Up The Gardens

At this season of the year many insects are working around for suitable spots in which to spend the winter. Practically every garden offers many opportunities for the insects to hibernate. Garden plots should be made as unattractive to hibernating insects as possible.

Many of the most injurious species of insects pass the winter adhering to the plants on which they were feeding when cold weather overtook them. Others even burrow down into the soil and hibernate at the base or in the centre of the plant. A few work their way down into the layer of dead vegetable matter which has collected upon an a definite manner, become a large portion of the soil in which to pass the winter. Such a thick growing plants the following spring.

Therefore, every effort should be made to discourage insects by keeping the garden free from all vegetable rubbish. Such rubbish should be picked and burned. Crop refuse lying on the ground should be raked up and destroyed. It is advisable, also, to burn over many fields, particularly pea patches, and breakfields in particular in fall any cage or hibernating insects.

It is a useful practice to collect and burn all insect egg masses or cocoons. These are frequently found on fruit trees, on fences, on fences, on garden furniture or even deposited on houses and out-buildings. Cleaning these up in the autumn will prevent many insects from coming to life in the spring.

Where possible, plough or dig up the garden in the fall, so as to expose hibernating insects to the cold to be killed by the severe cold in the winter.

Good Dairy Calves

As the cost of raising a pure calf is almost as great as raising a grade calf, the successful dairyman replaces his herd with calves from his best cows that have been bred to the highest quality bull obtainable.

Raising the dairy calf begins with the proper mated cow which has had proper feeding and care, particularly before freshening.

At the Lacombe Experimental Farm, Unicorn, says V. S. Logan, of the Animal Husbandry Division, the calf is removed from the dam immediately. The dam's first milk is fed to the calf for three days. The importance of feeding this colostrum in mind important as it contains both laxative and disease resistant elements.

Whole milk is fed for the first four to eight weeks and is gradually changed to skim milk over a two-week period. Less reduced calves are best on whole milk for a longer period than the healthier calves. Care is exercised not to overfeed calves, about one pound of milk for each ten pounds of body weight at the change-over from whole milk to skim milk is made. The butterfat replaced by oxidized flax seed meal which forms a jelly. All the calves should be given about three parts of ground rolled oats and two parts of peas are added in two flax seed meal oxidized, making a porridge to be added to the milk. The feeding of this porridge is increased gradually until at three to four months of age the calf is receiving a cupful to skim milk. At four weeks the calves are encouraged to eat a dry grain mixture of five parts ground oats, five parts bran, three parts oil cake meal, one part malt sprouts, one part coal salt. This is placed in a trough within easy reach. At five months a calf should be eating two pounds per day.

Only the best quality hay available should be fed to calves. Second cut alfalfa or fine clover cured makes a very good roughage. This is made available at about three weeks of age and fed in quantities that the calves will clean up. Succulent feeds such as silage or roots are fed, starting at about six months of age. Fresh clean water should be available at all times.

Local Rugby Squad Loses to Edmonton Eastwood High

Lacombe grid team students dropped a 12-5 decision to Edmonton Eastwood high school at a exhibition rugby game played at the local rugby field Monday afternoon. The local boys took from a 17-0 trouncing from the same team under the floodlights at Clark Stadium in Edmonton on Friday evening. Coach Hamilton says pupils as even losses his three quarters before coming to extra weight and experience. It was a game of many mistakes and plays which back-fired, but the two hundred plus spectators found lots to cheer about during the encounter.

Edmonton boys rushed to the scoring underway. On the first play of the game, after receiving the kick-off from Lacombe Herron broke through the centre of the local line and a fine bit of tackling by Lacombe halves and centres threw him down for a fifty yard loss. Edmonton failed to gain and then losing the run to immediately kicked to Herron but at full speed he dribbled it to Edmonton's goal line where Lacombe recovered it in the end zone for a touch-back. Under A Lacombe fumble which Edmonton recovered, however, and the Reds lost the ball on the 15 yard line.

The Eastwood High boys, one of the strongest squads of a heavyweight high school basketball league in Alberta, then put on a brilliant display of passing and running which worried a hard-fighting Lacombe team. Time and again the locals broke loose and ripped around the end for long gains, but the visitors' defence was tough and prevented on the first two touchdowns on Lacombe's twenty-five. Several fumbles by the locals lost for a single point.

The local boys got a new lease on life just before the end of the game when a loud Edmonton man went sailing through the air ten feet from the closest rifle butt-holder, and Lacombe recovered. The Lilli players, though, didn't have enough steam left to take the ball across the line-stripes before the whistle sent the Edmonton squad into an interrupted forward pass on the other's ten yard line and the game ended a play or two later.

There was no outstanding player on the Lacombe team, as they fought grimly to hold their heavier opponents. MacKenzie and Hopworth carried the ball to good purpose, and the line, where weight really tells, held the visitors well.

About That Hospital Wing

THE Globe has been attempting to get a cross-section of opinion on the proposed $150,000 hospital addition which will be voted on by ratepayers of this district in a few weeks. Some persons recognize the urgency of the situation as it is and are willing to help finance a new wing, the only contribution they feel bound to support their capacity now without building more hospital beds. Those point to well-to-do and responsible citizens of communities before final decisions are made. It would seem, however, that caring adequately for the sick is a "must," whether it hurts the pocketbook or not.

The attitude we do not agree with is that of the individual who says in effect, "our hospital takes too many patients from the east, outside the municipal district." True, we realize that in three patients of the hospital are now considered outside the municipal hospital district. But from the humanitarian point of view, sick people must be treated, no matter where they come from. Would they argue that the three municipals from Ponoka who were recently admitted to an accident room Lacombe be sent to Ponoka hospital, because they are not supporters of the Lacombe municipal hospital?

The same approach holds good for maternity cases, of course. The modern hospitalization of hospital district north to Clive, Tees, Bentley, Bittern Lake or Joffre are all good trading areas for Lacombe and are outside the district. If their sick were barred from the doors of the local hospital, where would they go? Neither, for to the east? Bad line, and distance is against it.

Her mind would be, of course, to have these cases, particularly in maternity, in the ward, immediately adjacent to the municipal district. But so far, the majority of these residents have displayed little or no intention to join the municipal hospital scheme. If they did join, it would raise the overall assessment, causing a corresponding decrease in the hospital mill rate.

That is a side issue ratepayers might bear in mind. The important point for all ratepayers to think about now is, a new wing or no?

Songs That Live

MOST hit tunes isn't all bust and love. Tunes and tunes are changing, and a quick glance at the popularity polls bear this trend out. Most folks could sing all yesteryear like "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now" are coming back to their own favorites all over again.

Backward we go, better and go back to the carefree days of the horse and carriage when he was given a fine hood of body's hit parade. Even Grandma took in her eye when she listens Rudy Vallee's "Maybe," another old-timer that is bringing the return of those and other tunes are the "Barber Shop" quartets. They are swinging their way back into the hearts of millions.

Hep cats of the day may still go for swing, but the "sweet and low music with the filling notes are in the limit's are seizing the imagination of a million kids' ears.

You can't keep the good old songs down.

Have We Democracy?

IS democracy on the way out? We in Ontario, stand to lose the cherished liberties are entitled to, as hard to win by refusing to exercise the free home which we earn by democratic rights. We can and surely destroy democracy ... ...

Small'd Wood

Mrs. Cameron and Mrs. Ernest Gaetz are sisters-in-law and Mrs. Sam Gaetz is Mrs. Ernest Gaetz's mother-in-law.

Faulty Judgment Causes Accident

Inquest Held Thursday Into Death of Vera Polushin

A jury of six local men headed by foreman Wm Jackson found at an inquest last Thursday afternoon at the Lacombe Funeral home that Vera Polushin, aged 23, died on October 13 from injuries sustained in an automobile accident that was caused by faulty judgment on the part of the driver, Ron Sparks, and a possible eye strain.

Sparks, a witness very reluctant to face Lacombe people, told the jury he was driving westward on highway 2A about 7:45 on the night of the accident and that he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car. He said he remembered very little prior to the accident as he sat behind the wheel following a party in Ponoka. The steering wheel of his mid-model car was found to be smashed, but the brakes were not jammed.

He was previously served and examined on his friend's party before the facts of the mishap from which he suffered serious injuries which resulted in an examination of his left eye.

The other two survivors at the time of the accident, Charles Heidt of Ponoka, aged 20, and Mrs. Vera Lee of the Ponoka district, 12 years of age reiterated everything they could remember before the accident.

Both occupants testified that the car seemed to have left the road so they reminded the driver to keep on the road. College Heights road. The two right refused to go along the shoulder of the highway off the hard surface for a moment or two, and then headed back into the road so quickly that the light automobile was tipping over, landing for the last time.

Hudkins, the warning, shortage of lights on the truck, and Lacombe's CKW, has organized to the rear of the car. Coroner Dr. Hodges, is the president Other officers are Len Bond, Vincent, B.C., vice-president; Mrs. Phillis, 10-16, Lethbridge, secretary; Verna Little, Consolidated, treasurer, and Yvonne Hall, Edmonton, B.C., publicity representative.

Robson, member from Toronto, is the president of the student association.

Dr. Hodges, Reinvellier, was called home last Friday because his father was very ill. Word of his death was due to injuries suffered in a runaway accident. Mrs. Hodges and children remained in the Lacombe district

Faith Exemplified

It was a wonderful tribute to a wonderful couple.

We refer to the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. B. McDonald at their reception held in the Church Hall on Wednesday night of last week.

If anyone is losing faith in human nature he should have been at that hall. It would have done his heart good. It was a beautiful demonstration of friendship, kindness and loyalty. Scores of people from this and troubled world is sadly in need of today.

The hall to attend the ceremonies to express the feelings of the assembly. It was also a distinct tribute to the community as a whole. It reflected the friendly atmosphere of the better side of life, as the McDonalds have been loyal and helpful citizens of people living in this community for a long period of years. It was a clear example of love returned in love.

Let us hasten the hour!

Storage Limitations

WITH harvesting operations suspended but one week by snow, farmers were given an opportunity to look over the crop situation. The outlook is none too rosy. Best estimates place the harvest at not more than 50% average, and the season is pretty far advanced to count on any long continuous dry spell. The snow cover which has been a blessing now for the farmer, but in spite of adverse weather, elevator agents report every grade of grain and every class of grain.

Inadequate storage facilities provide many grounds for purchasers. Up to late last week, only 1,000 bushels of all grades had been loaded at Lacombe's C.P.R. yards for eastern Canadian points, a total that is away down from normal years. Many have encountered no opportunity in a hurry to ship new wheat to Europe, the bulk of the freight cars are being diverted to Eastern points, at Montreal, where practically two trips can be made to carry one made to Alberta.

Will this policy leave the Alberta farmer holding the bag? Only a late harvest has saved him so far in Lacombe. In three elevators with a combined capacity of 250,000 bushels of grain are chock-full, and agents are turning back grain deliveries with advice to farmers to store their farm bins. Only 25% of this harvest's grain has been delivered to the elevators. It is doubtful if farmers of this district have sufficient granary space to store the remaining 75%.

If the farmers are themselves enough to complete threshing operations, where will they put the grain? The powers that be ought to have pressure quickly and effectively the present limited facilities of storage cars on wheels. Otherwise, there could be very easily be a serious bottleneck, and Big Von Winkle will wake up, as usual, too late.

Hallowe'en Canvassing

HALLOWE'EN, with its tradition of ghosts and hob goblins, and its later modification to a children's night of "trickst or treats" is in the process of another evolutionary change that is not all for the better. The most recent change in the observance of Hallowe'en appeared during the war, when the kinsmen Club had school children making "shell-fire" tickets to provide money for "Bundles for Britain" fund. Now under organizations, realizing the potential commercial possibilities of such voluntary canvassing, have taken up the idea. Children, it appears, will continue to canvass for money for charitable and other organizations come each Hallowe'en we might in the future.

The channeling of a purely children's night into a more collection of money marks a sad turn in the affairs of the younger generation. What grown-up of today cannot look back with a pang of nostalgia and humor to his or her entertainment on past Hallowe'ens, entertainment which entailed putting innocent tricks on different houses visited, crying "trick or treat" outside a neighbor's door, and leaving on empty-handed. Perhaps or some other small article dropped into a sugar or flour bag which became heavier and heavier until until full.

Admittedly, some Hallowe'en pranks in past years overstepped the bounds of discretion, some damage was actually done, and vandalism of the older youths reached serious heights in some centers. Such vandalism, however, could be kept in check by proper and effective police work. The evening was permanently a night for the usual and innocent youngsters an evening when, garbed in outlandish costumes and wearing masks, they could pick up small "treats".

The glamor and fun of Hallowe'en for these youngsters is fast disappearing. In its place is creeping a disguised and lack lustre canvass for funds for different organizations, organizations which, while worthwhile in themselves, are robbing the children of their evening's entertainment.

Let's give Hallowe'en back to the kids.

Soil Erosion

Soil Erosion, as the result of soil and fertility on the Prairie Farm, Ottawa, on the effect of soil erosion on crop production. Fire and loppe, with soil removal fertilizer were used on a seven-year test with barley.

With three inches of soil added to the surface soil, the fertilized plots yielded 48.6 bushels to the acre, and the unfertilized plot, 38.3 bushels. When the removed soil was replaced on the fertilized plots yielded 49.6 bushels, and the unfertilized 35.3 bushels. The third soil type, that with three inches of surface soil removed, yielded 30.1 bushels when fertilized, and 26.4 bushels when no fertilizer was used.

In spite of the fertilizer and loss removal, the yield decreased, though the fertilizer helped materially. All but one inch of the surface soil removed, were a yield of 29.1 bushels when fertilized, and 21.8 bushels without fertilizer. When all of the surface soil was removed, the yield dropped to 11.7 bushels on the fertilized plot, and was only 4.9 bushels on that without fertilizer.

Turkeys For Breeding Stock

Consumers are interested in the production of desirable meat qualities in turkeys and the cultivation of the consumer should be the objective of those who produce turkeys for market, says C. F. Wilcox, poultry husbandman, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, who is in charge of the turkey breeding work.

The fat and finish of market turkeys is chiefly a matter of feeding and management. The desirable market qualities, such as plumpness and conformation of breast, wing, and drumstick, result from inherited characteristics. Turkeys must be bred with a third thought in mind—the qualities of breeding birds.

Ideal breeding stock are plump bodied birds with long, deep breasts, broad backs and well rounded wings. Birds with these characteristics will transmit their desirable qualities to their young. Selection for this class of bird should be made at their eighteenth month of age. It is then very easy to detect undesirable qualities in the birds. Be sure that the final birds of the flock are selected from the best birds of the flock. Remember, as Smallwood, that selection should be made before they are matched. Balanced carriage, as indicated by fullness of breast, broad back, long body and neck, and kindly outline are also important characteristics. These qualities can only be noted as the birds are walking about the pen. Birds with over long necks and legs and wedge-shaped bodies should be rigidly culled.

Reflections of the Times

Better Comics Needed

There was when children's comic books were all that the name implied—colored little papers which pictured the humorous side of the life of children, clowns, tramps and animals—or of all kinds. Buster Brown, Tige, Foxhall, Jack Frost and Louie Clean were honored in comic and they provided plenty of rich material for enjoyments of the day.

What are we many of the comic book publishers offering the youngsters in this day and age. With a few creditable exceptions, our boys and girls are forced to under the most grotesque collection of low-life, villainous ever printed.

For too many weekly "little papers" contain chapter-a in the lives of super-human creatures who fly through the air, by non-living methods, and their bare hands and perform another feats which are as ridiculous that they leave the youth of our country endeavoring to draw a line between the possible and the impossible—and failing.

Week after week, criminals come to a end and in order to produce a "Crime Does Not Pay" edition. Then little trick of the trade apparently gives the comic book publishers an out for the rest of the issues next week's issue has a moral, but the moment is so flimsy that it is worthless.

Surely our boys and girls are entitled to choose their comics from a more wholesome collection than that which is offered to-day. Life is made up of a great deal more than monsters who value human life as so much sand, and it is up to fathers and mothers of our children to demand that they be offered something better in the future.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor,
Lacombe Globe,
Dear Sir,

I suppose I possess as my favourite letter in your issue of October 9, because I considered the idea I had was original. I say this because I believe that Lacombe generally attaining any international importance within the next few decades. But I am afraid my idea was misunderstood.

I did however address Mr. Burrows personally and received a very courteous reply for the action of cremation with the old families being interred in the cemetery, commercial and progressive period of history, has been allowed to grow to such proportions that it is a menace to the health of the inhabitants.

I have been taught that a community or nation only gets the kind of government it deserves, and that to gain a knowledge of the characteristics of a people, one only has to take a glance at its public representatives. They certainly present an exact replica of their electors. If apathy prevails among the people, evils of every description will flourish. Ignorance breeds ignorance, and indifference breeds indifference.

Yours truly,
W. G. Chapman
